White's bill re-approved

The ASU Senate reconsidered and re-passed the resolution supporting State Congressman Gino White's bill for a higher state mini-num wage Wednesday night after correcting an error in time-ing of last week's vote.

White's bill would raise the minimum wage from $2.30 per hour to $3.

Adjourned Past Stone, standing in for Secretary Shirley Smith last Wednesday, mistakenly recorded Sen. Joe Erickson's vote on the resolution as "aye," when it had been "nay." The vote was recorded in the minutes at 8:55, do pass.

This week's vote was at 7:40, do pass.

However, a resolution needs a majority vote for passage.

"THE state that gave workers pay increase," said Senator Robert Watson.

Watson voiced a two-thirds vote to pass and since the meeting's recording revealed a discrepancy, the Senate moved to approve the minimum wage vote at 7:40 do pass.

Sen. Mike Gough later moved to reconsider the resolution and give Senators, Robert Watson, and Christina Hendricks, who had been absent from last week's meeting, a chance to vote.

This week I did take this to my living groups," McCurry said. "I know someone who goes there, because they did not agree with the way I voted...I made a wrong decision last week, and I apologize to my living groups for that.

Ceres charters UI chapter

Chartering a women's fraternity is no easy task, but the 12 members of Ceres International Women's Fraternity at the University of Idaho plan to see their fraternity become a chapter just the same.

"Even though our numbers are few, we are working hard to recruit new members and help people become familiar with Ceres and what it is," said Carla Morgan, public relations coordinator.

Ceres is an internationally recognized women's fraternity looking to establish a chapter at the University. Founded in 1983 at Colorado State University, Ceres maintains close ties with the FarmHouse fraternity in its emphasis on agriculture and ag-related sciences.

The founding women's club envied a role for women in American agriculture not being given the recognition it deserved. They banded together with women and agriculture-related majors and became Ceres.

"Ceres is intended to indicate our pride and accomplishments in our nation's agricultural heritage," Morgan said. "The Identity of Ceres upholds these ideals as well.

Named after the Roman godess of agriculture, Ceres believes that agricultural orientation should be one of their fundamental attributes. But that does not limit the students who can become part of Ceres. Women of all backgrounds and majors are welcome to pledge.

Losi Sutton, the colony's president, said their biggest obstacle so far has been creating a unified set-ing in which the 12 members and 11 pledges can meet and eventually live.

"We would like to see housing arrangements by next fall," Sutton said.

She also said they were looking at renting off campus until permanently housed can be found.

Study reveals Peace Corp a positive impact Seminars conducted at UI

BY HOYT MICHENER
STAFF WRITER

Peace Corps representatives conducted two seminars as part of a two-day special recruiting effort here at the University of Idaho.

The recruiting effort was led by Shari Decker, UI Peace Corps representative, who stressed a new study that revealed the Peace Corps experience has a positive impact on career choices and success.

The first seminar was delayed because of technical difficulties with visual equipment. Consequently, the seminar was moved to show videos on Peace Corps volunteers from the Pacific Northwest.

The second seminar went more smoothly with a slide show called “Panorama of Nepal.” Cultural music from Nepal flowed through the air as the slide presentations proceeded. Pictures ranged from village people and breath-taking scenery to special projects like water tank development.

According to the study presented to the convention of the American Psychological Association in August of 1987, former volunteers excelled in career diversity, upward mobility, and continued community involvement. The author of the study is Dr. Joseph O’Donoghue, who is a faculty member in the Psychology Department of Mercy College in Dobbs Ferry, New York.

What happens to the volunteers when they return to the American labor market?

“Former Peace Corps volunteers are consistently out-performing their fellow workers in terms of salary gains and upward career mobility,” reports O’Donoghue in his study.

His report, “The Peace Corps Experience: Its Lifetime Impact on U.S. Volunteers,” was done with his wife, Dr. Mary Ann O’Donoghue, also a psychologist and associate professor at Mercy College.

One of the findings of the study is that Peace Corps volunteers who completed a college major in the arts, humanities, or social sciences have a significantly higher career mobility index.

PEACE Corp representative Maggie Miller and Shari Decker handed out information to students Steve Smart and Ann Conoho earlier this week.

