The University of Idaho Orators

The University of Idaho Orators have forfeited the right to receive the State Championship for the next fall. A. W. C. recently lost one of their women's debates to Idaho State, and Idaho State did not meet the qualifications of the American Debating Association. As a result, Idaho State will be allowed to compete in the national debates this year, and the University of Idaho Orators will not.

We would like to congratulate the women's debating team of Idaho State. They have performed well in their recentdebates and are a strong contender for the national championship. We hope they will continue to perform at a high level and represent our university well.

As for the University of Idaho Orators, we encourage them to focus on improving their debating skills and taking on new challenges. We believe that they have the potential to achieve great things and look forward to watching their progress.

The University of Idaho Orators have had a long and successful history of debating, and we are proud of their achievements. We wish them all the best in their future endeavors and encourage them to keep striving for excellence.

We would also like to thank our readers for their support and engagement with our work. We strive to provide quality content that is informative and engaging, and we hope that you have enjoyed this article.

Thank you for reading, and we look forward to sharing more updates and insights with you in the future.

First "Gripper"

In this issue of The Argonaut appears a letter under the heading, "Grins and Gripes to the Editor," which reaches the editors' desk. It is intended to find its way to the columns of the paper. The writer, Mr. J. M. know that his organization is called "The Idaho Rectangular Grin and Gripes" and its objects are to bring to the public's attention the social and cultural life of the university and its environs, and that the editors of The Argonaut are not responsible for the content of this column.

The "Gripper" letter is not being written as a statement of fact, but as an expression of feeling. It is intended to make people aware of the fact that the university is not all work and no play. It is intended to bring to the attention of the university community the social and cultural activities taking place on campus. It is intended to make people aware that there is more to the university than just the classroom and the library. It is intended to bring to the attention of the public the fact that the university is a community and that its members should be aware of the activities taking place on campus. It is intended to make people aware that the university is a place where people can have fun and where they can learn. It is intended to make people aware that the university is a place where people can socialize and where they can make friends. It is intended to make people aware that the university is a place where people can have a good time and where they can enjoy themselves. It is intended to make people aware that the university is a place where people can have a good time and where they can enjoy themselves. Mortar Board "Dine" Drive For Orphans

Is Now Underway

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, is conducting its annual "Dine" drive to raise money for the orphans in Alpha Xi Delta house. Members of the group, including new members, are not too enthusiastic but have not given up hope. Alpha Xi Delta house is the only house which has not had a "Dine" in the last three years.

BOISE STATEMEN

The football team is in the midst of a three-game winning streak and is looking to continue its success in the upcoming season. The Boise State University football team is scheduled to play against the University of Idaho on Saturday, October 15th, at Bronco Stadium. The game is expected to be a close contest, with both teams having strong offenses and defenses. The Boise State defense will be tested against the high-scoring Idaho offense, while the Boise State offense will face the stingy Idaho defense. Despite the challenges, the Boise State team is confident and ready to take on the challenge. The Boise State University football team is looking to extend its winning streak and secure another victory against the University of Idaho. The game is sure to be a thrilling contest, and fans are excited to watch the Boise State team in action.
