TV8 goes national
ESPN picks up student production

BY CLAYTON HAILEY

 Twice in the month of February millions across the nation had the opportunity to view highlights of Vandal basketball games along with an interview with Vandal
Head Coach Tim Floyd.

ESPN has picked up a product
the University of Idaho Instructional Media Services is responsible for as part of their feature show on collegiate basketball programs.

On Feb. 5 and Feb. 17, the national sports network aired Vandal Basketball Action, on the "Coach's Court."

"Coach's Court" is a program that features interviews with basketball coaches, players, commentators, as well as highlights from games.

ESPN selects three interviews and game highlights shows made by college television crews and local TV stations to be aired each
"Coach's Court" program.

"We are betting a thousand,"
said Grant Smith, director of Marketing for UI athletic department.

"The two shows we sent have both been used. It all pretty much speaks for the Instructional Media Services." [1]

Vandal Basketball Action is an in-house production filmed at the studios of Instructional Media
Services in the UCC.

Unlike some of the programs
selected by "Coach's Court," Vandal Basketball Action is produced by a crew comprised of telecommunication students and volunteers and four full-time faculty members. The four faculty members oversee the operations while the remainder of the activities to produce the show are coordinated by the students.

The students are responsible for all aspects of production, from lighting to props to editing the fiminal cut.

In order to be selected for
"Coach's Court" productions from all colleges and universities must compete for three slots on the show.

Windfall aids third floor

BY M.L. GARLAND
MANAGING EDITOR

A windfall surplus from last year's ASUI budget of approx-amately $60,000 could make
"critical equipment replacements" for the ASUI Communications Department,
according to ASUI President
Brad Cuddy.

Cuddy attributes last year's fiscal surplus to cutbacks in the ASUI Communications Department and better internal accounting.

"We didn't buy anything that wasn't absolutely necessary on third floor last year," said
ASUI Business Manager George Dafoe.

Various equipment for the Communication Department
under consideration to receive the funds include photo enlargers, a new publications truck,
"state-of-the-art" desk-top publlications system, a broadcasting control board and camera equipment. The Communications Department located on the third floor of the SUB encompasses The Gem of the Mountains, ASUI Advertising, the Argonaut, KUIO FM 89.3 and ASUI Communications Services.

"We don't want to be in the dark ages up there," Dafoe said. "We don't want them working on dinosaurs and then go out into the real world."

Officials say the replacements will allow for more efficient operations and reduce future maintenance expenditures.
According to Cuddy, the funds are intended for "critical replacements: not what they want—what they need."

However, Cuddy stressed that the allocations of funds is still tentative and other critical replacements will be considered.
Meeting for teacher requirements

The College of Education has scheduled an orientation of March 2, 3:30 p.m., in Room 401 of the College of Ed. for students interested in applying to the UI Teacher Education program. The orientation will include information about changing admission requirements and an exciting new summer '88 course called Live, Learn and Teach, which fulfills the Educ. 201 "Introduction to Teaching" requirement.

Time to eat Oodles of Noodles

St. Augustine's Catholic Center is sponsoring an All You Can Eat Spaghetti Dinner Saturday, Mar. 6 from 3 p.m.-6 p.m. at St. Augustine's Catholic Center. Donations of $3.50 for adult, $1.50 for children and $10.00 for families will be accepted. All are welcome and invited.

Handicapped accessibility: Elevator completion set for April

BY HOYT MICHEMER
STAFF WRITER

Construction is underway to make more buildings at the University of Idaho accessible to handicapped individuals. According to Lawrence Chinn of Facilities Planning, elevators are being constructed in the Music building, Home Economics building, John C. Boggs Administration building, and Administration building.

With construction underway, Chinn said the elevators are expected to be completed in April. Chinn, who is in charge of most of the handicapped accessibility developments and improvements at the university, said that $687,000 was funneled in the fiscal year 1986 through the permanent building fund to cover expenses of the elevator projects.

"Each year we assess the university, (as far as handicapped accessibility) and then do something towards improvement," Chinn said.

Chinn also works on a smaller budget for minor restroom modifications, ramps and handrail improvements year around.

UI attends CR convention

BY CLAYTON MARLEY
CORRECTION

Resolutions, heated debate, election of officers and speeches by elected officers and guest speakers were marred the 1988 Idaho College Republican State Convention held in Boise Feb. 26-28.

The yearly convention sponsored by the Idaho College Republican Federation invites delegates from chapters throughout the state of Idaho.

Over 48 delegates representing Boise State University, College of Idaho, College of Southern Idaho, Idaho State University, Idaho State University of Idaho attended the weekend activities on the BSU campus.

The activities that provided the most controversy among delegates of the convention were the drafting and voting of resolutions that will represent ICRF and nominating and electing of state officers, who will steer the direction ICRF takes in the election year as well as represent Idaho at national college republican functions.

The convention passed resolutions in support of Israel's position on territorial sovereignty, the Idaho Senate's request for Governor Andrus's recent appointments of Republicans who have supported candidates of the opposite party, restricting the increase of Idaho lands being set aside as designated wilderness areas and a presidential line item veto.

Among the more controversial resolutions, which provided for some heated debate and a refresh or course in parliamentary procedure, were those concerning aid to the Contras, whether or not ICRF should be allowed support or counsel from presidential candidates before the May primaries, and a request to presidential candidate Jack Kemp to support a balanced budget.

Cecila & Harvey Baker
882-1111

Don't forget that today and every Tuesday is TUESDAY PIZZAazz. Order a large and pay for a small!
Forum explores press, court rights

ANALYSIS BY HOYT MICHENER

Barely anyone showed up for a forum on the general news media of the Palouse region held Friday in the University of Idaho Law School, except for the panel, a few law students receiving extra credit for attendance and myself.

The forum was intended to discuss and debate the First vs. Fifth Amendment issues that relate to the protections granted to news media reporters, especially information gathered in confidential interviews, against the right to a fair trial by a criminal defendant.