Forum presents lecture on INF

The UI Student Forum is presenting a lecture on the INF Treaty. Dr. Richard Farley will answer questions concerning the effects of the only nuclear arms treaty to come out of the Reagan Era.

The lecture is slated for Tuesday, Mar. 1, at 4 p.m. in Room 233, a Political Seminar Room, of the Adams Building. Everyone, regardless of age, is welcome.

Correction and Clarifications

Contrary to popular belief or rumor, as seen in an UCCY article, (Aragonaut Feb. 23), ASUI Attorney General John Hansen is a third-year law student and not a second-year student.

Financial Aid deadline is March 11

1. Students expecting to receive financial aid for Fall 88/Spring 89 must have completed the FAF (the FAF must have already been returned from the California processing station), and turned the UI institutional applications (Green Form) in to the Financial Aid office by Mar. 11 to avoid being on the “late list.” Students on a “late list” this year did not receive aid other than Pell Grants and GSLs.

Looking for Miss Idaho, USA

A representative from the Miss Idaho, USA pageant will be on campus to recruit contestants for the 1988 competition. The Miss Idaho, USA pageant is a non-talent, state final pageant. Interested women ages 17-23 as of Feb. 1, 1989 are encouraged to attend this informational meeting Mar. 21 between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. in the Chiefs room of the SUB.

AFROTC to close 30 detachments nationwide

BY CLAYTON HAILEY

The effects of a Congressional decision to curtail the peacetime military forces are trickling down to college campuses across the nation. In order to comply with the Department of Defense requirement to reduce the officer corps by 7 percent in fiscal year 1988, 30 Air Force ROTC detachments throughout the nation will close up shop.

The closures, based on budget constraints, will constitute the latest reduction in officer strength since 1976, when 14 university AFROTC detachments were terminated as a result of the conclusion of the Vietnam War.

A reduction of 30 detachments and seven consolidations of units nationwide will bring the AFROTC detachments totals from 159 to 134, AFROTC is expecting to scale back to 2,500 cadets passing through the program per year by 1990. Presently, an average of 3,000 AFROTC cadets receive commissions as active-duty officers.

Among the schools in the Pacific Northwest to be affected by the closure is Central Washington University-Detachment 895 in Ellensburg, Wash., University of Portland-Detachment 675, at Portland, Ore., and University of Puget Sound-Detachment 900, at Seattle, Wash.

This constitutes half of the AFROTC detachments in the Pacific Northwest. Under the reduction agenda, juniors and seniors in the AFROTC program will be allowed "THE quality of the program is excellent here. We have one of the highest graded detachments in the nation." - Major Whitacre to finish their education at their present school while freshmen and sophomores just entering the program will be given an ultimatum. Underclassmen can either transfer to a school where an AFROTC program exists or drop out of the AFROTC program. This stipulation will affect scholarship as well as non-scholarship candidates. There are 130 freshmen and 70 sophomores in the three local detachments closing. Among these figures include 32 freshmen and 13 sophomores with AFROTC scholarships. Candidates from the three Pacific Northwest detachments as well as other college units are being targeted by the Washington State University detachment for possible recruitment. UI is a satellite of the WSU detachment. The advantages to WSU and UI in receiving new candidates from closing units will be more than just an increase in the ranks of the 130 plus members of Detachment 905. Recruiting of candidates already having scholarships would provide increased out-of-state tuition revenues since the Air Force picks up the tab for "scholarshipped" candidates.

Major Thomas Whitacre, a WSU professor of aerospace studies, says the two campuses on the Palouse have more to offer than just money.

"WSU and the UI are strong because of superior engineering programs," Whitacre said. "The quality of the program is excellent here. We have one of the highest graded detachments in the nation."
Thou shalt not censor

Please be advised of the following literary works public school students are no longer allowed to read: "The Wizard of Oz," "Cinderella," "Huckleberry Finn," "Mein Kampf" and "1984.

Books like these are objectionable "un-God-like" material that could morally sapacitize the young pure minds.

For the sake of freedom of choice, our sanity and the basis of democracy thank God this isn’t true. Are the "book-burning" rituals of the 60s back? Not exactly, but many factions of fundamental Christians have sure been working hard at denying the MAJORITY the right to read certain pieces of literature.

