Alcohol allowed at UI?

By MIKE MARKEY
Associate News Editor

A proposal to allow alcohol on campus at the University of Idaho was made this month.

President Elizabeth Zinnert made the proposal which would allow students to purchase alcohol at public schools.

Said Terry Hunter, director of UI Communications and public information: "I propose that the university allow students to purchase alcohol at public schools.

This would open the door for UI students to purchase alcohol at UI public schools.

The Vandal Boosters club has developed a proposal to sponsor a festival to be held beside the Kibbie Dome before home football games. According to Athletic Director Gary Hunter, the booster's festival would be family-oriented, with food, drinks and music.

"It's a good idea," Hunter said. "It would be a good addition to the golf course, according to Mike Thomas, retail dining director of UDS.

"I think it's a good idea," Thomas said. "It would attract a lot of people." Thomosen said.

Hunter will consider the next board meeting set for Sept. 20-21 in Lewiston.

"If the proposal is accepted by the board, it would not only affect the University of Idaho, but also the other public unversities and colleges throughout Idaho.

$1.5 million spent on Dome renovations

By AMTUL-MANNAN SIKHEH

University of Idaho officials spent $1.5 million this year to install turf at the ASU/ Kibbie Dome.

The new Astroturf Magic Carpet System made its debut last week in the Dome.

The project cost the university $1.5 million which also included the removal of the old turf and roller, the air and mechanical system for the new turf's installation and the turf itself.

"It comes from a reserve fund set aside to replace the old carpet. The old carpet had many, many old spots and worn seam areas which caused tripping and other liabilities. We had the old carpet for 17 years which was far too long," said Joanne Reese, director of facility planning.

"We had been setting aside money to replace the carpet for 10 years," Don Amos, business manager of budget and planning, said.

The tops were attached to one end of the carpet and ten pulleys on the east wall unraveled the new carpet. Blower units installed in the floor helped support the carpet during rollout.

"Hooking the turf to the pulleys and unravelling it takes 90 minutes and removal as little as 30 minutes.

The previous roller system took 36 man-hours to pull out the carpet and the same to roll it back up.

According to Athletic Director Gary Hunter, the new turf will decrease injuries and give a softer fall.

"The football players seem to like it," Hunter said, "s it's a little abrasive now but it should get better once it is a little older."

Hunter said that the university expects the new turf to last 10-20 years and the old turf has lasted seven years longer than originally projected.

Over 1500 new parking spots planned by '93

By JULE HAIKER
Staff Writer

By the end of 1993, more than 1,500 new parking spaces should be available to University of Idaho students and faculty.

The new parking facilities will be built in several locations around the university.

"Much of the work being done this fall will concentrate on the partially completed lot number 25, located behind the Wallace Complex," according to Joanne Reese, director of facility planning.

Lot 25 will provide parking for residence hall residents and open up more parking for commuters.

"Brooming, the construction of a pedestrian walkway between the west Dome parking lot and the west end of University will be completed. According to Reese, this would make the Dome lot more accessible for parking.

Other plans for the next year include the new parking lot at the Sixth Street Office Building (for-ermerly Murdock's) and two new parking lots north of that building.

Also planned is the expansion of the parking lot behind the Memorial Stadium.

"It (the parking plan) is a very ambitious project," Reese said. "It is intended to serve for the forseeable future." In order to finance the parking plans, the University has sold approximately $1.7 million worth of 20-year bonds to the public.
Sigma Nus named in drinking suit

By LARRY OLSEN
Staff Writer

Esther Louise McCall believes that more people than just the driver who hit her car are responsible for the death of her five-year-old son and her personal injuries.

A lawsuit filed this August by John Norton, McCall's attorney, states that the Sigma Nu fraternity at the University of Idaho and Ronald H. Nelson's three passengers contributed to the fatal accident.

Norton is basing the suit against the fraternity on a precedent which has held liquor stores and bar owners responsible for the sale of alcohol to people under the influence who later get in accidents.