The forum was open to all news media representatives, attorneys, law and journalism students from both Washington State University and UI, it was too bad that only 10 people showed up to watch the discussion.

Those who missed the debate lose out on learning about a very important issue to future news media personnel—protecting the source and the freedom of the press.

The debate centered on whether a reporter and/or news medium has the right to protect informants when the defendant lawyer needs the information or actual interview itself to protect a defendant in trial.

In the discussed case, the news company denied the request from the lawyer to see an interview of a witness to the crime, saying the tape was not only edited, it also had very little information that the lawyer could use. But in the lawyer’s opinion, the tape was basically evidence and should be given to him.

This fine line between the media and the courts has been stepped on more than once in the past few years. It was suggested that the reporter should never assure confidentiality to the people they interview unless the publishing editor agrees to grant anonymity also. When the press protects its sources, the law sometimes gets the publishing business into a law suit which may cost the company thousands or even millions of dollars to settle in court.

The American court system was set up for a fair trial where the individual is innocent until proven guilty. But the courts must also strive to search for truth and justice. With the media, its objective is to inform the masses in its search for factual news. The search for the truth can be used in both media and courts, and there should be a situational balance to equalize circumstances.

Members of the panel included: Whitman County Superior Court Judge, Wally Friel; Senior Assistant Attorney General/WSU, Sally Savage; lawyer Michael Penit; lawyer Steve Matthews; Editor/Publisher for the Daily News, Jay Shellade/WSU Prof. Glen Johnson; Lewiston Tribune Managing Editor, Paul Emerson.

Humanses Celebration: features scholar-humanists

Today, a Centennial Celebration of the Humanities will take place in the Silver and Gold Rooms of the SUB. Sponsored by the University of Idaho College of Letters and Science, it is entitled "Traditions and Trends." Two speakers, Hazel E. Barnes of University of Colorado and John J. McDermott of Texas A&M, both nationally acclaimed humanists, will be presenting both morning and afternoon sessions. Presentations and panels will also take place throughout the day.

We welcome to attend one or more of the following sessions:

- 9:30 a.m. - Master of Ceremonies Roy Fisher, Academic Vice President Thomas O. Bell and Dean of College of Letters and Science Calvin Rowe will be giving introductory speeches.
- 9:30-10:30 a.m. - Hazel Barnes will be giving a keynote address about "Traditions" at 10:45 a.m. - 12:45 p.m. - A humanities panel will be discussing about "Preparing the Humanities".
- 1:30 - 3:00 p.m. - John McDermott will be giving a keynote address about "Trends".
- 2:30-3:30 p.m. - Media Specialist Harvey Hughes will be discussing "Technology and the Humanities".

JOIN THE CLUB
Self-Service Copies

At Kinko’s, we offer the highest quality copies at a very low cost. We have a card that offers students an even lower price on self-service copies.

Introducing Kinko’s Self-Service Club Card
Don’t delay — Pick up your free card TODAY!
“Don’t make copies without it.”

Kinko’s
Open early. Open late. Open weekends.
608 S. Main
882-3066

We need someone with the confidence of a surgeon, the dedication of a marathoner & the courage of an explorer.

We have a unique opportunity for someone special. A chance to spend two years in another country. To live and work in another culture. To learn a new language and acquire new skills.

The person we’re looking for might be an educator, forester, agriculture specialist or health worker. Or maybe a soon-to-be graduate specializing in the physical and life sciences, math, liberal arts, business, or a hundred other disciplines.

We need someone to join nearly 2,000 people already working in 60 developing countries around the world. To help people live better lives.

We need someone special. And we ask a lot. But only because so much is needed. If this sounds interesting to you, maybe you’re the one we’re looking for. A Peace Corps volunteer. Our representatives will be pleased to discuss the opportunities with you.

Peace Corps.
The toughest job you’ll ever love.

Contact Sheri Deckor on campus every day at Student Affairs Services or call 885-6757.
Interviews are March 10. Sign up in the Career Planning and Placement Center.
Hypocrite at large in the Bible Belt

Forgive me if I seem a bit amused at the current fiasco surrounding the famed televangelist Jimmy Swaggart. Not that I harbor any ill will towards Mr. Swaggart, mind you, it's just that I'm always tickled when truth and justice prevail over avarice and hypocrisy.

David Blakely

Commentary

Perhaps all skeptics of televangelism shared the same way, knowing smile when it was revealed that Swaggart had been having relations with prostitutes for a number of years. Swaggart, as you may recall, was the most vocal critic of fellow televangelist Jim Bakker's sexual abuse of Jessica Hahn. Amazingly, Swaggart was not done in by the so-called "liberal press" which he so often condemned. Instead, it was another televangelist who, seeking revenge, exposed Swaggart's sexual escapades. If the press had been doing its job, as it did with Gary Hart, there might be people might have saved a lot of money.

The skeletons like myself are amused at Swaggart's hypocrisy because it's our common sense tells us that anyone who has acquired an $13- acre estate, several Lincoln Continentals, and a private jet by preaching the gospel must have more rewards on his mind than simply going to heaven. In fact, compared to Oral Roberts and Jim and Tammy Bakker, the Rev. Swaggart has been positively frugal in his acquisition of material wealth.

I suppose another reason I find the Swaggart affair humorous is my amusement at the things people will believe. Do Christians really not see the conflict between the acquisitiveness of these televangelists and their adherence to the teachings of Jesus? Based on the wealth these men have accumulated, it would appear not.

Christians of Swaggart's ilk will no doubt be quick to criticize me for having a little fun with Mr. Swaggart's difficulties. To those individuals so disposed, please be advised that I bear no ill will toward your religion. Indeed, I have nothing but admiration for the fundamentalist practitioners of your religion, the Mother Theresa and Albert Schweitzer's of the world.

I do admit, though, to a certain amount of glee when all religious zealots, not merely Christians, are shown to be pompous hypocrites. Actually, my response of laughable derision is a good bit more charitable than the vulturous condemnations visited upon non-believers by the Swaggarts of the world.

