Lola Evans campaigns for injured Governor

By Douglas Jones
Editor

Gov. John Evans' campaign is off and hopping in Latah county after yesterday's visit by his wife, Lola, and handwritten Church, wife of the late U.S. Senator Frank Gov. Evans is recovering at his home in Boise from a recent ankle injury.

"He looks good, is very, and is looking forward to being out of the hospital," Lola Evans said before 60 supporters who gathered at the Moscow Municipal Airport.

Church, who had earlier indicated that she might run in the U.S. Senate seat now occupied by Steve Symms, criticized the Reagan administration and the Republican Senate majority as "never seeing a weapons system they didn't like or a coffee cup or toilet seat they couldn't afford."

"She also said that Reagan's and Symms' observed solution to the U.S. farm crisis is one of "keeping the grain and exporting the farmers."

Church, whose husband, a four-term Democratic Senator, was defeated by Symms in the 1980 senatorial race, said she supports Gov. Evans' campaign because he has been a "strait and fair Governor" in all his dealings with the people of Idaho.

"John Evans will work on both sides of the aisle and won't just work with a fringe group," Church said.

Church also criticized Symms' inability "to pass any bill that makes any difference to Idaho."

Lola Evans, who spoke to the group after Church, said that she thought it was a "good idea," that their niece, Paula Evans, a UI student had been elected to the ASUE Senate last fall.

"This campaign will offer a clear choice between a fourth-generation Idahoan with a long record of leadership for Idaho, and a politician who has succumbed to Potomac fever and delivers nothing but empty rhetoric and broken promises," the governor's wife said.

Evans told the supporters that the Governor's "first and highest priority," while in the Senate would be to "reduce the deficit and bring the federal budget into balance."

Later, Evans told the Argonaut that she did not feel that her husband's opponent had hurt his image. "Anybody can fall on icy roads," she said. "If anything, it has brought us all closer together and showed us that we are good in a fight for the kick-off."

She also said the Governor would stay off the campaign trail for at least another three weeks.

In another interview Church said she sees Symms facing a similar disqualification from the Idaho voters that her husband faced in 1980. "Although President Reagan's majority has not wavered, Idahoans are beginning to be concerned about whether or not his programs are good for Idaho."

"It's a new ball game," she said.

SB 1243: Tuition defining bill taking first step today

By Julie Fromshuh
Legislative Correspondent

BOISE-The Idaho Legislature Senate Education Committee took the first steps in defining tuition yesterday when it heard testimony on the proposal.

Senate Bill 1243 states that the Legislature must decide the difference between tuition and institutional Maintenance Fees paid by university students in Idaho.

According to Charles McQuillan, executive director of the Idaho State Board of Education, many non-matriculation fees can be defined as tuition. These include building maintenance and social fees.

"We're just attempting to define what tuition is and what it isn't," he said.

McQuillan said the "board will be looking at fees and the consequences of Gramm-Rudman to see how they will affect the students."

The Board has been trying to define tuition for over a year. This bill is similar to one proposed by the Board during the 1983 legislative session.

"The Board is trying to protect the definition of fees," McQuillan said.

McQuillan says that because there is no statutory definition of tuition the Board can be sued on "technicalities" by students.

This bill has unanimous support from the State Board of Regents and many others including lobbyist from Boise State University.

Boise, WYLY, ASUI lobbyist who testified at the meeting, stated that "students should pay for academic and administrative costs which could be defined as "matriculation fees" for tuition. UI students currently pay a $245 Institutional Maintenance Fee (matriculation fee) which is $115 out of the $360 that the State Board's proposed definition could be defined as tuition.

Wiley also stated at the meeting that, as a lobbyist for ASUI, he is afraid of the escalation of proposed tuition costs. These costs were $10 for UI students in '80 and have risen to $285 as of '86.

Currently, Idaho higher education students pay 15.3 percent of the cost of their education, Sen. Lynn Tominga, R-Paul, and a former ASUI Pres., stated at the meeting that the percentage students pay for education could rise to 51 percent with the Board's current definition of tuition.

McQuillan said that he "did not expect the possible 51 percent expansion."

The Senate Education committee which has 9 members is keeping an "open mind" on the issue of tuition and will reconvene today to continue to hear testimony.

The members of the committee include Chairman Terry Sweitzer, R-Cataldo, Laird Nol, R-Kimberly, J.L. Thorne, R-Nampa, Rod Beck, R-Boise, Lynn Tominga, R-Paul, Jerry Twigg, R-Boulder, Bruce Sweeny, D-Lewiston, Gall Bray, D-Boise, Mary Reed, D-Coeur d'Alene.
Peace Corps reps to be on campus

Peace Corps representatives will be on campus Jan. 29 and 30 with applications and information on openings that begin in the next four to 12 months in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Pacific. Recruiters will be located at an information table in the Library Entrance from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days, with scheduled interviews to take place Feb. 12 and 13.

The Peace Corps is celebrating its 25th anniversary and has undergone a resurgence in the last four years, with nearly 6,000 volunteers currently serving in 62 developing countries. If accepted into the organization, volunteers spend their first three months in an intensive cross-cultural and language training program, often living with a host-country family.

Volunteers receive transportation to and from their country of assignment, a monthly living allowance, medical and dental care, and a cash readjustment allowance of $4,200 paid at the end of their two-year assignment. Volunteers can be married or single, but must have no dependents. There is no upper age limit.

Any inquiries about the program may be made to Patrick Evans, UI Peace Corps campus coordinator, who can be contacted through the Career Planning and Placement Office in Brink Hall.

Women slaves said to exist

The UI Women's Center is sponsoring "White Slavery in Today's World" today at 12:30 p.m. in the Women's Center lounge.

Carol Bollinger-Sasaki, executive director of Helping Ourselves Means Education and Stopping Abuse Via Education, will discuss white slavery in Third World countries, particularly India and Thailand, where she has traveled and worked and where she says women are forced into prostitution.

Last day to register

The last day for late registration is Tuesday, January 28, 1986. Students who fail to register by this date must pay a $5 petition fee, successfully petition the Academic Dean's Council Petitions Subcommittee, and pay a $50 late registration fee.

Students who have not finalized registration by payment of fees should be aware that Jan. 28 is the deadline for payment. After this date registration will be cancelled and names removed from all official class lists. Re-registration will require the above petition process.

Jan. 28 is also the last day to add a course or change course sections, change to or from pass/fail basis, change to or from audit basis, and the last day to reduce the number of credits in a course.

Russian arms evaluated in classroom

UI Continuing Education is offering a course in evaluating new Russian arms control proposals along with the basics of nuclear arms control. The course will be taught by several UI professors in different fields.

Physics professors Philip Deutchmann, Lawrence Johnston and Larry Davis will offer pro and con discussions of scientific issues surrounding "SALT III" or "SALT IV.

Political implication of the issues will be discussed by political science professor Aans Yoder.