In a dramatic ruling last week, the Supreme Court upheld a federal appeals court decision ending a widely publicized, 2-year-long, Godless material case.

Fundamental Christians in a Tennessee public school district objected strongly enough to "Godless" material students were required to read, that they went all the way to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court ruled that it was indeed constitutional for public schools to require fundamental Christian students to read books the public school system as a whole deemed worthy.

Public school systems have set up for the MAJORITY, not the MINORITY, to have their say.

Furthermore, whenever a religious sect objects to the quality of education their students are receiving in a public school system, they are more than welcome to send their children to private schools and leave secular education to the MAJORITY of Americans.

Although the quality of education in the public school system leaves a lot to be desired, it works for the status quo; and the MAJORITY is not complaining.

Last month, I questioned the logic and sanity of our Supreme Court in their decision to allow high school administrators the power to censor high school publications.

However, now my faith has been partially restored by this latest censorship ruling. Otherwise, there would be no telling what would be censored next.

In addition, I would like to take an opportunity to address these Harper Valley hypocrites.

If they can justify denying millions the right to read so called "un-God-like" material like Cinderella, or science fiction by Isaac Asimov, but rather he was guilty of utilizing the services of a prostitute.

Should our children be subjected to hearing or reading "Godless" news like this? Why wasn’t this censored?

Denying other children the right to read certain books is among the worst forms of censorship.

However, it is especially repugnant when the censoring is being done by those who have trouble interpreting what is "God-like" and "un-God-like."

Terrorism: The systematic use of terror especially as a means of coercion

If we accept the above definition of terrorism, then Republican presidential candidate Jack Kemp was correct in saying that the United States won a victory over terrorism when Attorney General Edwin Meese III is named to enforce the Anti-Terrorism Act of 1987.

The Act would close the Palestinian Liberation Organization’s (PLO) offices in the United Nations. When implemented, the U.S. action would effectively end the 13-year-old U.N. observer status of the PLO. But some say it would be against our international legal obligations under the U.N. charter.

The quarrel with the U.S. is not over whether this action should be taken, but also the hypocrisy it shows in enacting such a law. The Congress and the President, it is permissible to break certain obligations and squelch the Palestinian voice in the U.N. and this country while allowing other terrorist organizations to remain in the country.

There can be little doubt the PLO has supported terrorist acts. But so has the Jewish Defense League (JDL) which is on the FBI’s list of terrorist organizations.

The JDl, most recently admitted to sabotaging a PLO ship in Cyprus. Although the ship was not loaded with passengers, the JDl said it would wait until the ship was full before doing it again. The JDl has offices in this country. Why not shut them down? And what about the Contras? It certainly can be said the Contras are using terror and force to bring about change in Nicaragua. This coercive approach is added by the U.S. and is analogous to other terrorist organizations.

The legislative and executive branches of the U.S. government are not much different from other organizations that support terrorists. Should we then shut them down too?

Furthermore, look at the terrorism this country experienced as our nation was born. To their British land-lords, our first freedom fighters were nothing more than terrorists seeking to destroy the established church. Should they have been shut down?

And what about rebellious slaves in the 18th century or blacks during the 80’s? Were we shut down. Should they have been?

The United States, where freedom supposedly reigns, gives its President the dictatorial power of being the "Lender of the Free World." But we sit and watch—and a timesilded—the fight against self determination. South Africa and Israel are two of the best examples.

We ignore South Africa and support Israel whether they be right or wrong. The U.S. sends $3 billion a year in aid to Israel, with offering minimal criticism to Israel’s violence against Palestinians.

One man’s terrorist is another man’s freedom fighter. The United States must develop a foreign policy according to what is consistent with freedom and democracies, not with policies that are subject to special interests.
I would also like to thank the 360+ people who donated blood, especially all the first timers. As I have said in the past, your blood can make more than any amount of money can save lives. I hope you will continue to donate blood in the future, because it will be needed daily.