Yes, the laughter of skeptics and condemnations of Christians are not solutions for the world's problems. Perhaps we would all be better served by withholding derision and denunciation and simply practicing tolerance.

Are you listening, Mr. Swaggart?

Fight for that money

Get a dime, mister! Education in Idaho needs more money, and it has to come from somewhere. Ideas, anyone?

The State Board of Education has one. Our pockets.

Last month, the State Board settled a nagging war for this one million research dollars between the University of Idaho and Boise State University. Guess who lost. It wasn't BSU.

But wait, there's more...

Wednesday, Ed Clee, the board's chief fiscal officer, supported Idaho State Senate Bill 1313 and Resolution 127, which would consolidate the state's higher education's building projects debts and use student fees to finance the building improvements.

In supporting the measures, Clee said there was "no intent of the board to impose a fee on students."

Yet a press release issued the next day reads, "The State Board of Education at its March 3-4 meeting will discuss the possibility of establishing a fee to pay for new academic buildings and refurbishing old ones... The board will also hear a notice of intent to increase matriculation fees for full-time undergraduate and graduate students at the colleges and universities."

I'm confused. The board will hear a "notice of intent" to increase fees, but Clee said the board had no intention of imposing a fee on students.

Either the State Board changes its mind easily or naively. Let's hope not. Raising student fees seems to be a favorite option for increasing revenue. Student fees have been raised 139 percent in the last decade, compared to an 85 percent increase in the consumer price index.

Math never was my best subject, but isn't a 139 a lot more than an 85?

Fortunately for us, the fee increases are still in the discussion stages. The meetings are Thursday and Friday in Lewiston. Take a few hours to drive down and speak up against the fee increases. It might make a difference in the size of the checks we'll be writing to the banker in the fall.

IF we don't let the State Board know they can't have our money, they'll simply keep printing it.

Not fighting for our money is the same as giving it away. I may be a nice person, but I can't afford to be a philanthropist. Can you?

Angela Curtis

Please support the spring moratorium

Whose idea was this?

Who can I thank? Or perhaps it should be who can I blame?

It is not fair. Absolutely not.

Just today, while carousing across campus I could not help but notice students (or look-alikes) basking in the early spring weather so incomparable to the Palouse at this time of year.

Highs in the 80s with partly cloudy blue skies and a light breeze.

I, too, would like to have the opportunity to lay out in shorts and cowboy boots without socks.

Even a quiet nap in the UI cow pastures is beginning to sound pleasant.

No no. This would be too tempting.

It is a proven fact that when the temperatures rise on the Palouse and the gloomy gray days fade to a pretty blue or cotton floating aimlessly through the air less gets done.

No kidding. The puritan work ethic disolves into a hedonistic binge.

Don't worry, it's a common disease among UI students and faculty.

It's not deadly, but it can affect the research paper due before Spring Break, mid-terms exam, and class attendance, and finally that GPA.

It has nothing to do with discipline or stamina.

Moscowites are programmed to remain indoors from October 'til late March and to engage in only those activities that the four walls permit, i.e. studying, eating, sleeping...

With this in mind I would like to propose a moratorium on spring weather until later in the semester. This moratorium would require the gloomy gray to return along with cold nights and snowy mornings.

It is a matter of université importance for the sake of the puritan work ethic and GPAs.

Won't you support this proposal?

Clayton Hailey
A thank you to telecomm students

Editor:
I would like to offer my congratulations and thanks to the many students, telecommunication students and volunteer staff at the University of the Pacific for their outstanding effort and accomplishment on the Vandals Basketball Auction. With Coach Bob Tim Floyd and Idaho Sports Commission Director Morris, was nationally televised on two major networks on the 5th and 17th, to 46,1 million households on ESPN's Coach's Court airing at 8:00 P.M. Eastern time.

We're proud of this exposure for it represents a wonderful example of our Telecommunication Students and the University. For those working on the show, it is an opportunity to contribute back to the University, expand their professional portfolios, and make good use of their material. This is a great example of a cooperative effort that benefits the University and the surrounding community.

Once again, thanks to the participation of the Vandals Basketball Auction and to the crew of Vandals Football Auction before them, in essence, made all of this possible.

Great Scott UI Athletics Director 5/9/88

Come on Senate, let's look at some real issues

Editor:
Concerning Tuesday's Poster Board article (Feb. 23): Why is it that our ASUJ Senate (using student funds) is gouging over such a petty issue as a poster bar on the UCC? Who decided this was a problem in the first place? Shouldn't our Senators be spending their valuable time on more important issues such as obtaining more lighting on campus, lobbying for more for our university (which we just need), or working to improve Financial Aid for students.

I feel that if Senators (and would-be Senators) think they are representing or represent students in the ASUJ Senate, they should be responsible enough to take their campaign posters down the day after election.

Dan LeFoe Dan Joosten

Further debate on militarism

Editor:
My initial reaction to Mr. Smith's comments brought to light several unreported facts. I was highly surprised at the amount of space given to his comments in the Opinion section. Really now - a full third of a page? Wouldn't a guest commentary spot have been more appropriate? Since I feel that a newspaper is not an appropriate place to expand, all-out arguments over personal philosophies, I'll try to make my rebuttal concise, clear, and lucid enough for anyone to follow.

James: have you really studied military history, or are you simply taking specific war vicissitudes (Hiroshima, Nagasaki and Dresden) and naturally concluding that they were simply brutal acts of violence? I use irony here because in any soldier can tell you, war is not "civilized." As Sherman said during the Civil War, "War is hell." I do not condemn the terrible loss of life in those instances, but unlike you I realize that although hard military targets were not being destroyed, strategic results were being accomplished by the breaking of the enemy's will to fight, or in the military jargon, the "soul" is to de-stress an enemy, stop aggression, not to wantonly destroy. I do not feel this is glorious. It isn't. Many things have been written on the subject, so I hardly presume to call it the final authority on it.