The non-credit course will meet each Thursday, 7:30-9 p.m., Jan. 30 to Feb. 27. There is a $9 registration fee. For more information, or to preregister contact University Continuing Education, telephone 885-6486.

You can help us raise the colorectal cancer cure rate.

No one faces cancer alone.

"AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY"

Peace Corps volunteers have a tradition of sharing their knowledge and skills with the people of the developing nations. They're individuals who combine a special sense of adventure with a desire to help other people.

Former volunteers will confirm that two years in the Peace Corps can mean personal growth, cross-cultural experiences, and a sense of satisfaction found nowhere else. It isn't easy, and it isn't for everyone, but since 1961 nearly 100,000 Americans have made the commitment and found it to be one of the central events in their lives.

Our representatives will be pleased to discuss with you the opportunities beginning in the next 3-12 months in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Pacific.

The Toughest Job You'll Ever Love

INFORMATION TABLE:
Wed.-Thurs., Jan 29-30
Library Entrance
9 a.m.-4 p.m.
EVENING FILMS & SEMINARS:
Wed., Jan. 29
7:30 p.m., SUB, Ee-Da-He Room
Film "The Toughest Job"
Thurs., Jan. 30
5:00 p.m., SUB, Ee-Da-He Room
"Agriculture Development in Africa"

AFTERNOON FILM & SEMINAR
Wed., Jan 29
12:30 p.m.
"The Toughest Job"

SCHEDULED INTERVIEWS:
Jan. 29-30
Career Planning & Placement Office, Brink Hall
Sign up in advance, bring your completed application to the interview.

CATCH YOUR SCHMIDT AT SUDS-N-SODA
$14 Six Pack
$3.50 12-Pack
Expires Feb. 3, 1986

This Week's Keg Special

BUD/BUD LIGHT $37
115 E. 8th
* please call ahead for kicks *
MOSCOW 882-8882

All You
Can Eat!

Spaghetti - Salad Bar - Garlic Bread
$3.75
Sunday's from 1-8 p.m.
Free pop with this ad
Just down the road from Rathskellers
WSU cheerleader wins $353,000
She says lack of training destroyed her career

With the WCU yell squad destroyed by her ballad career, the WCU football coach, Kirk, was awarded $353,000. The amount was reduced to $350,000 after the jury found the cheerleaders negligent for the accident.

The Daily Evergreen
A former WSU cheerleader, who was injured while performing a stunt, was awarded $350,000 by a Spokane County Superior Court Friday.

Kathleen Kirk, 28, was seeking $1,050,000 from WSU's Board of Regents and ASWSU for pain, suffering and medical costs resulting from her injury.

However, after eight and a half hours of deliberations over two days, the jury awarded Kirk $484,000. The amount was reduced to $350,000 after the members decided Kirk was 27 percent negligent.

Kirk claimed in her suit that a 1978 accident while practicing a stunt resulted in $2,500. To be eligible for the award, submitted articles must be published in the secular media.

NASA images shown
Highlights of NASA's Voyager 2 encounter with the planet Uranus and the shuttle mission activities will be transmitted via satellite and shown on Cable Channel 9 at 6 p.m. tonight. Significant scientific findings of the mission will be reported, including selected segments of the real-time images from the Voyager 2 cameras.

"The chief value in going to college is that it's the only way to learn it doesn't really matter." ——George Edwin Howes
Editorial

Wazuu got a “rah” deal

Pity poor Kathleen Kirk. Cheerleading at Washington State ruined her career in ballet and now she is only $350,000 richer because the Spokane County Court jury thought that she was 27 percent at fault, losing the rest of her $1,050,000 claim.

This suit proved that any person involved in a team sport, be it cheerleading to archery, can sue their university if they can prove that it prevented them from achieving the ultimate in their careers.

Now it will be more than likely that cheerleading will be covered as an athletic sport by the school, so people won’t be ruined and the boom won’t be able to put an educational institution into financial dire straits.

It’s difficult to comprehend how a jury can justify awarding such a large sum of money to someone who had done the damage to a stunt (a routine should stand) before and was dizzy from dehydration while dieting to get that ballerina-like figure. She was also wearing shoes not recommended for cheerleading.

Come to think of it, cheerleading is a function of the athletic department, since they travel to games and are part of the “team sport.” The UI considers its cheerleaders to be part of athletics, and are covered by medical insurance. But what will happen now that any Tom, Dick or Kathleen can sue for millions because they can’t use their elbow or toe to full capacity?

Seattle Times sports editor Bob Bohannon made an old enough to make mature decisions, so they should not engage in an activity that may endanger their future. Cheerleading is a dangerous sport such as when performing physical tricks when planning on having a career in ballet?

If one partakes in intramural badminton and thinks they have a promising career in professional chess, does one have the right to sue their financially-burdened university if they smash their finger on an overhead slam? One should not believe so.

This publicity may either open up doors to many more lawsuits and higher insurance costs for an upper level to be the point at which schools will learn to cover their brusied families.

By the way Mr. Gibb, during intramural volleyball, one reporter hurt herself when she went up for a spike, and now she can’t type in her stories. Gee, her career at the Argonaut is ruined. She said she’ll see you in court. — Kathy McCanlies

The Choice is Yours

Victoria Seever

Columnist

I’m a sucker for surveys. I love it when someone sends out a survey for opinions before they feed you a pile of statistics. And those little boxes are great fun, especially with the usual five choices: Agree, Somewhat Agree, I Don’t Know, Disagree, and I Don’t Gonna Be Bomerks To Even Ask.

The problem is I often want to rewrite the question first because they’re too vague, too biased or too simplistic. But I’m thinking of politicians again, who are specifically versed in that art of appealing to all people, and now, one can see the horse midstream at the drop of a campaign hat. I always feel compelled to check someone’s teeth when deciphering a political questionnaire.

As luck has it, I get two surveys the other day. One was from Rep. Larry Craig. Tactfully, he acknowledges problems "faces in the room"—surveys with "yes or no vote" provided. However, in these thirteen questions, that’s how we’re to vote — without benefit of an inside savvy for political trade-offs, rider amendments, committee angles, party dictates, and more than one input from surveys than you and me.

Moreover, unless we’re comprehensively- informed on the topic, let alone the five brief summaries preceding these questions can only trigger reactions akin to the convenience and emotionalism of surveys, or personal opinion. For more than a depth of perception is epitomized by the side question under Defense. It asks whether we should share “Star Shield” with the Soviets.

How are arms escalation and nuclear holocaust, horrendous budget overruns, technology that’s light years away, and in general, Rogers’ perception that I haven’t in this survey even been asked if I want to go ahead with. As presented, the issue is too vague, the summary is too biased, and the question is too simplistic.

The second survey came via a phone call and was about mandatory seat belts and air bags. There were twice the questions with five possible choices on a topic limited to a reasonable scope. I still found myself verbally fixing them up, despite the design for sparing the average American some conspicuous clutter.