In March, McCall settled her lawsuit against Nelson, a UI student, out of court. Nelson drove a pick-up while intoxicated, swerving into McCall's car north of Potlatch near Tensed. Nelson was found guilty of vehicular manslaughter for the August 1988 incident at the first district court in St. Maries and was sentenced to a year in the Busewah county jail. He also faces seven years of probation and his driving privileges have been revoked for five years.

After two major surgeries on her knee, McCall said one more is needed. Each surgery reconstruction consists of a metal plate and eleven pins adding up to $80,000 worth of expenses.

McCall declined to reveal the amount of her suit against Nelson but it was enough to deplete his and his parent's insurance reserves. Nelson said the insurance money is not enough to pay for all of his medical and other expenses.

On the night of the accident, Nelson and his passengers stopped at the Sigma Nu fraternity ty. After staying there awhile, the group went back to the Sigma Nu fraternity. Brett

VISA & MASTERCARD
Student involvement necessary to stop rape

Maryann (not her real name) is a sophomore business major here at Idaho. Three weeks ago she was looking forward to the beginning of classes. Two weeks ago she attended a party and was raped. Last week she packed up her things and moved back home. This is not an isolated incident, at least two other women have been raped or otherwise sexually assaulted since school began. Recently, a sophomore woman was grabbed from her residence by a group of men, taken to their apartment, inside, encircled by the men and made to listen and watch as they harassed her with obscenities and gestures. Shocked? You shouldn't be. According to an article in the September issue of Glamour magazine, one in seven women say they are raped, one in four are sexually assaulted. Idaho is no different.

At Idaho, cases of women being raped or assaulted while walking home are rare, but they do occur. Last year, two women were attacked and battered while walking home from a party. Most rapes and assaults on this campus occur in parties or date situations. This type of rape is often under reported. Many women don't know that they are the victims of a crime; they tend to blame themselves. Still others are afraid of possible public humiliation or retribution from the attacker or attackers, and who can blame them?

Many people don't realize that men who commit these types of crimes against women just as easily turn violent on another woman. Not many people realize that these men don't just rape, batter or assault once, they do it again and again.

What is anybody doing to put a stop to this outrageous behavior? In all actuality, a lot. Both the police and the university have programs for helping victims report, file charges for and cope with rape and other sexual crimes.

Incidents may be reported to the police or to the University Judicial Committee, or to both. In each case the student filling the report or charges may have her name kept confidential.

In addition, the Women's Center gives lectures, hosts speakers, gives workshops and shows informational films about rape and other sexual crimes. The Student Counseling Center also provides help for victims of these crimes. The university, police, Women's center and counseling center work together to prevent, detect, prosecute and aid in recovering from sexual crimes. The only group missing from this chain are students.

Two years ago, the ASUI held a rape awareness week, do you remember it? Neither do I. While it was an excellent idea, lack of participation on the part of students made it, for the most part, ineffective. The university, the police and campus safety office can yell and scream as loud as they want about this problem; but it is not going to stop until people learn that this violent, misogynistic behavior is not only unacceptable to society but also criminal.

In order to stop rape and sexual assault from occurring on this campus, students must begin educating other students. They can do this by making each other know that physically or emotionally injuring another person is wrong. They must support those who report and/or press charges against offenders. They must let each other know that drinking to the point of losing control of yourself is wrong. Only with pressure from their peers, will animals start behaving like human beings.

ASUI President failing to represent student agenda

March has changed in the relatively short amount of time since I served as ASUI President. Unfortunately, not many of these changes have been positive for students.

We have been groped with yet another fee increase and we are faced with a parking plan that is frankly unacceptable, not to mention recent infringements on student government autonomy.

Tina Kagi

Commentary

I wish I could say that our student government had adamantly opposed these developments, but that would be stretching the truth.

In fact, if ASUI President David Pena has spoken at all on these matters, he has sounded more like a hired gun for administrative bureaucrats than someone elected to represent student interests.

Pena all but supported the $77 fee increase that students will shell out this year without first gathering student opinion or even consulting the ASUI Senate. He certainly did not put up any thing more than token opposition. To make matters worse he accepted the parking fees and the ASUI Senate members of the time when the Idaho Board of Education would be acceptable as a 北京 University of Washington Post, but it is a rare and valuable testing ground for aspiring journalists. More "professional involvement" means less student control, fewer opportunities for students to gain experience and a diminished ability for students to make decisions that "mean something".