This brings me to my final list. The following people have now donated one gallon of blood and deserve to be congratulated: Yvonne Gochi, Joseph King, Bill Crew, Teresa Hagan, Karen Hansen, Matthew Pettinger, Steve Spangler, Jim Richardson, Jim Showers, Monica Canaris, Steve Soltys, Jack Cooper, Measure Koppelman, and Judy Moulton. Mark Byra and Kerry Campbell have now given two gallons of blood, and Pat Samuel has donated three (please forgive me if I left anyone out). Thank you again to all those who helped out. The next blood drive will be April 19-21 at the SUB. I hope to see you all there!

Army program aids in job placement

Editor:

Your position on jobs for liberal arts majors has a certain amount of merit and raises the old issue of whether a university (or any center with research centers) are designed to expand the student's mind or to prepare a graduate for a job. We in the Military Science Department are somewhat guilty of the engineering/business bias that was so strong a few years ago to the point of our scholarships being given to business and engineering students and the rest to other disciplines.

The new list will be put in the records today and will be in the argument for those who have shown interest in the program. Once the list is determined, it will be available to interested students. The list will include all those who have shown interest in the program.

PCJ thanks writers and is ready for more

Editor:

The editorial staff of Paradise Creek Journal would like to take this opportunity to thank many writers who submitted material for our first issue. Due to space considerations, we were unable to print all of the fine work which was received. The volume and high quality of the submissions make our task of selecting material both demanding and rewarding.

The manuscripts from the fall issue are now available for return. To receive your poem, essay, or short story please send a SASE with your name and the title of your work to Paradise Creek Journal, Room 200 Brink Hall, or contact me at 882-3055 (evenings) to make arrangements to pick it up in person. Unclaimed manuscripts will be destroyed after March 31, 1988.

We welcome suggestions and comments from our readers and contributors. If you have a question, a complaint and/or idea please let us know by contacting me by phone or by sending a note to one of the addresses listed above.

Once again, thank you for your contributions.

Editor:

I am consistently amazed and shocked at the lack of understanding of the Gay Rights issue demonstrated by editors in the Argonaut. The Tuesday editorial by Thomas Lawford was extremely biased and inflammatory. One would hope for more intelligence and compassion from people writing for a university publication. Doesn't the writer realize that about 10 percent of the male population are born gay, and a smaller percentage of women are born homosexual. At the age of 15 or 16, when they discover their sexual orientation, these adolescents also wonder what they can expect from their parents, friends, acquaintances, classmates, and teachers. These students often look to their families, later on, they tend to develop a feeling of alienation and possibly a feeling of being branded a criminal and thereby stigmatized. Let us hope for better education in the future.

Students participate in Pet Therapy for elderly

BY DAVID JOHANSON
STAFF WRITER

Pets have always been man’s best friends. For kids, adults and anyone else, pets are always ready to give and receive as much love and attention as they can. Pets are also able to help many of the elderly and shut-in with their playfulness and love.

Because of this, the women of Willis Sweet started a program in which they take pets to the Good Samaritan Nursing Home to help the elderly become more active and reduce loneliness.

The program is called Pet Therapy and the Latah County Humane Society is allowing college students to bring some of their smaller pets such as puppies and kittens to the elderly.

This helps the students get conversations going with people at the home so they will be able to learn more about each other. The animals will also help relieve tension and loneliness an elderly person may be feeling.

The students hope the close contact the elderly will have with these pets will help them to participate in this program as an eye service. Volunteer hours can also be counted towards practical credits in some departments. The recreation department has given credits for this service in the past. Those looking for more information about the credits should see their advisors.

Students would be able to help with the program Wednesday at 2:30 p.m.

Those with questions about the program or are interested in volunteering should contact Debbie Cox.

Hampton receives UI honorary doctorate

President Gibb calls jazz musician "a great humanitarian"

BY KIRK LAUGHLIN

Lionel Hampton, capping off sentiments he's expressed throughout the years, declared the importance of UI during the ceremony in which UI officials granted him an honorary doctorate.

Hampton, according to UI President Richard Gibb, was worthy for the degree because of his humanitarian work in general and especially for the special interest Hampton has taken throughout the years in the UI.

The degree bestowed upon Hampton was the Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters.

During a general address to the audience in the near-full University Auditorium, Gibb said to Hampton, "It is an honor to have you with us tonight."

Lytt St. James, a personal friend of Hampton's and principal of the Martin Luther King Jr. High School, addressed the audience just before Hampton was given the degree.