In fact, one of the latter questions brought up the essential conflict. If seat belts save lives, where do you draw the line on the rights to individual choice? And how do you enforce the line you’ve drawn? Like I said to the man, are you going to put a policeman at every stop sign to check every third car for a buckled-up driver?

That’s the sticky wicket with a democracy and individual rights. All those choices are bound to opt for a few noses being ruffled to someone else. Even that’s happening to someone else. Even better men don’t judge headgear by appearance.

But choice isn’t only license. It’s responsibility to buckle every man alive but individual responsibility — to educate the public, provide monetary or social incentive, and to make a choice or the no-vote is a wrong vote variety.

No one can legislate an automatic pilot for you. Don’t let them get away with a survey that’s too ambiguous to carry any real weight. Write in the margins and make them read your chicken scratch before they get to the boxes. Or stamp “null and void” across the thing and affix a letter of what you really think and want. Exchange ideas. Don’t just comply.

What have you got to lose except choice itself?

letters

Declaration of war

Dear Editor:
The Lady Vandal Basketball Team is DECLARING WAR and needs the help of the community, especially UI students, faculty, and fans, because the Whitworth women’s basketball team is coming to town on Friday, Jan. 31. All tickets will be priced at $8.00 with all UI students free with valid ID. All seats will be general admission. Special prizes will be presented at the half time, including a video cassette recorder. We need to try to hit 6,000, and we can’t possibly do that without 3,000 or 4,000 UI students, alumni, faculty, and fans.

We are smiling angels, and we hope that you will bring your support and look forward to a great crowd on Friday, Jan. 31.

Kathy Clark

The snake pit

Dear Editor:
Who do they think they are, those arrogant, stingy, selfish pigs in Boise? Why, for two cents we’d form our own state up here in North Idaho and really show them how we feel.

Nothing good ever comes out of that snake pit. Imagine how much nicer a space Moscow would be without the state number of the writer. Proof of identity will be needed at time of submission. Letters received by mail will not be run unless confirmation of authorship is made. Names of writers will be withheld. Letters may be edited for mechanical and spelling errors. The Idaho Argonaut reserves the right to refuse to publish any letter.

LETTERS POLICY: The Idaho Argonaut will accept letters for the editor until noon on the day prior to publication. They should be limited to one page in length, typed, and double-spaced. For subjects requiring greater exposition, arrangements may be made with the editor. Letters must be signed in ink, and include the name, address, and phone.
government's influence. That damn UI wouldn't be hogging the countryside and we could end that parking lot all the way to the golf course.

By God, now that the Lewiston and Whitewater hill projects are complete, let's do it. Let's get off our duffs and show 'em. North Idaho is more than a state of mind. There are a few people already up here who know. We'll be the leaders of our government.

Ron Wilper

Trusting D.J.

Dear Editor: RUOK. Back near the end of November I got a call from a listener who liked what I was playing and asked if she could borrow two of my albums. She did and they have still not been returned. They were Ralph McTell’s “Streets of London” and Arlo Guthrie’s “Alice’s Restaurant.”

I will be leaving for the Peace Corps soon. Could she please return these albums to RUOK or me. I will gladly pick them up.

My phone number is 882-0193.

Charlie Brown

Amused liberal

I just read Kirk Nelson’s “Requiem for the Liberals,” where did you find this gem? His premise that, now wait, I don’t want to get this wrong, “a minimum use of logic” will prove the objective nature of good and bad, was remarkable. I guess you’d need to use more than the minimum to discover the difference between good and bad depends on your point of view. Let’s hear more from Kirk.

Ron Wilper

Bowlers ignored

Dear President Gibb: The Jan. 21 issue of the Argonaut took the last straw in my hat. I am now going to complain. Enclosed is an application designed by the Argonaut promoting the UI Invitational tournament for this weekend. Please note the margin and inverted date. This is downright embarrassing, not only for the Argonaut staff but for Leo Stephens, the Vandals’ coach and Games Area Manager.

In the past years articles have been submitted to the sports editor giving the results from tournaments the team had bowled in. Only once last season did the results get printed, and then with considerable editing. The team has given up submitting articles since they are ignored.

The Vandals’ took first place during the UI Invitational tournament last spring and were photographed by a staff member from the Gem newspaper. The presentation of the tournament was far below the Argonaut’s and nothing, even not even a team photo, was put in the Gem.

The Vandals bowling team represents this University in collegiate competition throughout the northwest and it is unfair that they go unnoticed. Did you know the open and women’s teams represented this campus at Las Vegas over Christmas break?

I hope the sports editor says he has limited space and then justifies a report on the Dusty Leutins, the golf and swimming teams, and intramurals? I certainly hope this letter will force the Argonaut to put aside the politics they play in favor of illustrating this University in its entirety.

Ron Wilper

Simple logic

Dear Editor: With regard to Kirk Nelson’s “Requiem for the Liberals,” I would like to express this opinion. I do not appreciate his “simple logic.” Kirk Nelson’s logic in the article “Requiem for the Liberals” is fallacious. His argument is false. See if you agree with me.

Nelson’s implicit argument can be explicitly stated as:

1) Prove: The “liberal argument” is innately false.
2) Define Liberal: Those who selectively apply a moral test to others, and are thereby indignant.
3) Define Morality: A standard of human conduct which is universal regardless of space or time.

4) Argument: A Liberal In-dig-nation over South African apartheid conditions. Prior to the application of a moral test and is therefore phony because it (a) defies the “great evil.” B) Define the “Greatest Evil” as Zaire, U.S.A., and North Korea: all places with worse human rights records than South Africa.

C) Examine “The Truth”: “South Africa pays more workers higher wages anywhere else in Africa and the standard of living of the black worker is higher than anywhere else in Africa... thousands of workers are being driven further to travel into South Africa to work, hardly anything one would do if they were being abused.” D) Conclude that within the context of Africa, South Africa is not a bad place for blacks, and in fact many blacks would willingly move there.

This argument is not simple, and it certainly is not logical. To begin with (C), (D) and (E) clearly constitute a selective application of a moral test, and Nelson’s implication, morality is relative to the

See Letters, page 15

Phonathon success

Dear Editor: After six weeks of calling University of Idaho alumni, the 1985 Annual Fund Phonathon could be described as nothing less than exceptionally successful. Student callers raised over $200,000—well above the projected goal of $150,000.

Dollars raised from the phonathon will be used for scholarships, purchase of lab equipment, and in academic areas which are underfunded. A few UI living groups and dormitory groups and dollar amounts raised (1) Kappa Alpha, 919,762, (2) Phi Gamma Delta, 16,375, (3) Sigma Chi, 81,460, (4) Kappa Alpha Theta, 8,970. (5) Alpha Tau Omega $5,851. (6) Houston Hall, $6,606.

Many thanks to everyone who participated. All living groups who participated along with dollar amounts raised are listed below.