It seems to me that the professionals, staff and administrators on this campus have more than the east side of the Buchanan Engineering Building and is used heavily by commuter students. It should have never been closed to students.

Lot 19, between the Wallace Complex and the Law Building, we have been closed to students. Turning the north half of that lot into commuter parking will open up more parking for the residence hall students and eliminate the large parking lots of pressure from the surrounding lots and streets.

Lot 28 should have never been turned into a red lot. By the university's own definition it is a storage lot and should be priced accordingly. Lot 28 is on 7th Street behind the Gamma Phi Beta sorority house.

We believe these changes should be acted upon immediately and that refund or exchange permits should be given to students when appropriate.

We strongly urge students to voice their opinions about parking at the Parking Forum in the SUB Rotch Theater at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 30.

Students urged to voice views on parking

Editor:

It is the beginning of the new school year and the university has changed the parking plan again. We believe that while some of the changes have been welcome, there are several that have not been good for the students' best interest and should be changed.

Until such a time that a more comprehensive parking plan can be adopted, we are requesting three parking regulation changes that will ease the critical parking problems students are facing.

Parking lot 53 should be retained as a red lot. Lot 53 is on the their fair share of representation. The students elected Dave Pena to promote their agenda, not that of the UI Administration. I fail to understand why Pena is more willing to represent the powers that be than his constituents who need him most.

The last time I checked, the ASUI in front of Pena's name stood for Associated STUDENTS University of Idaho, not Associated STAFF. University of Idaho. Perhaps that has changed as well.

Q: I've been away from the collegiate environment for several years and I seem to have lost touch with current college slang. Can you translate for me?

Here's my situation: There's this woman here that I'd like to see more of. When we met we seemed to hit it off real well. I find her to be pretty, smart and funny, and she really seems to have her act together. We share a lot of the same tastes and values — we even like the same music and beer.

So I called her to ask her out a few weeks ago. She said she'd love to invite me over — as soon as her furniture arrived and she got her place redecorated.

A: It's been about two weeks now and I haven't heard from her, even though I've left messages at her home and the place she works. I'm starting to wonder if "as soon as my furniture arrives" is the 90's version of "I'm washing my hair that night."

Should I be a pest, call her again and press for a more definite time for a date, or assume I'm being blown off and forget it? Or do you think that she really doesn't have furniture yet? As if she hasn't returned your messages by now, you can probably assume that she isn't interested. Don't press her for a definite answer on a date — that will probably only alienate her and ruin any chances the two of you have at a relationship, be it just friends or otherwise. It sounds like you have made every effort; let her be the one to make the next move.

Thanks for writing.

Vandals rally late for victory

By CHRIS GATEWOOD Staff Writer

The Vandals rallied for a come-from-behind victory in the fourth quarter against Southwest Texas State University.

Quarterback Doug Nussmeier completed 11 straight passes down the stretch and Idaho defensive back Reggie Smith blocked a punt to help the Vandals score 17 straight points in the fourth quarter for the 38-35 victory.

"The kids really hung in there, this will make them grow as a football team," said Vandals Head Coach John L. Smith. "They never quit, it was a real gut check."

The big play in the comeback was the blocked punt by Smith who broke around the left end, came in untouched, blocked it and pounced on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown. Smith's score tied the game at 35 with 6:22 left in the game.

"I knew I could block it because they were giving me all the room I wanted," Reggie Smith said. "We were running a return on that play but the coaches gave me the green light to rush and the play worked."

Nussmeier completed 28 of 40 passes for 268 yards, threw two touchdown passes, ran for another and had two passes intercepted.

"The offensive line was the difference today," Nussmeier said. "They gave me all day to sit back and pick out my receivers."

Once again Kasey Dunn was the leading Vandal receiver, catching nine passes for 95 yards and one touchdown. Unlike last week against Montana State, Nussmeier did manage to spread the wealth as Yo Murphy caught five balls and right end Scott Dahlquist added four.

