Housing Problem Solved

Lindley Hall Apts to Be Made Into Studio Apartments

48 Men

Emergency rental accommodations are being established to house the 48 per cent increase in enrollment at the university this year. The increase is the result of a $1.5 million increase in grants from the federal government to the university. The increase in enrollment is expected to continue for several years, according to university officials.

Action taken by the executive committee included the appointment of additional instructors and the establishment of additional classes. The action was taken in response to the increased demand for additional housing for incoming students.

The problem of finding enough housing for the increased enrollment is expected to be met by the construction of additional dormitories and the expansion of existing dormitories.

Because of the fact that the university is already struggling to accommodate the student body on a very limited budget, the increased enrollment will require a major expansion of the facilities. The need for the expansion cannot be met without additional funding and the employment of additional instructors and facilities personnel.

Idaho Dad's Day

Saturday, October 6, the members of the student body of the university will be hosts to their dads who are invited to attend the university's first annual "Dad's Day" sponsored by the association. We take this opportunity to urge every student who has a parent living within driving distance of Moscow for the weekend to write, wire, or phone them immediately and secure their parent's permission to be on campus next Saturday.

Registration of parents must be made at the student center on Saturday afternoon during the working day. Tickets will be available at the center for all those with them at the center at 15 cents. Tickets will also be available for sale at the center at 15 cents, but we must ask that they be purchased in exact amount. This particular day is set aside for the dads, but we have heard it noted around recently that there might be a day set aside for a chance, this coming weekend. Come on down for the game, dads! Bring mother along if she'll come, but see you're here for Idaho's Dad's Day.

A Coaches Creed

(The following are the words of the long Andrew L. "Andy" Smith, former football coach at California. In this statement, one made by him at one time to the members of the staff, a letter which was once taken to heart by many of us.—Editor)

Andy Smith

Any man coming out for football must be real, from not coming out for sellin' gain so much as he help produce the best possible varsity team on the university that goes on the battle of whether or not they belong to the eleven men who have had a hand in making the team. So, therefore, you should cooperate in a most harmonious manner in develop- ing the team.

Every booster, every coach, every fan must be real. The days are gone when you do anything possible to improve yourself. Do not get the "awful" idea that you can make the team. You must not "crab" or "suck," or be discouraged if you happen to be on the second or third. If you are as yourself, first of all examine yourself. Do you have to put yourself into the confidence of the coaches and have a talk; maybe they can put you straight. This harmonious cooperation will do more to make you and your varsity a success than any physical ability you may possess. Remember the four mental qualifications which will make yourself a success—Aggressive-ness, Obedience, Concentration, and Determination, and finally the greatest feature of a team's success, Harmonious Cooperation.

Apply this policy to your college work and your life after leaving college.—Daily Californian.

Huskers Use Everything To Break Down Idaho's Defense In Second Half, Netting 13-0 Score

Washington Subdues Stubb- lones, Idaho Vandals as First Half Deadlock

13 at 60 field. The 13 points Washington had to score to tie the Idaho game was six, it seemed. The score was 13-0, and the Washington defense was maintained. There was only one chance, however, for the Vandals to score in the second half, and that came in the third quarter. But the Vandals were stopped on the 10-yard line, and the score remained 13-0.

The Vandals made several attempts to score in the second half. They had the ball on the Washington 42-yard line and were within striking distance of the end zone. But the Vandals failed to score, and the game ended in a tie.