Alpha Chi Omega $3,835
Alpha Phi $3,968
Delta Phi $4,961
Delta Theta Pi $5,679
Campbell Hall $5,210
Delta Chi $11,408
Delta Delta Delta $7,578
Delta Delta Delta $4,330

See Letters, page 16

Fitess Unlimited: THE HEALTH CLUB!
Why fight the crowds at the Dome?
Come down on to Fitness Unlimited!

We Offer:
- Dynacam equipment
- Free weights
- Aerobics
- Personalized programs
- Jaccuzzi
- Sauna
- Tanning beds
- Martial Arts

Ask about our Student Special!
4 months for the price of three!

Offer expires 1/31/86
Call Now 882-1515
302 S. Main - David's Center
Student Travel:
Spirit of adventure takes UI students to diverse places

Editor’s note: This is the first part of a story on how to select a study program in Europe. The second part will run in Friday’s Argonaut.

By Krist Nelson
For the Argonaut

Andrea Epeldi arrived in a small city in central Spain with only a letter from university officials saying they were happy she was interested in attending the University of Salamanca. “It was very brief. It left things pretty much up in the air,” said Epeldi, who had written the university earlier that spring after her professor recommended the school.

No formal letter of acceptance, no registration information—the UI senior hadn’t even seen the university bulletin.

Epeldi closely guarded the scrap of paper that was her only link to the university. “I had it right next to my passport,” said Epeldi, who attended school in Salamanca during the 1983-84 school year. After being told by school officials that the term didn’t begin for two weeks, Epeldi, who already spoke Spanish competently, found a cheap hotel and spent the interim wandering the streets and talking to people about the town’s various private colleges and the university. She finally decided not to attend the university at all, instead enrolling in “El Colegio de Espana,” a small private college.

Epeldi answered an ad and ended up living with three female students, all Spanish. Her roommates taught her the Spanish words necessary for housekeeping, how to keep the Spaniard’s late hours and still function, and how to eat tapas, the hors d’oeuvres served at See Travel, page 14.

U of I Meat Lab has special Super-Saver prices

- Lean Ground Beef ..................... .135
- Pork Bundles ......................... .150
- Beef Bundles ......................... .170
- German Sausage ...................... .2.00
- Salami ................................... .25
- Pepperoni .............................. .2.00

- Many more items available. All products guaranteed.
  Open noon hours.

Call 888-6727 for further information.

Are You Good Enough To Join The Best In The Nuclear Field?

The Navy operates the most advanced nuclear equipment in the world. Including more than half the nuclear reactors in America. The men who maintain and operate those reactors have to be the best. That’s why officers in the Nuclear Navy get the most extensive and sophisticated training in the world.

College juniors and seniors who qualify for the program can earn over $900 a month while still in school.

After graduation, as a Navy officer, you receive a year of graduate-level training unavailable anywhere else at any price. You become a highly trained member of an elite group with vital responsibilities and growing career potential.

To qualify, you must be a U.S. citizen between 19 and 27 years of age, working toward or having earned a bachelor’s or master’s degree. You must also have completed a minimum of one year each of calculus and calculus-based physics with a “B” average or better.

You can submit an application as soon as you’ve completed your sophomore year in college. If you think you’re good enough to join the best in the nuclear field, find out. Call Navy Officers Get Responsibility Fast.
By Kathy McConilie
Sports Editor

Idaho men's basketball is gaining the respect from Big Sky conference coaches that had been lacking in the past three years of Bill Trumbo's reign.

Last Friday and Saturday night the Vandals played with confidence and patience that had lacked in most of their previous games this season. Friday night in the Kibble Dome the crowd got a taste of great basketball as the UI hoosiers outplayed the Montana Grizzlies "in every phase," according to UM coach Mike Montgomery.

"UI deserved to win," lamented Montana coach Montgomery after the over-looked Vandals took the Griz for a 70-64 win. "They made things happen.

Saturday night looked as though it might be a repeat of another big Big Sky victory over Montana State when the Vandals kept the Bobcats at bay throughout most of the game. A misunderstanding on a crucial defensive play and a chill-down of free throw shooting kept the Vandals from being the only conference team to win both of their weekend games.

After Montana State's last-second 69-70 win over the Vandals, MSU coach Stu Starner spoke as though he expected Idaho to win the game. "It was a strange game," he said. "At times I felt they [Idaho] were in total control of the game." Starner admired Idaho's improved play, and singled out forward Tom Stalick. "Idaho's playing very good basketball. They're shooting with confidence, and Stalick's proving he's one of the best inside men."

Idaho coach Bill Trumbo called Friday night's game "the biggest win since I've been here," after the Vandals pulled off one of the greatest Big Sky Conference upsets of the 1985-86 season by defeating favorite University of Montana 70-64.

"This isn't magic, but it's reinforcement," said the man who had shouted and waved his lucky black towel in the Kibble Dome as if he had been bestowed a miracle in front of 2,400 fans. Credit much of the Vandals success to forward Tom Stalick, who had to play, and play he did, against one of the premier players to come from the Big Sky - Larry Krystkowiak. Stalick helped keep the All-American candidate from dominating the offensive game by pulling down 12 rebounds, just one shy of Krystkowiak. The Idaho forward outscored "Kryko," 13 to 10.

Once Idaho guard Ken Luckett got his wheels rolling he poured in 24 points, second only to Grizzly Todd Powell's 26.

Although Greek initiation week took a toll on attendance, the non-fraternal fans came out in larger numbers than usual to help the Vandals to their first Big Sky win since a victory over Idaho State February 3, 1985.

"It was fun to see them out," Idaho coach Trumbo said about the badly-needed fan support. "We haven't played well enough to get the attention of the fans," he said, and "we haven't excited the interest of the people yet."

Midway through Saturday night's game against Montana State, Idaho compiled up to a 12 point lead over the Bobcats with solid shooting and strong defensive efforts. The half court press caused most of MSU's 10 turnovers and prevented them from getting close to shooting distance. That was until 2:44 was left on the clock and the Bobcats ran away from the Vandals and made nine straight points to come within three when the 1st half buzzer went off.

The second half was up for grabs and no one had claimed it until the last seconds of the game. Idaho had the edge over Montana State with 16:50 remaining with a three point shot by guard Chris Carey.

Montana State whistled down an Idaho six point lead with 4:38 remaining and got lucky when Idaho missed five of its free throws from floor. After a UI time-out, the defense was changed from zone to man-to-man for the first time of the night. Meanwhile, Bobcat Ray Wilks drove through and scored on an easy 10 foot jumper to put Montana State ahead 70-69.

Idaho failed on its last attempt with 20 seconds left to get the game back when Chris Carey desperately took a shot over a crowd of oppenents just to have it batted away by 7-footer Greg Walters. Trumbo was disappointed with letting Montana get back in the game and how shos weren't made.

"We had enough opportunities and we let them slip away," Trumbo said. "We normally have a good free throw percentage," he said as he looked at the game statistics. "50 percent. We're better than that."