"The receivers ran good patterns and got open," Nussmeier said.

The revamped offensive line played an outstanding game giving Nussmeier all day to throw. He was never sacked and only pressured once.

The running game also showed promise. Running back Devon Pearce, who saw limited action against Montana State, had 66 yards on 18 carries. Nussmeier added 47 yards on the ground.

New weak tackle Jody Schug played well until injuring his eye late in the second quarter.

"The line played well today," Smith said. "I was really pleased with Schug until he got hurt."

Thompson leads Idaho to victories in Texas

By JOE MALLET
Staff Writer

The University of Idaho's women's volleyball team picked up two wins over the weekend during their three-match road trip in Texas. Friday night they lost a close match against the University of Texas-Arlington by scores of 12-15, 15-12, 15-7, 9-15, and 19-16. Saturday they bounced back from the defeat and trounced Texas A&M 15-7, 15-13, and 15-9. The Vandals carried that momentum into Sunday when they also beat the University of North Texas in three straight games, 15-5, 15-9, and 15-12.

Karen Thompson fit right into the Texas mixtape during the road trip this past weekend. Everything is big in Texas, and Thompson proved to be no exception as she led the Vandals in all three matches with play that was definitively larger than life. Thompson averaged above five kills per game over the weekend and impressed head coach Tom Hilbert. "She was unstoppable," Hilbert said. "She played great." In the Vandals win Saturday over Texas A&M, Thompson had 17 kills and 22 digs. The next day, in the Vandals victory over the University of North Texas, Thompson had six kills, five service aces, and four blocks. She played well in all areas of the game, stacking up impressive numbers for short three game victories.

Despite her standout play, the Vandals showed that they do not have a "lone star" team. Everyone played well as a team. When Thompson scored her five service aces against the University of North Texas, the team answered with six more of their own. The biggest surprise of the tournament was the play of previously injured true-freshman, Jessica Puckett. Puckett showed that the Vandals strength is real, not just the wake of Karen Thompson. Puckett came off the bench to start this weekend after being sidelined by a shoulder injury. "I was pleased that Jessica could step right in and be real competitive," Hilbert said.

Puckett provided the needed power opposite Thompson, despite being set back due to her absence from play.

Community to get sentimental about lentils

By PATRICK J. TRAPP
Staff Writer

Contemplating what to do this weekend? Well, you could check out a concert, go fishing, go to an art exhibition or go to a new restaurant. Wouldn't it be nice if you could do all these things in one place. Well you can Sept. 12-15 at the second annual National Lentil Festival.

The National Lentil Festival is a community-wide event to commemorate the Palouse's biggest source of industry—the lentil bean.

It kicks off Wednesday with Washington's Home Crown Dinner from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at Rousey Park in Pullman. An array of dishes from the state's commodity commissions will be served.

"I'm really looking forward to this year's dinner," Pullman resident Tom Kurle said. "They are featuring dishes from the beef and barley industries as well as the Green Bluff Apple Growers, Walla Walla Sweet Onion Growers, Whitman County Wheat Growers and of course the Dry Pea and Lentil Commission. It's a great improvement over last year's dinner."

A five member variety band, Blue Highway, will provide entertainment for the dinner. Tickets are $2 and are available at the Pullman Park and Recreation office, Washington Water Power and the Pullman Chamber of Commerce office.

Another feature of the festival is the fourth annual Palouse Visual Artist's Exhibition. Out of 230 local artist's entries, 52 pieces were chosen to be exhibited. Some of the art on display will be for sale to the public.

"The continued support of local artists and response from the community makes this exhibit very special," said Barney Sancides, exhibit chairman and member of the Pullman Chamber of Commerce Art Committee.

Festival Chairman Kristi Kurle said the festival is held to improve the Palouse public image of the lentil.

"Our purpose with the National Lentil Festival is to educate people on how important the lentil is to our economy," Kurle said. "Also, we wanted to do something unique. We know no one else in the nation would have a lentil festival. No beans about it—this festival is one of a kind!"