I do not pre-judge your feelings on war so much as your arrogant condemnation of those who bear arms in the military. Perhaps if the world were a better place, people could get together and discuss their differences in a rational manner, and the need for standing armies and what could be avoided. Don't be fooled. Citizens of the West have come to believe that if we just agitate ourselves into being like rational adults, we can work it all out - everything will be fine. We're here to see our way as the only way, but simply because we are now educated to the level of ideology totally means that other nations/philosophies have done so. We respect your credentials, James. I do not defer to your thought processes.

I'll get to the point. Don't waste your time and mine moaning and moratizing about how awful a government we have. Anyone who will not admit to the faults of his government and or philosophy is a serious candidate for martyrdom. I resent the implication that persons bearing arms in the military is which our national obligation to American citizens, so conveniently ignored by draft dodgers - so do blindly. No sane man really wants war. But what about - the fighting man is the one getting shot at in order to protect the protestor's rights?

I regret Scott Miliajczyk's unfortunate wording of his interpretation of the duty of specifically (war). While military structure requires lawful orders of superiors to be obeyed, nowhere is it specified that any person performing such orders must be obeyed, as he has suggested. Every fighting man is supposed to know a fair bit about the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ). If he is ordered to perform an unlawful act, it is his duty to not only refuse, but report such an order. Therefore, I find your assertions regarding such acts, whether by military personnel or civilians, ridiculous.

It is my most sincere desire that America never has to go to war again -- unfortunately, I don't believe this hopeful dream will be fulfilled. But if it happens that America is called to world again, I hope we will be willing to follow your leads (and their orders) in a battle because I CHOOSE TO DO SO!! Those Marines who were killed in Beirut were there because they volunteered to be Marines, and I strongly assume the last thing they would have done is to destroy the profession of bearing arms. Military personnel all too often are forced to require their duties that they DON'T make policy. The government does. If you have a beef with the actions of government and that is their policy, let's talk to each other.

Don't talk to the grunt (vollunteer) and say oh how war would be if your profession is - the profession of arms has been regarded through the years as a noble one. Not that killing is grand, but that the politician has whimsically placed himself in the service and defense of the citizens of his country. You're being foolish and you're wrong. AMR. If you are not bombarded with mail from active-duty and prior-service personnel shredding your foolish comments about brainwashing that will be a pity.

And my credentials? Nothing extraordinary as far as you're concerned, I guess. I'm one of those ROTC midshipmen that you pity. My admission to the military in WWII and Vietnam, James, and while he doesn't bear physical scars from those wars, he bears the same psychic scars as any soldier who's been in battle. It wasn't taught to love the system, or to see LETTERPAGE 12
Summer Registration is a Breeze — and May Be a Moneysaver

One added bonus to the Summer Session is the possibility to register in advance for the classes. This means no standing in line only to find out that the class is full. "Through advanced registration you guarantee your place in the class, and also the fees listed in the bulletin," said Sid Eder, director of Summer Session.

Students who were in attendance at the University of Idaho for the spring semester can pre-register from May 2 until May 20. New or former students who were not registered for the spring semester may register by mail (the application/registration form must be postmarked by May 20) or in person through May 20.

Students currently attending the UI should pick up a registration form (from their college dean) or Students should secure their advisor's signature on the form. A nonrefundable $25 deposit must be paid at the time the registration form is left at the registrar's office.

Students who pay their fees in full before May 20 are guaranteed the per credit hour fees listed in the bulletin. If fees should increase, those students will not be subject to the extra money.

College of Business & Economics Offers Early Six-Week Session

Okay, so you don't want to spend most of your summer going to a sun-kissed beach, backpacking in the Sawtooths, or, more mundanely, working at a summer job.

But also as a smart business, economics, or accounting major, you're concerned about the bottom line — completing your degree and getting into the job market.

Well, this summer the College of Business and Economics is experimenting with a new Early Six-Week Session, May 19-June 24, that allows students to take degree requirements and electives and still have most of the summer left for vacation or job. Based on its success at WSU, where last summer over 971 students registered for early-six-week courses, the UI Business, Accounting, and Economics Departments have scheduled 14 early-six-week session courses including a good selection of "bread and butter degree requirements" (see the schedule below).

Say's Business Department Chairperson Randy Byers, "We hope that this scheduling option will appeal to UI students who therefore didn't consider taking summer courses because they didn't want to take up their entire summer."

Early Six Week Courses

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Course No.</th>
<th>Course Title</th>
<th>Credits</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Acctg 201</td>
<td>Principles of Accounting</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acctg 203</td>
<td>Managerial Accounting</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acctg 381</td>
<td>Financial &amp; Administrative Accounting</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acctg 309</td>
<td>Accounting Internship Program</td>
<td>1-3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acctg 499</td>
<td>Directed Study</td>
<td>TBA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 200</td>
<td>Micro Computer Software</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 311</td>
<td>Introduction to Management Theory</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 321</td>
<td>Marketing</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 332</td>
<td>Quantitative Methods</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 335</td>
<td>Management Information Systems</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 370</td>
<td>Production/Operations Management</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 480</td>
<td>Business Policy</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Econ 474</td>
<td>International Economics</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

How do you earn three credits and still have time for a summer vacation or full-time summer job? Simple! With the College of Idaho's Early Session, classes begin May 16 and end on June 10, leaving the entire summer free for other pursuits. Consult the Summer '88 bulletin for a list of Early Session Classes.

EXCITING NEW TO TEACHERS

This summer the College of Education will offer students last chance to enter the college before new two-year programs begins. All students seeking admission into the education program last fall will be required to keep up a higher GPA (2.50) in compared with the current requirement of 2.20 and take the National Teacher Examination.

During the summer session, Education 201 takes on an entirely different look from that of the regular student teacher. Combined with Educ. 200, The Wilderness Classroom, students spend one week in the Gospel Hump Wilderness Area hiking, climbing, rafting, and doing other activities that foster problem solving and interpersonal communications skills.