Vandals Brian Coleman (left) and Matt Haakstad battle two Grizzlies under the boards in Idaho's upset over pre-season conference favorite Montana. Saturday night, at the ASUI Kibble Dome. It was Coach Bill Trumbo's biggest win in his career at Idaho. Photo Bureau/Michele Kimberlin.
Swimmers out dualed

The Vandal swim team fell victim to the over-powering depth and talent of Central Washington 80-34 at the Central pool this weekend.

Despite the loss, Vandal coach Frank Burlison was pleased with the team's performance. "The guys swam tough, and we had some good swims. It's just tough to compete with a team like Central at their pool and in the situation we are in."

The men's team did manage to collect three first place finishes. The first belonged to freshman Andy Bly in the 200 yard butterfly. Bly, is out of Federal Way, Wash., where he was a state champ in the 100 yard butterfly.

Vandal distance Rich Root took another first with a victory in the 200 backstroke with a time of 1:50.35. The final first belonged to the relay team of Root, John David, Robert Coga, and David Zimmerman. The group won the 400 free relay in 3:19.82.

The swimmers will again be in action this weekend when they host University of Puget Sound at home Saturday night.

Are you on the wall?

If you can identify yourself in a photograph, you may be able to win a free pizza. Photographs featuring each week's intramural sports action will be located outside of the UI Intramural and Campus Recreation Department and Pizza Hut of Moscow. The winners will be selected at random and notified in the Tuesday issue of the Argonaut. This week's winner of the "Wall of Fame" is a 20-year-old engineering major from the Hill District.

Play HORSE

You don't have to be a good basketball player to horse around in this tournament. The UI Intramural and Campus Recreation Department and Pizza Hut of Moscow are sponsoring an Intramural H-O-R-S-E basketball competition Saturday, Feb. 8 in Memorial Gym from 10 a.m. - noon. The tournament is open to all UI students, faculty and staff. However, former UI players are not eligible.

Prizes will be awarded in each of three divisions - women, men 6 feet and under, and men 6 feet and over. Each winner will win a large pizza, the three finalists will win a large pizza with one topping, six semifinalists will win a medium (delivery) pizza with two toppings, 12 quarterfinalists will win a personal pan pizza and consolation prizes will be a free large soft drink.

Prizes will be awarded in each of three divisions. All prizes will be awarded by Pizza Hut.

H-O-R-S-E is a two person basketball game in which opponents try to match baskets. The players flip a coin to see who shoots first. If the first player makes his shot, the second person shooting must duplicate the shot or receive a letter - the first being an "H."

The rules also state that no shot may be attempted twice in a row from the same spot to give the opponent two consecutive letters.

The games will be limited to 10 minutes and all games will be self-officiated on the honor system. For more information, contact the Intramural Office (203 Memorial Gym) at 885-6381.

Swimmers out dualed

The Vandal swim team fell victim to the over-powering depth and talent of Central Washington 80-34 at the Central pool this weekend.

Despite the loss, Vandal coach Frank Burlison was pleased with the team's performance. "The guys swam tough, and we had some good swims. It's just tough to compete with a team like Central at their pool and in the situation we are in."

The men's team did manage to collect three first place finishes. The first belonged to freshman Andy Bly in the 200 yard butterfly. Bly, is out of Federal Way, Wash., where he was a state champ in the 100 yard butterfly.

Vandal distance Rich Root took another first with a victory in the 200 backstroke with a time of 1:50.35. The final first belonged to the relay team of Root, John David, Robert Coga, and David Zimmerman. The group won the 400 free relay in 3:19.82.

The swimmers will again be in action this weekend when they host University of Puget Sound at home Saturday night.

Are you on the wall?

If you can identify yourself in a photograph, you may be able to win a free pizza. Photographs featuring each week's intramural sports action will be located outside of the UI Intramural and Campus Recreation Department and Pizza Hut of Moscow. The winners will be selected at random and notified in the Tuesday issue of the Argonaut. This week's winner of the "Wall of Fame" is a 20-year-old engineering major from the Hill District.

Play HORSE

You don't have to be a good basketball player to horse around in this tournament. The UI Intramural and Campus Recreation Department and Pizza Hut of Moscow are sponsoring an Intramural H-O-R-S-E basketball competition Saturday, Feb. 8 in Memorial Gym from 10 a.m. - noon. The tournament is open to all UI students, faculty and staff. However, former UI players are not eligible.

Prizes will be awarded in each of three divisions - women, men 6 feet and under, and men 6 feet and over. Each winner will win a large pizza, the three finalists will win a large pizza with one topping, six semifinalists will win a medium (delivery) pizza with two toppings, 12 quarterfinalists will win a personal pan pizza and consolation prizes will be a free large soft drink.

Prizes will be awarded in each of three divisions. All prizes will be awarded by Pizza Hut.

H-O-R-S-E is a two person basketball game in which opponents try to match baskets. The players flip a coin to see who shoots first. If the first player makes his shot, the second person shooting must duplicate the shot or receive a letter - the first being an "H."

The rules also state that no shot may be attempted twice in a row from the same spot to give the opponent two consecutive letters.

The games will be limited to 10 minutes and all games will be self-officiated on the honor system. For more information, contact the Intramural Office (203 Memorial Gym) at 885-6381.
Women thrashed in Montana
By Tom Liberman
Assistant Sports Editor
Montana was an unlucky state for the Lady Vandals this weekend as they dropped their first two conference games in over a year.

Friday night in Missoula, Mont., the UI women were blown out late in the contest 70-53. The game was tied at the half and the Idaho squad was only down by six with two minutes left in the game.

Saturday morning, Cavanaugh's department was shocked when Vandals thrashed the Racers 70-53.

By Lance Levy
Staff Writer
This Friday, the UI Women's Basketball team will face the Eastern Washington Eagles in a Mountain West Athletic Conference matchup at the Bubble Dome.

This game will be more than just an important conference contest. The Lady Vandals will attempt to set an all-time single game attendance record for women's basketball west of the Rockies.

The University of Montana Lady Griz holds the current attendance record of 6,112, which was established in 1984.

Portland Mayor Vera Katz and Idaho Booster Club Coordinator Grant Smith said this weekend game was "a real opportunity for everyone to come out and show how much they've beheld the Lady Vandals."

The Lady Vandals are currently 13-3 overall and 3-2 in MWAC play and are ranked 20th in the nation. Smith noted that at this time they are perhaps the most successful team in any sport in the Northwest. "The Lady Vandals deserve the record," said Smith.

In order to attract a record-breaking audience, the UI Athletic Department is offering general admission tickets to the game for $2.00 as well as awarding prizes to selected members of the audience. Prizes include a VHS Video Recorder, one free night in Cavanaugh's Jacuzzi Suite, five two-week movie passes, and a two-for-one movie pass for everyone who comes to the game.

To add to the festivities, the UI Intramural-Campus Recreation Department is sponsoring a Tug-of-War tournament for pre-game and half-time entertainment. Called "Battle of the Bees," teams from UI residence halls, fraternities, sororities and independent groups will compete for prizes to be donated by Pizza Hut. Complete rules and information are available at the Intramural Office.