St. James said that he thought this honor would outweigh the other honors that Hampton had received.

"Lionel has hundreds of friends and thousands of fans," said St. James. "The University of Idaho holds a special place in his heart."

She also underscored the fact that Hampton has been a tireless performer, making him even more suited to the UI, said St. James. "His dream," the continued, "is to make the Lionel Hampton School of Music into the Julliard of the Northwest."

Thomas O. Bell, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Research, and Gibb conferred the honorary degree to Hampton. From the body of the degree Justice Gibb read that "It is altogether fitting that the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters be conferred upon Lionel Hampton for his work as a consummate musician, a great humanitarian and for his commitment and dedication to the University of Idaho."

Then Hampton himself took the microphone.

"Oh, boy," were his first words. "This is the greatest night of my career," said Hampton. "This is the greatest night of my life."

He said that his other degrees, which number to fifteen including the one from UI, "don't mean as much to me as the one from the University of Idaho."

Hampton went on to say that "some of the greatest music in the world comes out of Idaho and we should let the world know about it." Hampton referred to the great... SEE DEGREE PAGE 9

Wind, Jazz Ensembles captured emotions and sound

REVIEW BY KIRK LAUGHLIN

Tuesday night the UI Wind Ensemble and Jazz Ensemble gave a little taste of this weekend's festivities to an appreciative audience in the University Auditorium.

Not a music fanatic by trade, I was pleasantly surprised by how the two groups entertained their tight sets and dramatically rendered works. The first part of the programs was the Wind Ensemble under the direction of Robert Sprowetz. They opened up with the "Athletic Festival March" from Opus 69, No. 1 by Serge Prokofiev. The drama was there as were the sweeps from musical peaks and valleys throughout the set.

The second work featured soprano Dorothy Barnes in the section "Peace, pace, mio Dio!" from Giuseppe Verdi's opera La Forza del Destino. The storyline of the work involves a daughter cursed in the dying words of her father and Barnes swooped into her position with all the grandeur worthy of a tragic figure doomed to unhappiness.

"Peace, pace" calls for the soprano to plead death to bury her to the grave. Barnes' voice was, simply, great. The convention of opera seems to separate its audience from human emotions, but Barnes captivated with her expressions and heart-rendering vocals.

The Wind Ensemble really rose to the occasion, backing Barnes with an urgently realized mosaic of sound. The heart-stopping finish was terrifying in its bombast. This served as the...

WSU grad's work displayed

The semi-abstracted paintings of Roi Druefel will be on display at WSU's Compton Union Gallery from Feb. 29 through March 11. The Compton Union Gallery is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. It is located in the CUB Auditorium lobby.

Dance classes offered

Lisa Moon, a former soloist with the American Festival Ballet and Chicago's Myron Taylor, a former soloist with the Evansville Dance Theatre, will be teaching four master dance classes in ballet and jazz starting Feb. 28.

Although the main reason for the AFB to offer the classes is to award scholarships for the AFB Summer Workshops, any area dance teacher is enrolled in the classes, whether one wants to apply or not.

For more information contact the American Festival Ballet office.

Last Emperor majestic, over-long

BY DAWN BOBBY

STAFF WRITER

After the release of Last Tango in Paris in 1972, Director Bernardo Bertolucci was declared a genius. After 1976, he was a washout.

Bertolucci has been plagued by vanished hopes and slamming doors for much of his 21-year career, so it's not all that surprising he found an empathy with China's Last Emperor, Son of Heaven and Lord of Ten Thousand Years, Pu Yi.

In fact, you could almost say that The Last Emperor, Bertolucci's latest contribution to film, is not only the biography of Pu Yi, but the symbolic autobiography of Bertolucci.

Bertolucci makes frustration and slamming doors a motif in Last Emperor. The film is told mostly in flashbacks as Pu Yi makes his "confession" to the interrogators of a Chinese Communist re-education camp. The end of each flashback is marked by a slamming door or by his watching something or someone taken away from him.

Pu Yi is continually prevented from doing the things he wants to do. At the age of three he's taken from his mother and made Emperor. When he begins to understand and appreciate his power, he learns it's only nominal and exists only within the Forbidden City. Then even the Forbidden City is taken away when the Communist government invades and removes him from the premises. The Japanese set him up as emperor of Manchuria, but when he begins to exercise power he finds no more an emperor than he was as a child.