"They (students) get to experience something like children coming to school for the first time," said Judy Byers, education department chairperson.

Bluegrass, Barbecue & Blues Highlight Summer

Why stick around in the summer? The campus is dullsville. Wrong! That's a myth. But the reality is quite different. Here are just a few of the things going on this summer:

- Brown Bag Noon Concerts: From Brass to Bluegrass. At noon on Wednesdays wander up to the UI Administration Lawn for a brown bag concert. You'll hear everything from jazz to bluegrass, from classical to rock and roll.

- Idaho Repertory Theatre brings the excitement of a professional theatre to the Palouse with Taming of the Shrew. With a cast of professional performers, it's a good time.

- Boise Jazz Festival with The Ray Herron Orchestra.

- The annual Saratoga Blues Festival by Neil Simon. You can't take it with you. But you can see it! With Maureen Ford, George S. Kaufman, and Charlie's Aunt by Brandon Thomas.
University of Idaho's Summer Session offers more than just core curriculum classes and "bread and butter" requirements. This summer's schedule features an interesting selection of special courses, most of which are just not offered during the fall and spring semesters. Here is just a small sampler:

May 20-June 4 - Perspectives on Violence is a series of three one-credit courses designed to increase understanding of violent behavior and develop strategies for reacting to and controlling violence. Topics include "Working with Victimized Women," "Perspectives on Violent and Abusive Men," and "Controlling Juvenile and Adolescent Aggression." These may be taken as a series or individually.

June 14-July 8 - The Vietnam War

examines the roots of American involvement in Southeast Asia. The class plans to view several films such as Apocalypse Now, Coming Home, and Platoon.

June 14-July 8 - Anti-Semitism and the Holocaust

looks at the historical and moral dimensions of the holocaust created by the Nazis in World War II. In addition to lectures, readings, and films, the course includes perspectives of visiting scholars and survivors of the holocaust.

June 14-July 8 - The American Studies Institute

An award-winning UI/WSU collaborative program that explores from literary, historical, cultural, and environmental perspectives, and development of the Pacific Northwest. This summer's courses are: "The American West in the 20th Century," "Images of the West in American Film," and "Idaho and Pacific Northwest History." Also included are a film series, field trips, and special speakers.

August 7-14 - On the Trail of Lewis and Clark

retraces the route across Idaho from the Lolo Pass to the confluence of the Snake and Clearwater Rivers of the Lewis & Clark 1804-1806 expedition.

Because all of these courses have limited enrollment, it is advisable to register early.

For more information, pick up the Summer '88 Bulletin available the week of March 6 at many campus locations.

---

Twenty-four Core Curriculum Courses Offered This Summer

Face it. They don't call them core curriculum courses for nothing. All students must complete requirements before graduation.

As many students are beginning to discover, summer is a good time to knock off all these requirements:

- smaller classes allow instructors to give extra time and more personal attention to students
- lighter class load in the summer allows students to concentrate more fully on difficult courses
- more relaxed summer atmosphere results in less pressure and a more congenial learning environment

So, this summer take a bite out of the core.

Communication

Conn 131 Fundamentals of Speech (2 cr)
Eng 104 Essay Writing (3 cr)

Mathematics, Statistical and Computer Science

Agri 251 Principles of Statistics (3 cr)
Math 111 Finite Mathematics (4 cr)
Math 140 College Algebra (3 cr)
Math 180 Survey of Calculus (4 cr)
Math 183 Algebraic Geometry & Calculus (4 cr)

Humanities and Social Sciences

Art 101 Visual Art (3 cr)
Eng 111 Literature of Western Civilization (3 cr)
Eng 112 Literature of Western Civilization (3 cr)
Mus 100 Survey of Music (3 cr)
Phil 101 Ethics (3 cr)

Social Sciences

Anth 100 Introduction to Anthropology (3 cr)
Econ 101 Principles of Economics (3 cr)
Geog 250 World Regional Geography (3 cr)
Hist 102 World of Civilization (3 cr)
Psych 100 Introduction to Psychology (3 cr)

---

Flexible Summer Schedule Accommodates Student Needs

Taking a summer course doesn't have to take up the whole summer. The University of Idaho Summer Session offers a flexible schedule which makes it easy for anyone to enjoy the summer and still take part in a class or two.

Seven different sessions are offered during the summer for different student needs, and Summer Session Directors are ready.

---

1988 Summer Session Calendar Options

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>May</th>
<th>June</th>
<th>July</th>
<th>August</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>May 16-20</td>
<td>June 14-24</td>
<td>July 1-11</td>
<td>August 1-11</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Immersion

Foxes & Biloxi - Summer Fun

- Kayaking, rafting, backpacking, sailboating are some of the outdoor adventure opportunities offered by the University of Idaho Outdoors Program. The program has a full schedule of exciting opportunities for the university community this summer.
- Barbecued chicken, baron of beef, baked salmon — they're all part of the Tuesday Evening Summer Barbecue program. Beginning Tuesday, June 14, each barbecue is held in the beautiful Shattuck Arboretum with the serving line open from 6:00-6:30 p.m.

Maybe this summer you should discover for your- self why those in the know say that summer is the best time to enjoy Moscow.
Weekend win will clinch second for men

BY MIKE LEWIS
STAFF WRITER

If you’re wondering about the Vandals’ potential Big Sky finish, consider this: 1. If the Idaho Vandals can defeat either Montana or Montana State in their final two games they will clinch second place in the Big Sky.

If the team loses both games, they are susceptible to fall to as low as fourth place in the Big Sky.

2. If Montana State beats both Eastern Washington and Idaho this weekend, or Nevada-Reno beats both Idaho State and Weber State, then the Vandals would be tied for second with whichever team wins remaining games.

3. To break the tie, one would have to look to how each team performed against the league winner, Boise State. The Vandals, as well as the Wolfpack, have lost both games against the Broncos, while MSU split their two-game series.