The highlight of the festival is on Saturday when there will be a quilt show, arts and crafts fair, a fishing derby, children's fair and games, ethnic heritage concerts and the Campbell's sponsored lentil cook-off. Lentil Lane will feature food booths serving such delicacies as lentil ice cream, lentil tacos, lentil pizza and chile made with—yes, you guessed it—lentils.

"It's a great time," Kurle said. "The best part about it is the excitement of having all those people in the park. The entertainment is outstanding."

Between 3,500 and 5,000 people attended the festival on Saturday last year, but Kurle said she thinks the festival will keep getting bigger every year.

"It takes a while for things like this to grow," said Kurle. "We have had really good publicity and we are expecting more people than last year. So everyone comes on down. Tase T. Lentil our 7-foot mascot wants to see you here!"

The lowly lentil is big business on Palouse

Analysis By PATRICK J. TRAPP
Staff Writer

"With Campbell's soup is good food! Momma-Momma good!" This is a jingle we all grow up with, but without the humble Palouse region in which we live, the world renowned Campbell's company may never have existed.

One of the main ingredients in Campbell's soup products is the pride of the Palouse—the lentil. Outside of the Palouse, few lentil farms exist. In fact, 98 percent of the nation's lentils come from this area. In appreciation of the lentil farms, Campbell's company is sponsoring several of the events in this week's Lentil Festival.

It is reassuring to know that the Palouse, with a tiny bean, holds the fate of a megacommpany in its hand. Let's face it, the tiny little legume—the lentil, is worth celebrating!

There is a lot more to the lentil bean than soup. Though bulk lentil and soup are the only products I could find actually sold on the market, recipe books across the nation contain interesting lentil dishes. Everything from lentil chili to lentil pizza and tacos can be made from this multi-talented bean. You can even puree lentils to make delicious ice cream and milk shakes. Its high nutritional value makes it a great substitute for fatty foods (Slim Fast eat your heart out).

"The lentil bean is high in protein and fiber and low in cholesterol and fat, so it is a great substitute for meat products and the like," said Lentil Festival Chairman Kristi Kurle. The red lentil also has great potential as a crop for the dryland farming areas of the Palouse. Laurie White, a member of the Palouse Commission, said in the near future we will see more lentil products on the market.

So just as we honor secretaries during Secretaries' Week and librarians during National Librarians' Week, let's take a moment or two out of this week to honor the pride of the Palouse, the little bean that could.

HERE'S WHY THE SMART MONEY AT THE UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO IS GOING WITH TIAA-CREF AS IF THE FUTURE DEPENDED ON IT.

Because it does. Smart investors know that your future depends on how well your retirement system performs. At the University of Idaho, you can now become part of the largest private retirement system in the world.

For over seventy years, TIAA-CREF has been building a sound financial future for people in education and research. Today, over 1,000,000 people are participating in the TIAA-CREF system, and more than 200,000 retirees are now enjoying the benefits of their TIAA-CREF annuities.

SECURITY, GROWTH, AND DIVERSITY: THE KEYS TO A GOOD RETIREMENT SYSTEM

Security—so the resources are there when it’s time to retire. Growth—so you’ll have enough income for the kind of retirement you want. And diversity—to help protect you against market volatility and to let you benefit from several types of investments.

THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT YOU GET WITH TIAA-CREF:

TIAA’s traditional annuity offers you the safety of guaranteed principal plus a specified rate of interest, and provides the opportunity for additional growth through dividends. CREF’s variable annuity gives you opportunities for growth through four different investment accounts, each managed with the long-term perspective that is essential to sound retirement planning: the CREF Stock Account, the CREF Money Market Account, the CREF Bond Market Account, and the CREF Social Choice Account.

HERE ARE SOME GOOD REASONS TO CHOOSE TIAA-CREF:

1. Performance. The CREF Stock Account has outperformed the S&P 500 Index and mutual fund industry averages for the last 5- and 10-year periods.* The CREF Money Market Account has shown excellent returns, outperforming the industry average virtually since its inception. TIAA has declared dividends every year for over 40 years, and its net earned rate has beaten the industry average for every one of those years. TIAA is ranked A+ (Superior) by A.M. Best Company.