"The key to this is going to be student turn out," said Smith. Students will be admitted free with a valid ID. Tip-off is at 7:30 p.m. at the dome.
Track refs needed
The UI Men’s Track and Field program is looking for some new volunteers who are interested in joining an already established Track Officials Organization. Applicants from the community, UI Staff, and students are welcome. Track Coach Mike Keller said that new members need to be added to the 40-plus standing volunteers this season. Anyone interested in learning to be an official (no experience necessary) should contact Keller at 885-0210 or come by his office on the second floor of the Kibbie East End Complex.

Outdoor Corner
Mountain Group Meeting, Brown Bag: A video on backcountry skiing will be shown in the SUB Russet room, Jan. 30. It is open to all.

Kappa Alpha Theta IS REBUILDING AT UI!
Open House and Information Party
Tuesday, January 28, 7:00 p.m.
Galena Gold & Silver Room
(2nd floor of the Student Union)
Interviews for potential members on Wednesday, January 29, and Thursday January 30, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Galena Gold and Silver Room.

House Tour Party, Thursday, January 30, at 514 Sweet Avenue.

SIGN UP FOR INTERVIEWS - look for the Theta Booth on campus or go to the SAS Office (UCC 241).

TIME OUT
Boy I had fun – I think!
If the Bears won, how come I feel so bad? I’ve got a funny feeling (more like a terrible feeling) it was the breakthrough of four bloody Marys and the lunch I can’t recall how many beers. Boy, I must have had a good time.

Although the game was a laugh, our Super Bowl party, complete with a rented 19 inch TV, munchies and plenty of beer was a kick. It was especially nice that I was the only Bear lover in the household. I really don’t blame people for cheering for New England. I usually go for the underdogs except when my Bears are the overdogs. My thanks to all that attended our little function and for putting up with a loud-mouthed Bear fanatic.

This was the first time in my life that my team sits on top of the world; the Red Sox came close a couple times but not quite on top. I toted and turned for two weeks waiting for Super Sunday and the chance for me to scream for the boys from the Windy City.

What would have been nice, for a couple reasons, is if the fish from Miami would have been in as Dick Enberg called it “a traditional American celebration.” I definitely wouldn’t have had to give up to 14 points to get suckers to lay a wager down and a little revenge would have been nice. The biggest Super Bowl blowout might have been larger if Dan Shula and his boys were in New Orleans Sunday.

I really thought the final score was appropriate. 46 has been a nice number for Chicago all year. Although Richard Dent was incredible, the MVP award should have gone to the father of the 46 defense, Mr. Blunt, Bobby Ryno.

Buddy says what’s on his mind, no holds barred. He called “Frig” last year a “wasted draft pick.” He said Eric Dickerson would fumumble and he said that he saw no way that the Patriots could win. Two out of three ain’t bad.

Opposing coaches knew all season what the Bears defenders were going to be doing and they couldn’t figure it out. They have to be the best defensive unit of all time, yep better than Pittsburgh’s, or, at least, the best.

Although the Pat’s got patted, give ‘em credit – they suck. That’s something Dallas, New York or L.A. couldn’t do. In fact, I felt a twinge in my wallet when New England jumped on Walter Payton’s early fumble. That bold goal gonde me a little more cash. I was laying side bets that the Bears would throw their third straight “no-no.”

Speaking of “Sweetness,” I really don’t think he was too upset that he didn’t get a touchdown. I’m sure he was tickled pink clear down to his Kangaroos when he slipped on his first ever Super Bowl ring.

True, I was watching out of cloudy eyes, but I was surprised when I read Monday’s paper and saw what a blow-out it was. The Pat’s managed to lose 19 yards in the first half and these were the guys that ran over the Raiders two weeks ago. O Bruin did throw for 177 yards but that was when the Bears were giving him everything except the home run.

Along with the Bears and Therese’s guacamole dip, I tip my Corner Chub hat to RBC on a job well done. I think two hours of pre-game hype is plenty, unlike ABC’s marathon last year. They probably didn’t have the advertisers to go any longer; we’re talking six figures during the pre-game and over a million during the game. Thank God they didn’t run those sickening McDonald’s slapping commercials. I want to slap the hell out of the tube every time I see one of those obnoxious things.

Well, my championship season is over. Wish I could say the same about this Hangover.

Greg Kilmer

Our three-year and two-year scholarships won’t make college easier.
Just easier to pay for.
Even if you didn’t earn college on scholarship, you could finish on one. Army ROTC Scholarships pay for full tuition and allowances for educational expenses and books every year. Get all the facts. BE ALL. YOU CAN BE.

Call CPT. Mike Maloney at 885-6528

ARMY RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS
UI actors stand good chance in Irene Ryan competition

By Roger Jones
Stall Writer

A rare dish of theater was served at the Collette Theater this weekend. It was a brilliant showcase of UI's pick-of-the-crop actors.

Theatre to the Max presents: The Collette Players offered a unique treat: the UI theater department's proven best actors and actresses all in one performance, or rather 12 separate performances.

Giving the audience a predicting insight into the Irene Ryan competitions, which will take place next week in Grand Junction, Colo., the Collette Players (the Irene Ryan nominees) showcased their competition pieces.

First each nominee presented a scene with the assistance of the actor of his choice. That was followed immediately by a solo performance. The cuts of the plays and the direction of the scenes were engineered by the nominees themselves.

As in the competition rounds themselves, minimal or no props were used, and only a chair and a table, or nothing at all, was used for furniture.

H. Louis Sumrall started it out, giving us a rare view of his acting ability in a startling cut from The Wool Gatherer, which cut deep. He successfully gave the images and emotions of a truck driver suicidally attacking the cruel idea of fate.

"Meant to be?" he asked quietly, cynically, drawing in his audience. His acting partner, though, was unconvincing in the scene.

Next, nominated from this fall's production of Getting Out, came Chris Drobish. Better matched with Pam Stiehl, she performed a richly-cut ill from Waiting for the Parade. The only problem was that the scene had difficulty standing on its own without the rest of the play to support it.

Then came the well-diversified character actor Tommy Watson. I believe that if the UI has any chance of capturing the Irene Ryan regional competition for the fourth year in a row, that chance is named Watson.

Giving us the touching characterization of the emotionally retarded boy in The Diviners, Watson, excellently supported by Charles Miller, won the entire audience's heart and took us for a delightful, emotional roller coaster ride.

Tommy then performed "a monologue by himself," as the lovable, standing master of ceremonies Robert (Max) Langley put it. Watson showed us his modern comic talents by delivering a successful interpretation of Division Street.

Kathryn Bate, nominated for her performance in the recent UI production of The Show Off, gave us her version of Night Mother. Unfortunately this piece lacked energy. The piece itself seemed stale and unexplained.

The depressing scene, which included an older woman explaining to her mother that she had decided to kill herself, may still do very well in Grand Junction, but as a slice of entertainment, it didn't cut.

