WOMEN'S THIRD PARTY CAUSES SPLIT IN VOTES ALTHOUGH CAMPUS CLAIMS VICTORY

Leaders of the Campus party claim a strong majority of all class standings are in the 'Red.' A few members are 'Green,' but the number is small. After the fall football game, the union building was turned red for the evening. A new member of the union is the 'Blue,' which is a new party formed by the 'Red.'

The purpose of this week's meeting was to organize the first party for the year. The meeting was held at the union building, and the members of the party were divided into three groups. Each group was assigned a specific task, and they all worked together to complete their tasks.

The 'Red' group was responsible for organizing the party's activities and events. They planned to hold a dance and a picnic, and they also decided to create a band to play at the events. The 'Red' group also planned to hold a rally to raise awareness about the party's goals.

The 'Green' group was responsible for promoting the party's message. They planned to hold a series of speeches and debates to discuss the party's platform. The 'Green' group also planned to distribute flyers and leaflets to attract new members.

The 'Blue' group was responsible for organizing the party's finances. They planned to hold a fundraiser to raise money for the party's activities and events. The 'Blue' group also planned to create a budget for the party's activities and events.

The party's leaders are planning to hold a meeting next week to discuss the party's progress and to plan for the future. They are also planning to hold a rally to raise awareness about the party's goals and to attract new members.

Present and Future Rallies

Last night was Idaho's first pep rally—if one should choose to call it. A group of only fair proportions was represented during the evening and the spirit this group displayed was at least fairly. Hardly more in the line of spirit and turmoil than that last night is described at the first pep rally of the year. However, as a warning and a little advice as to what the future should bring out, we've got to do better. In the three yell leaders, Idaho has an official group that is willing and able to spend time and work to uphold that old "Idaho Spirit" cry and "Idaho Fights" slogan.

In this year when our chances in football look to the better and only time one of us should do his best to help the team by backing the yell leaders. Harping on school spirit is an old thing but it still has its place in editorial columns and always will have. It takes only a little effort on our part to devote 15 minutes of every day of time to attend these rallies and very little effort to back the yell leaders, the team, and the band at the games.

Of course it is said that as soon as we win a major game the school spirit will also prosper, but remember—that spirit before hand did a lot toward winning a game.

We Have It. Let's Keep It.

Commendable indeed are the many improvements which have been effected on the university campus and buildings during this summer just passed. Shoebury and Smith buildings have been placed over a large area of the campus grounds, while several of the university buildings have been the object of great improvements. Due to the time, labor, and money that have been expended on these improvements they are of paramount importance. The University of Idaho should be congratulated for the provision of such a distinctive campus. The primary or initial purpose is to help you, the students, by giving you the only university. An average individual who reaches the fields of higher education usually attends but one college in his lifetime. The experience encountered during the four years of university life are memories coveted during future years. Thoughts of a building designed by pencil marks or of a lawn and shrubbery worn down and broken can do nothing but cause recollections of the next time that you are tempted to take a short-cut over some of these remember that it is your college and that it has been beautified primarily to make happier the lives of those who attend it.