Thus, MSU would be awarded second place, and the Vandals and the Wolfpack would have to delve still deeper into conference results to determine a third-place finisher.

In the best of all scenarios, the Vandals would win both games, giving them second place outright, and the Wolfpack will win both as well, putting MSU in fourth place.

The Vandals would then get a bye in the first round of the Big Sky tournament and would have the task of playing MSU in Boise State, while Idaho would play Nevada-Reno.

The 18-9, 10-4 Vandals will hope to clinch second place position Thursday night when they take on the 18-7, 12-4 Grizzlies in the Kibbie Dome at 7:30 p.m.

The Grizzlies defeated third-place Montana State last Saturday night, while the Vandals did away with the lowly Eagles of Eastern Washington, 61-58. The Vandals face the top scorer in the league when the Idaho State Bengals, as Tom Domako is averaging 23.0 points per game for the Bobcats. The Vandals just barely got out of Cheney alive Saturday night, as they let a 19-point lead evaporate, forcing them to win the game in the final minute and a half. After half, the Vandals led the Bengals 34-28 by scoring 10 unanswered points, before high-scorers Kenny Luckett and James Finch helped extend the Idaho lead to 43-34.

With just over 10 minutes of the second half gone by, EWU’s Kevin Sattler, who had 11 points on the night, nailed a three-pointer to bring the Eagles within seven, before Gale Berry and Brian Sullivan hit back-to-back buckets to make the score 46-43 Idaho.

The scoring remained even until, with 1:39, to play Berry hit a shot from the corner to put EWU ahead 56-58, but thankfully for Vandals fans, it would not be enough. Raymond Brown made a crucial basket with 1:09 remaining and the Vandals hit four free throws to preserve the 61-58 win.

"They just shot the hell out of the ball, Sullivan, Berry and Sattler got things going and we quit playing defense," said Idaho Coach Tim Floyd.

Floyd wasn’t sure what he’s talking about. The Vandals, who allowed the Eagles only two field goals in the first 12 minutes of the game, held them to 26 percent shooting.

In the first half, Idaho led 33-29 in the second half, as the Eagles shot 49 percent from the floor.

Ladies axed by 'Jacks
End season on the road Sunday

BY ERIK SIMPSON
SPORTS EDITOR

The Lady Vandals will attempt to avenge last month’s 65-55 loss against the Eastern Washington Eagles in a match-up this Sunday at 2 p.m. in Cheney.

EWU is currently 15-9 overall and 10-5 in the conference. The Lady Eagles will be the Mountain West Conference, regardless if they win or lose against Idaho.

After posting a two-game winning streak, the Lady Vandals broke the streak falling to MWC foe Northern Arizona 63-51 on Saturday in Flagstaff, Ariz.

The Lady Vandals win took them to 7-9 in conference play, while the Lady Vandals fell to 4-11 in the conference and 7-19 overall.

Idaho was trailing 22-25 at halftime before making up the deficit in the second half. The Lady Vandals hit only 11 of 34 (32 percent) in the first half compared to the Lady Eagles’ 15-26 for 42 percent.

Idaho’s shooting average improved to 9-26 for 35 percent in the second half; however, they were not able to keep up with NAU’s consistent shooting of 10 of 22 (45 percent).

Idaho had only nine turnovers in the game compared to the Lady Eagles’ 13. The Lady Vandals, however, were out-rebounded 48-30.

Kim Chernicki, who scored 22 points in the Lady Vandals’ victory against NAU, led Idaho with only 10 against the Lady Eagles.

She hit only four of her 15 shots from the floor and added two more from the foul line.

Sheri Lehman also scored 10, while Lori Elkins snagged 10 rebounds. Lehman hit only four of her 10 shots combined with two from the line.

NAU’s Missy Votony and Tracy Preter each had 14 points, while Preter added an impressive 16 rebounds.

The Lady Vandals will not compete in the Women’s Mountain West Conference Tournament this season as only the top four teams in the conference are invited.

"Our pitching needs a lot of work," he said. "We haven’t thrown enough." Two of the team’s top pitchers could not travel to Nampa, which also hurt the club last week.

The team’s pitchers had been practicing in Memorial Gym throwing tennis balls because the team was not allowed to use baseballs in the facility.

They also need to work on hitting the ball better, as well, he said. He said they lost the first game due to a lack of hitting and because Northwest Nazarene had a good first inning.

“We really should have won the second game,” he said.

The Idaho team gave up two home runs in the sixth inning which Burdick claimed “really killed us.”

Mike Garringer, who is ranked second in the national Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, was NNC’s main weapon. Garringer hit three for three in the first game and two for two with a home run in the second contest.

Idaho’s Warren Mackey finished the day hitting one of two in the first game and two of three in the second with two runs brought in for the day.

Wade Wilson shined in the second game hitting two of two for the day with two RBIs. Burdick finished the day with two hits.

Burdick said the games also showed him how the team might do in their next games.

If (the weekend) told us a lot about our players," he said. “Our defense is sound.”

He mentioned how well catcher John Konrad played in both games. “He threw out three runners and stopped everything in sight,” Burdick said.

The team is looking ahead to its next game on March 8 against Lewis and Clark State College in Lewiston. The game is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. and will be a nine inning affair.

“We have a chance to win the majority of our games as long as most of our players show up,” he said.
Jazz Festival '88 succeeded resoundingly

BY DAVID PERK STAFF WRITER

A white stretch limousine parked inside the Kibbie Dome foretold the caliber of the musicians to play in the Lionel Hampton Chevon Jazz Festival all-star concert Friday night.

Among the musicians inducted into the Lionel Hampton School of Music Hall of Fame during the concert were saxophonist/flutist Buddy Tate, pianist Tommy Flanagan, trombonist Carl Fontana, bassist George Mraz and drummer Kenny Washington.

Tate, 80, who was called the "Greatest bass player in the world," began the concert with pianist Gene Harris and drummer Jeff Hamilton. Brown kept a rock steady beat, but during his solo knew exactly how to rest, slow down and let loose at just the right moment.