David Borrer was well worth watching in this show. Aside from his flip-pant and almost crude pre-show gimples, he was a stronger part of the glue...
UI exhibition provokes diverse reactions

By Christine Fokkela
Staff Writer

We sat around the television Friday night entranced by a video of a woman in a shower glaring at the camera, her gravelly voice saying out: "You annoy me when I'm not in the mood."

Sounds like the latest Joan Jett video on MTV, doesn't it? But, no, the woman was UI graduate art student B.J. Hargrove, the song is by UI communications student Tom Turner and the video was one of several featured at the Graduate Student Preview, which opened last Friday at Riddenshall Hall.

"The speaker who served food so the chowhounds would hear themselves. The speaker, knowing this, would feel more at ease. Earlier, the cat peed on her shoes." That is the description of a humorous and creative video titled "The Chewing Scene."

It features close-up shots of mouths noisily consuming sandwiches and soda, while a woman's soft voice gives a speech in the background. This exhibit provoked laughter even amidst the slight stuffiness of the audience.

A profusion of bold colors, sometimes splashed, sometimes in thick, deliberate strokes, was compelling and eye-catching in Richard K. Wilson's untitled mixed media painting. A newspaper clipping slightly off center in the painting said, "Rock, dance music sales are rising," as if to suggest that the variety of colors, patterns and textures were symbols of a multitude of volumes and beats in rock and dance music.

Display for the video was a disappointing piece, another mixed media painting/collage by Wilson. Untitled. It displayed the words "tomato" across the top and had a picture of two girls at the bottom and a sign: CROCKERY. Arrows are provided to make the connection even more obvious. A pink star was the central feature surrounded by red, black and blue.

"This art exhibition gives the the grad students a chance to practice, to have public ex-posure and feedback and to make choices about their work."

"Amateurish. It has an inability to say anything," said one observer. Describing the piece.

"..." and Do You Eat A Lot Of Spaghetti?" in her piece of that name. Tied with a white lace ribbon, it has a sub-

PITCHERS
2 FOR 1

—Buy one pitcher at regular price & get one FREE!

GOOD ANY DAY OF THE WEEK

BILLS II. DEN
811 S. Main Downtown Moscow - 822-0442
Expires 1/30/86

open 2 p.m.—1 a.m.

THIS WEEK’S DEN SPECIAL

PIZZA BURGER
To Order: 797-1015

$2.95 In Cl

Reclad phem

ASUI PRODUCTIONS

ISSUES & FORUMS

1985-86

presents a CAREER SYMPOSIUM, January 28 & 29, 1986

YOU ARE WHAT YOU WEAR

with William Thourlby

William Thourlby is the best selling author of "You Are What You Wear." As a top male model (he was the first "Marlboro Man"), Broadway and Hollywood actor, Mr. Thourlby saw time and time again how a change in image caused a change in the reaction of people to him. He began to study image-making and has developed a wardrobe science that can help you become the star that you are.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1986 7:30PM $1.50 Admission

GUERRILLA TACTICS IN THE

JOB MARKET

with Tom Jackson

Tom Jackson, bestselling author of "Guerrilla Tactics In The Job Market", and founder of The Career Development Team, Inc. and The Employment Training Corporation of New York, is one of the nation's leading authorities on the nature and quality of peoples'ivities. He is at the cutting edge of a revolutionary new approach to the way people deal with their careers.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1986 7:30PM $1.80 Admission

Both Presentations are in the UI SUB Ballroom: Both are sound investments.

Now Available

See what video has to offer
Open in three locations:

• Clarkston . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 758-7190
  (next to Albertson)

• Lewiston . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 746-9200
  (next to Big V)

• Moscow . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 882-0893
  (next to Daylight Doughnuts)

"Easter Egg Lady," also by Bradford, provoked images of maternal love and nurturing. Made of unglazed, white clay, it cradles glazed, colored eggs and has an almost weeping-like shape. Jesse liked this one because of the "shiny Easter eggs."

Two observers, a fifth-year arch-noarchitect student and an arhonect professor, had distinctly different impressions of the exhibit.

"I see a struggle here and a diversity of work, no stamped universality look," the professor said. "There is a conviction and energy you don't find in a profesional, finished look — there are no slick pieces."

However, the student said the show was, "typical" of UI art exhibits and that there was a sameness in the displayed works compared to previous exhibits.

"This art exhibition gives the the grad students a chance to think it had "a good sense of humor."

The Graduate Student Preview will be displayed throughout Feb. 7 at Riddenshall Hall. Hours are 11 a.m. -5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1-4 p.m. Sunday.
Bucket Show was dance at best.

By Steve Donner
Staff Writer

The 10 dancers in Garth Fagan’s Bucket Dance Theater, which performed Saturday night at WSU, were intermittently elastic, ecstatic, frozen and frenzied.
The troupe, which performed five widely varied works choreographed by Fagan, treated the packed house at Bryan Auditorium to an example of dance innovation, precision and professionalism seldom seen on the Palouse.
The audience, in its turn, thundered approval at the end of each number and rose to its feet at the end of the performance as choreographer Fagan joined the troupe onstage.

Every dancer in the troupe, which is composed of five men and five women, expressed a distinctive personality in the way each moved and interacted with the audience and the other dancers. That individuality never detracted from the cohesion of the troupe but created, instead, a many-faceted whole. There were no prima donnas, just 10 very talented and disciplined dancers.

The music selections, ranging from opera to reggae, were as diverse as the dancers and included selections by Max Roach, Jimmy Cliff, Antoine Dvorak, Keith Jarrett and the Preservation Hall Jazz Band. Each change in staging and tempo was met with the same degree of excellence and understanding on the part of the dancers and by an equal degree of enthusiasm from the standing-room-only crowd.

Dancer Steve Humphrey was joined by A. Roger Smith and Jon Courrège in a work titled “Outak Trail,” which accent-tuated the grace and power that typified the male dancers in the troupe.

The entire ensemble joined in for opening and closing numbers, and the finale was a mesmerizing movement of rainbow-colored bodies in Lyon leotards. Even those who prefer the athletic over the aesthetic would have been awed by Saturday’s performance. Body control and articulation, each muscle a seemingly separate entity, was elevated to an art. Such is dance at its best.

The Bucket Dance Theater was created 15 years ago by choreographer Garth Fagan from a handful of raw recruits, none of them trained dancers. The story goes that the night before its first professional performance the troupe went out for and consumed a pizza an hour before curtain time and got to make its debut with salami slaughtering in every stomach. Judging from their performance last weekend, they’ve all learned a thing or two — and not just about pizza.

