HALVORSEN SHOWS LARGE DEATH RATE FROM DIPHTHERIA

Approximately Twelve Children Dead Each Day In Our State

Every year approximately 12 children die from diphtheria in our state. There are only 354 such deaths in the entire world. In 1922 there were over 10,000,000 cases of diphtheria. At the peak of the epidemic, which lasted till 1916, there were 10,000 cases each week. The administration of the state has decided to take this matter very seriously, and has issued a call for a return to the old time methods of handling this disease. The history of the past 10 years indicates that diphtheria is not a disease of the past, but is a disease of the future. The state is already making plans to have the whole state covered in 10 years. With the coming of this new disease, the state has decided to take immediate action.