Tate had great appeal for the crowd with the song, "You Don't Own Me Now" and "How Could You Do a Thing Like This to Me?" Harris' style drew heavily from that, and the soloists from Elton John, Supercamp and various other N.B.C. late-night comedy musical combos. At the end of the first set, Harris was bobbing his head and swaying while his hands flew across the piano. The trio's opener for the concert drew a standing ovation.

By David Perk Staff Writer

A white stretch limousine parked inside the Kibbie Dome foretold the caliber of the musicians to play in the Lionel Hampton Chevon Jazz Festival all-star concert Friday night.

Among the musicians inducted into the Lionel Hampton School of Music Hall of Fame during the concert were saxophonist/flutist Buddy Tate, pianist Tommy Flanagan, trombonist Carl Fontana, bassist George Mraz and drummer Kenny Washington.

Tate, 80, who was called the "Greatest bass player in the world," began the concert with pianist Gene Harris and drummer Jeff Hamilton. Brown kept a rock steady beat, but during his solo knew exactly how to rest, slow down and let loose at just the right moment.

Tate had great appeal for the crowd with the song, "You Don't Own Me Now" and "How Could You Do a Thing Like This to Me?" Harris' style drew heavily from that, and the soloists from Elton John, Supercamp and various other N.B.C. late-night comedy musical combos. At the end of the first set, Harris was bobbing his head and swaying while his hands flew across the piano. The trio's opener for the concert drew a standing ovation.

By DAVID PERK

A white stretch limousine parked inside the Kibbie Dome foretold the caliber of the musicians to play in the Lionel Hampton Chevon Jazz Festival all-star concert Friday night.

Among the musicians inducted into the Lionel Hampton School of Music Hall of Fame during the concert were saxophonist/flutist Buddy Tate, pianist Tommy Flanagan, trombonist Carl Fontana, bassist George Mraz and drummer Kenny Washington.

Tate, 80, who was called the "Greatest bass player in the world," began the concert with pianist Gene Harris and drummer Jeff Hamilton. Brown kept a rock steady beat, but during his solo knew exactly how to rest, slow down and let loose at just the right moment.

Tate had great appeal for the crowd with the song, "You Don't Own Me Now" and "How Could You Do a Thing Like This to Me?" Harris' style drew heavily from that, and the soloists from Elton John, Supercamp and various other N.B.C. late-night comedy musical combos. At the end of the first set, Harris was bobbing his head and swaying while his hands flew across the piano. The trio's opener for the concert drew a standing ovation.

By DAVID PERK

A white stretch limousine parked inside the Kibbie Dome foretold the caliber of the musicians to play in the Lionel Hampton Chevon Jazz Festival all-star concert Friday night.

Among the musicians inducted into the Lionel Hampton School of Music Hall of Fame during the concert were saxophonist/flutist Buddy Tate, pianist Tommy Flanagan, trombonist Carl Fontana, bassist George Mraz and drummer Kenny Washington.

Tate, 80, who was called the "Greatest bass player in the world," began the concert with pianist Gene Harris and drummer Jeff Hamilton. Brown kept a rock steady beat, but during his solo knew exactly how to rest, slow down and let loose at just the right moment.

Tate had great appeal for the crowd with the song, "You Don't Own Me Now" and "How Could You Do a Thing Like This to Me?" Harris' style drew heavily from that, and the soloists from Elton John, Supercamp and various other N.B.C. late-night comedy musical combos. At the end of the first set, Harris was bobbing his head and swaying while his hands flew across the piano. The trio's opener for the concert drew a standing ovation.

By DAVID PERK

A white stretch limousine parked inside the Kibbie Dome foretold the caliber of the musicians to play in the Lionel Hampton Chevon Jazz Festival all-star concert Friday night.

Among the musicians inducted into the Lionel Hampton School of Music Hall of Fame during the concert were saxophonist/flutist Buddy Tate, pianist Tommy Flanagan, trombonist Carl Fontana, bassist George Mraz and drummer Kenny Washington.

Tate, 80, who was called the "Greatest bass player in the world," began the concert with pianist Gene Harris and drummer Jeff Hamilton. Brown kept a rock steady beat, but during his solo knew exactly how to rest, slow down and let loose at just the right moment.

Tate had great appeal for the crowd with the song, "You Don't Own Me Now" and "How Could You Do a Thing Like This to Me?" Harris' style drew heavily from that, and the soloists from Elton John, Supercamp and various other N.B.C. late-night comedy musical combos. At the end of the first set, Harris was bobbing his head and swaying while his hands flew across the piano. The trio's opener for the concert drew a standing ovation.

By DAVID PERK

A white stretch limousine parked inside the Kibbie Dome foretold the caliber of the musicians to play in the Lionel Hampton Chevon Jazz Festival all-star concert Friday night.

Among the musicians inducted into the Lionel Hampton School of Music Hall of Fame during the concert were saxophonist/flutist Buddy Tate, pianist Tommy Flanagan, trombonist Carl Fontana, bassist George Mraz and drummer Kenny Washington.

Tate, 80, who was called the "Greatest bass player in the world," began the concert with pianist Gene Harris and drummer Jeff Hamilton. Brown kept a rock steady beat, but during his solo knew exactly how to rest, slow down and let loose at just the right moment.

Tate had great appeal for the crowd with the song, "You Don't Own Me Now" and "How Could You Do a Thing Like This to Me?" Harris' style drew heavily from that, and the soloists from Elton John, Supercamp and various other N.B.C. late-night comedy musical combos. At the end of the first set, Harris was bobbing his head and swaying while his hands flew across the piano. The trio's opener for the concert drew a standing ovation.
UI squashes play's publicity

As Is' homosexual subject has already drawn fire

BY DAWN BOBBY
STAFF WRITER

The UI Theater Department will not solicit any newspaper feature articles for its Collete Production of As Is this weekend because of inflammatory letters in the Daily Iowan from Chairman Brian Brockman.