"Yet you can't call this beautiful film tragic. It may be bleak, but it's not tragic. The Imperial palace is ruled by the mandarins. There is no Vietnam-POW camp style abuse here, merely a slow, methodical official's hot temper is carefully maintained by a mandarin who only wants Pu Yi to be honest with himself."

The Last Emperor has everything going for it: ever-increasing visual, glorious color, sumptuous settings and costumes. The lighting - dusty yellow in places, harsh gray in others - is purely aesthetic as well as atmospheric. You could watch this film with the sound turned down for its Chinese and still call it beautiful.

There's only one flaw with it - it's too long! Forgive my food metaphors, but three hours is an awfully long time to make an audience sit through a story that could have been told in less. Bertolucci told Rolling Stone magazine he originally planned to make Last Emperor a two-hour miniseries, but changed his mind because he thinks "TV is the shit. Apparently, three hours chopped out of the plot. Why couldn't they cut out one more?"

The movie industry doesn't seem to mind the unquenchable length of this film, however. It's a little over a week ago the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awarded The Last Emperor nine Oscar nominations.

The university Dance Theatre is born to present to the University of Washington students an evening of the Centennial celebration. The performance will be one of the best yet, with a variety of entertainment, including ballet, jazz, modern, blues, tap and dramatic. The numbers will be performed with names like Cultural Eclipse, Rhapsody and Whimsical Subtitles.

Stephanie Etter, assistant director of Dance Theatre, said the show is one of the longest and most varied programs the troupe ever done.

"The choreographers are very creative this year," Etter said. "Occasionally all together as one big group, I can be more confident; it starts feeling more like a concert," she said.

There are more than 30 dancers in Dance Theatre, including five high school students. Also among the dancers this year are three men, one of whom is a drama teacher at the school for performing arts in Seattle. This is the first year in three years that Dance Theatre has had more than one male dancer.

For the first time, Dance Theatre is lucky to have as guest dancers the Palouse Dance Collective, who will perform a modern dance.

One number for the upcoming performance, called "Beyond the Window," is a study showing the dancers as particles, in space.

Whitman hosts Concordia concert

The internationally recognized Concordia Choir of Moorhead, Minnesota will be performing on the Whitman college campus in Walla Walla, Washington on Feb. 27.

The Concordia Choir will be directed by Rene Clausen, who will also be the guest of honor at public reception for the choir. The reception will be held in the Whitman College Choral.

The Concordia Choir’s performances are sponsored by Student Activities and Whitman College music department.

Rec softball now offered

Intramural Sports is offering an alternative to competitive softball. Starting this spring, there will be a recreational softball league for those who are interested in the sport primarily for fitness and enjoyment.

Assistant Director of Campus Recreation Bob Beals said that the recreational softball league will not award any participation points because the main goal of the new league is to interest people who don't want to play competitive ball.

Beals said that the new league will, however, give 40 points to the winner of the recreational league, which is the same number that a competitive team receives for going winless throughout the schedule.

He said in the past, five-on-five basketball teams could sign up for either an "A" competitive, or "B" recreational league and that seemed to work well, so the same system is now being offered in softball.

"Participation is the key to our program," Beals said. "But we also stress competition."

Entries are due March 22 and play begins March 28.

OP heads to Canada

Believe it or not, Spring Break "88 is soon approaching. The only vacation students are allowed until May.

Many students under the wave of exams, papers, and assignments do not think about what they will do for Spring Break until Mar. 11 at 10 a.m. Thursday will mark the first planning meeting for Spring Break "88 with the Outdoor Program.

Among the adventures OP is planning will be a Canadian Rockies ski-touring, ice climbing workshop. The tentative itinerary is to leave Mar. 13 for an 8-hour drive to Banff National Park, 90 miles west of Calgary. Students on this cooperative trip will stay in Cana dian Youth Hostels at $3 per night. The hostels include cooking facili ties as well as wood-burning stoves.

There is more!

The opportunities outside the hostels are spectacular with ski tours and an opportunity to participate in an (OP sponsored) ice climbing workshop.

The trip, sponsored by the Phi Beiser, Outdoor Program coor dinator.