THE ASUI HAS MANY POSITIONS OPEN THIS SEMESTER

• SENATOR - 1 position
• COMMUNICATIONS BOARD - chairman & 4 members
• SUB BOARD - 3 members
• ACTIVITIES BOARD - 4 members
• ACADEMICS BOARD - chairman & 1 member
• GOLF BOARD - chairman & 3 members
• REC. FACILITIES BOARD - 3 members
• FINANCE - manager
• ASUI PRODUCTIONS - chairman
• CONTINUING EDUC. COMMITTEE - 1 student

APPLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE ASUI OFFICE DEADLINE: JAN. 31, 1986

To better serve you

Helbling Brothers
Parts Department

NOW OPEN SUNDAY
10 - 6

January Parts Special

Puralator Group
Ford V1A & Chev. V40
Lowest price ever
$1.69

HELBLING BROTHERS
A & Jackson
882-7501

Weekdays 7 - 5:30
Saturday 8 - 5:30
Sunday 10 - 6

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO
BOOKSTORE

SALE ENDS FEB. 11
Limited to Stock on Hand
Delta Delta Delta
congratulates its new initiates

Valerie Ashbrook  Laurie Rieth
Beckie Bettinger  Bonnie Rose
Katrina Dassenbrock  Stephanie Sanders
Shirley Egges  Marie Schmidt
Cyndy Hanson  Norene Schmidt
Sarah Lau  Renee Sloan
Julie Oberle

The Women of Alpha Gamma Delta
would like to congratulate their new initiates

• Betty Bicket
• Pam Stone
• Aileen Sterling
• June Bieren
• Dawn Blalack
• Tony Denney
• Lisa Dorf
• Teresa Gunter
• Susan Hamlin
• Bekki Jamison
• Julie Lees
• Melanie Mason
• Melanie Mathews
• Anne Rich
• Heather Wall
• Mary White
• Becky Holmberg
• Stacey Pack
• Tracey Langer

university town provides an intense academic atmosphere, but could become claustrophobic.

A resort town has beautiful scenery and visiting natives from all over the country, yet the atmosphere is sometimes too distracting and atypical of the country as a whole. Traveling provides the chance to see many things, but getting native friends is difficult and exposure to the native language may be minimal.

"You have to decide where you want to be, on the beach or inland, and how serious you are about learning the language," Epeldi said. "I chose the city first: I didn't choose the program."

She explained that Salamanca is a historic town with one of the oldest and most famous universities in Europe.

"My professor told me it would be a good place to learn the culture," Epeldi said. Brennan said that although the accent in Cologne was trying, the city's location was perfect for her.

"Cologne is right in the middle of Germany, of Europe, so it made traveling on the weekends really easy," Brennan said.

TRUTH

When the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was formed in 1949, it was formed for an reason. To stop Soviet expansion in Europe. It has been an international organization ever since, with the aim of maintaining peace and security.

TRUTH

The past 30 years of peace have been made possible because of the existence of NATO, which is a global alliance.

CHIPPENDALE

We need your support, and the truth, you need ours.

CALENDARS, POSTERS, PLAYING CARDS, AND GREETING CARDS. Now Available at

SUMMER WIND

Ancient Empire Mfg., Inc.

SUB FILMS

$2.00
Friday, Jan. 31
SUB Borah Theatre
7 p.m., 9 p.m.
Ag experiment director expects a challenge

By Patricia Hathaway
Staff Writer

UI weed scientist Gary Lee has been named director for the UI Agricultural Experiment Station and associate dean of the College of Agriculture. Lee has served as the department head of the Plant, Soil and Entomological Science department for the last five years and has left the UI faculty since

.

"It certainly is going to be a challenge to be an advocate for agriculture research and to try to find resources to maintain and carry out productive programs," said Lee. He also ed that many of the programs are nationally and internationally competitive.

Lee said he was looking forward to the challenge to be customed and work in the broad aspects of the college. "It's exciting to have a chance to work with the faculty and varied departments in the college," he said. "I see my role as a person to be an advocate and a facilitator for faculty."

As director for the UI
Agricultural Experiment station,
Lee will be traveling to different experiment stations around the state to direct research and to provide goals and direction for research. These stations are located in Sandpoint, Parma,
Caldwell, Aberdeen, Kimberly,
Tetonia, Dubois and the home station in Moscow.

"Research is done in the regions where crops and livestock are grown," he said.

"It will be my responsibility to represent research products and programs at regional and national levels," Lee said, and also to provide information to the legislature to be aware of our programs and needs.

Gary Lee, who was named director of the UI
Agricultural Experiment
Station and associate dean of the College of Agriculture, says he will travel to different experimental stations in Idaho.
TOP ENGINEERING AND TECHNICAL GRADUATES

WE HAVE A LOT IN COMMON

Innovation, challenge, openness: that's Intel. Just the kind of environment you need to make the most of your hard-earned degree. Consider some of our most important limits: Random Access Memory (RAM), Erasable Programmable Read-Only Memory (EPROM), the first microprocessor, the first single-board computer, the first microcomputer development system and the first million-bit bubble memory. Our is the kind of environment where you can become a moving force behind the shape of future technology. If you're looking for the kind of career that gives you almost immediate opportunities for success, look to Intel...you'll find we have a lot in common.

If you are unable to meet with us, please contact Intel College Relations at the location of your choice:

Arizona: 5000 West Williams Field Road, Chandler, AZ 85224
California: Santa Clara—2720 South Tomas Expressway, Santa Clara, CA 95051
California: Sacramento/Folsom—151 Blue Ravine Road, Folsom, CA 95630
New Mexico: 4100 Sara Road, Rio Rancho, NM 87124
Oregon: 5050 N.E. Elam Young Parkway, Hillsboro, OR 97124
Field Sales Marketing: 3200 Lakeside Drive, Santa Clara, CA 95051

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/H

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
February 6, 1986

CLASSIFIEDS

Letters, from page 5

Delta Gamma — 8,123
Delta Sigma Phi — 1,230
Delta Tau Delta — 4,110
Forney Hall — 5,145
French Hall — 3,975
Gamma Phi Beta — 5,585
Hays Hall — 1,877
Houston Hall — 8,608
Kappa Alpha Theta — 8,970
Kappa Kappa Gamma — 7,152
Kappa Sigma — 5,695
McCoy Hall — 1,930
Off Campus — 5,870
Phi Delta Theta — 3,290
Phi Gamma Delta — 16,375
Pi Beta Phi — 7,445
Pi Kappa Alpha — 19,762
Pi Kappa Tau — 1,605
Sigma Alpha Epsilon — 3,955
Sigma Chi — 12,480
Sigma Nu — 3,005
Tanghey Hall — 1,306
Tau Kappa Epsilon — 4,967
Theta Chi — 2,015
Upham Hall — 780

5 STAR SUNDAE

THE Source For

• Dungeons & Dragons
• Star Fleet Battles
• Other Role-Playing Games
OVER 1000 SCIENCE FICTION AND FANTASY TITLES IN OUR PAPERBACK SECTION!

MOSCOW MALL
PULLMAN

BOOKWORLD

882-1588
334-1212

PLUSH BRUSH FULL SERVICE SALON

Nails Only $25
Two Layers Slightly Higher
Haircuts Just $9

531 S. Main - Moscow - 882-4399

INTRODUCING