A previous Iowanian feature (Feb. 11) prompted Professor Terry Morin to write a letter denouncing the Theater Department for allowing "Somebady On Stage," and questioning the use of taxpayers' money in mounting "such prurience."

Brockman said he suggested solicitation by the department's public relations staff of feature articles to be stepped up, that only press releases be given to the local media.

"I just don't want to give people like that an opportunity to take things out of context," Brockman said. "I want to make sure things are reported accurately in the media."

"AIDS is a social issue that won't go away, and if we don't go away by not talking about it," Brockman said.

Matewan finds humanity in myth

REVIEW BY KIKI LAUGHLIN
ASSISTANT EDITOR

John Sayles, the king of the shoestring budget, has built his latest film, Matewan, on a series of broad, poetic myths, which accounts for its richness, its personality and for its minor failures.

The film has a historical context. There really was a Matewan, West Virginia, where miners won a battle against the coal company and union activists. This battle resulted in the bloodbath of the Matewan Massacre of 1920.

From this history, like makers of Westerns, Sayles has added romanticism, idealism and broad symbolics, making Matewan a spokesman for a troubled time just as John Wayne movies attempt to depict the settling of Western America and John Ford's The Grapes of Wrath attempted to speak for a generation of people buffered by bad luck.

Sayles' film echoes these types of grand heroes that are ingrained on the American psyche. There are the rich taking advantage of the poor, the powerful trying to buy their way around the law, innocent people killed while trying to do the right thing and, yes, even gun-fights.

The part of the film in which the rich (and, of course, uncanny) coal owner of the coal mines hires gun-shooters to intimidate strikers resembles nothing more than that old standby Shane. There are scenes when Sayles draws on this idea a bit too much, encasing the good guys in showers of light and the bad guys in murky shadows. There is also a rather heavy-handed attempt to show the nobility of the labor union where the black workers and Italian workers play music together and the wives of the different ethnic groups come together in a chorus of crying. Come on, John. You can put away the ton of bricks.

The only reason these incidents stand out so clearly is because of the skill of the rest of the production. Sayles has an impressive, unpolished script, jerkling tangential humor and reserved emotion from a plot which says very, very little was told in the grand cardinards.com of Hollywood. I should add I think what could have happened to this very human story if the director of Year of the Dragon and Heaven's Gate Michael Cimino had gotten ahead of it. Sayles' style is very eye-catching and his attention to detail brings a real sense of this period of the 1800s.

The Untouchables to Tom Clancy's The Sum of All Fears came out of the left-field of independent filmmaking.
2. HOUSES FOR RENT
One bedroom house in Poloisk. Interior, view, and yard are very nice, with a basement and shade trees. $150. Call 883-0145.

5. TRUCKS FOR SALE
MUST SELL! 1981 14120 HD. For only $2800 you can own a reliable farm truck. For further information, come with your kitchen appliance, sheep, and a few old pennies and we will trade for the truck. Please be courteous. We have no back parking lot. Laundry and meal room plus a kitchen. Don't miss out on this opportunity. We can do a $2,000 down, 30-year loan. Willing to work with you on down payment. Please call 882-7281.

7. JOBS

Two free tee sign. Start $85.85/mth. Apply Tri-State.

POSITION OPENING
The Moscow Parks and Recreation Department is accepting applications for the following part-time position:

Youth Leader Supervisor
Salary: $18.40/hour
Hours: 35 hours/week
Responsibilities: Ensure day-to-day operation and quality of the city’s recreation programs for children, teens, and families. Manage volunteer staff. Make presentations for community groups. Prepare and provide up-to-date information to the community regarding recreation programs for children, teens, and families. Perform required paperwork in a timely manner.

Required Qualifications:
- High School Diploma or equivalent
- Experience in the field
- Good communication and organizational skills
- Ability to work independently

Salary: $18.40/hour
Hours: 35 hours/week

APPLICATIONS: Applications are available for this position and must be submitted to the Director of Parks and Recreation at 1501 1st St. E., Moscow, Idaho. The City of Moscow is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

LETTERS FROM PAGE 5
I was taught to remain true to my principles, which is why I was known nationally at that time. This group closely resembles this old band.

At football games the Idaho Marching Band is superb. The bands of other schools such as Boise State and Eastern Washington are of no comparison. This become even more easy when it is known that the participants are dedicated to the point of practicing during the whole hour. The move to get the band onto the football field during the last moments of the Idaho State basketball game was probably a deciding factor in the outcome.

This writer does not possess the talent to play a cornet, but I have the ability to recognize good music.

Best wishes for the future and continued success,
Maynard F. Heran

LETTERS POLICY: The Argonaut will not print letters to the editor unless they are in the interest of the public. Submissions should be no longer than one page, typed, and may be subject to editing. Manuscripts are not returnable.

Letters must be submitted at the editor's discretion.

NOTES: All writers will be notified if their letters are accepted for publication. Letters not accepted will be returned.

The Argonaut is committed to fair and unbiased reporting.

DWEEZIL
by C.S. Farrar
You’re not going to... Or are you?

DANCE
by the MTA Board
-

WANTED
- -

Announcing!
The IBM Personal System/2® Fair!

For once, you’re not the one being begged. Because at the IBM PS/2 Fair, you can put the new IBM computer to the test. You’ll be among4ever-mathematical products, including the Personal System/2 family and InfoWindow™, plus special presentations of Personal Publishing, G2™ and Academic Computing Applications.

So stop by and examine what’s new at IBM. This is one exam you won’t want to miss.

Tuesday, March 1st (9am-4pm)
University of Idaho SUB

- Product demonstrations (Blue Carpet Area): PS/2 and InfoWindow
- Presentations (Appaloosa Room): 11am-12noon IBM Personal System/2 11am-12noon IBM Personal Publishing 12-3pm Academic Computing Applications

- 2pm-3pm

Personal System/2 (PS/2) and Operating Systems (OS/2) trademarks of IBM Corp.