2. Strength. We have done so well, for so many, for so long that we currently manage some $85 billion in assets.

3. Low Expenses. We are a nonprofit organization dedicated solely to the education and research communities, so our expenses are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries. We deduct no sales or expense charges from your premiums, so more of your retirement dollars are working for you.

4. Service. Our counselors are experienced, full-time retirement planning specialists, not commissioned salespeople. And our Participant Counselors and network of toll-free telephone numbers put information about your annuities at your fingertips.

LET US SHOW YOU THE DIFFERENCE.

If you are a member of the Public Employees Retirement System of Idaho (PERSI), and eligible for the ORP, you have until September 28, 1990 to choose the Optional Retirement Plan, through which TIAA-CREF is offered. We can give you the information you need to make a good decision, and we’ll prepare illustrations that compare your benefits under PERSI and under the ORP, based on your personal situation.

Idol’s latest arouses the senses

By CHRISS GATEWOOD Staff Writer

That spiked blond hair is back. The leather, snarl, sweat, and moaning are back, Yeah, you know who I’m talking about. Mothers, hide your daughters because Billy Idol is back and he’s bolder and better than ever. Idol, the man who brought you the smash hits “White Wedding” and “Dancing with Myself” and “Do Not Stand in the Shadows” has a new album out, and from the sound of it Billy Idol hasn’t lost his touch. Charmed Life is the name of the album and after the sales figures come in Idol will surely be charmed.

This album has a little bit of everything for the Idol fan. It has some very melodic slow songs and the trademark Billy Idol hard-rocking, straight forward material. The lyrics on the album are filled with the typical Idol sexual overtones but it doesn’t matter because most of the time you can’t understand what he’s saying. Musically, the guitar work by Mark Younger-Smith is creative and powerful. He displays the ability to play hard and mix it in with good melody. The album starts out with two good songs “The Love You Give” and “Pumping on Steel.” “The Killer Kisser” has fantastic guitar but the lyrics are a little simple, for example the first verse - “Well I know she’s waiting for me/Yeah/ Outside of society I know she’s waiting for me/Ooh Baby.” “Pumping on Steel” is a good smooth tune with great bass from Arthur Morrow and some very erotic lyrics for Idol to sigh suggestively. “But when I get home/I walk right to your door/Hey baby I want some more/Lead me girl” Smith also provides some strong guitar.

“L.A. Woman,” the fourth track on the album is by far the best. The re-make of the Doors tune can only be described by one word - awesome! The song has pure power as Idol moans, groans and struts his way through every lyric, dripping with sexual power. Smith adds wonderful guitar as he reaches out and aggressively grabs the listener.

Of the last three songs the best is “Love Unchained.” It’s a good straight forward song with some excellent guitar.

Once again Idol has shown that the real secret to success in the music industry is consistency. Idol, through the years, hasn’t changed his style yet has stayed popular in an era of flash-in-the-pan. When it comes to explicit lyrics and ear splitting guitar fueled by raw power, nothing, not even a crippling motorcycle accident can stop Billy Idol.

Theater, ASUI Productions events free

By JENNIFER KOOMAN Staff Writer

Beginning this year, UI students won’t have to pay for Hartung Theater productions for ASUI sponsored productions. The ASUI senate approved a budget which included funds to give to the Theater Arts Department. Now students won’t have to pay high prices to attend performances at the Hartung. According to Bruce Brockman, chair of the theater arts department, every student with a valid ID card will receive a flyer in the mail with a ticket in it. All students will have to do to get their tickets is to turn these flyers in at Ticket Express, show their ID card, and get the ticket punched, thus, receiving free admission to the performance. “We’re really excited about this. I think what kept students from coming to our productions was the fact that they had to pay such high prices,” Brockman said. “Now that we have been appropriated funds, we can afford not to charge students to attend our productions. Hopefully we can get more students to come.”

ASUI productions will also be free to students, including events such as Second City, a comedy act which will appear in the UI Auditorium on Sept. 12. Also coming to the university will be Crazy 8’s, in the SUB Ballroom on Sept. 15. The first Hartung Theater production will be “Hot L Baltimore,” starting Oct. 11 and running through Oct. 21.