Although the ski touring opportuni ties are said to be fantastic, the optional ice climbing workshop is intended to be both instructional and educational.

Some experience with ropes and climbing is required for the ice climbing workshop while there is no limit to where one's ski and imagination may take them about the snow peaks of Banff Nation al Park and Jasper National Park.

Other trips and trip ideas will be available to students at any level of skill at the Spring Break planning meeting Thursday.

Men steal win from WSC

BY MIKE LEWIS
SPORTS WRITER

The Idaho Vandals and James Fitch put on a strong performance down the stretch last night, and with 16 Vandal steals, bumped the Wildcats of Weber State in Ogden. The victory was the Vandals' first on the road in their last three games, and with a 7-18 advantage, the Vandals are now 3-9 overall and 9-4 in the Conference. Weber State falls to 5-19 overall and 5-8 in the Big Sky. Idaho ran off 12 straight points starting at the 1:42 mark when Fitch followed an outside shot to get his own rebound and put it back up and in, giving the Vandals a 64-62 lead. Fitch was 4-for-6 from the free throw line in the last two minutes, and Lorenzo Nash shot 3-for-4 from the stripe after that point to clinch the win for the Vandals.

"He did a great job," said Idaho Assistant Coach Kermit Davis of Fitch. "He always competes and plays hard every night. He did a great job for us tonight!"

Raymond Brown's free throw with 1:21 remaining in the first half tied the game at 39, before the Vandals took their first lead of the game on Marvin Washington's fast-break in the paint with 2:09 left. The Vandals scored four more before the half, the last two on Ricardo Boyd's buzzer-beater after coming off of a triple-pick. The second half saw the Wildcats stay close as the score was knotted at 45 with 12:47 left, and the game stayed that way until the closing moments. Boyd, who finished with 11 points, fouled out with 6:54 left, and was quickly joined on the bench by Marvin Washington, who was whistled for his fifth foul only 0:17 later. Washington had a stellar night, as he scored an Idaho career-high 29 points, snared 13 rebounds, and made three steals in only 27 minutes of playing time.

The Vandals tried to rally, with Fred Rollin nailing two of his 14 points with 4:09 to go to tie the score at 62. After that, however, it was the Vandals' efforts from the free throw line that took over. Fitch led all scorers with 19 points, along with 10 rebounds and three steals, while Raymond Brown added 12 points and four steals. Weber State's Rico Washington had 18 points, including a 10-of-12 performance from the free throw line. Idaho Coach Tim Floyd and his troops will continue on the road, to conclude a four-game road trip, taking on Eastern Washington tomorrow night in Cheney.

The Eagles will be intent on avenging their earlier 74-64 loss to Idaho in the Kibbie Dome, improving on their cellar-dwelling 2-11 record, and cracking their six-game streak afforded last night at Boise State, 92-52.

Ladies edge Wolf Pack

BY ERIE SIMPSON
SPORTS WRITER

Kim Chernecki's 13-14 from the foul line and 22 overall points propelled the Lady Vandals to their second straight Mountain West Conference victory 74-70 as they ousted the Lady Wolf Pack last night in Reno.

Idaho led at the half 35-26 with 58 percent shooting from the floor, and 5-17 from the foul line. The Vandals' overall shooting percentage wasn't as high as the Lady Wolf Pack's, but 19-21 (84 percent) free throw shooting made the difference in the contest. UNR hit 12-15 from the line.

Chernecki led Idaho with 22 points and nine rebounds, compared to UNR's Dawn Pitman who led the Lady Wolf Pack with 24 and nine. Chernecki's steal in the game with 17 points, six rebounds, seven assists and six steals.

Although the win upped the Lady Vandals record to 7-18 and 4-10 in conference play, they will have to sit out of the Mountain West Conference Tournament.

Saturday night, the Lady Vandals travel to Northern Arizona to take on the 12-11 Lady Lumberjacks. Idaho will sport the Mountain West Athletic Conference player-of-the-week in senior forward Kim Chernecki who, with her teammates, was named to the once-beaten Montana State last weekend.

If Idaho has an advantage over NAU it's on the boards where they outrebound their opponents by an average of 5.6 per game. Both Idaho and NAU bring up the rear in the MWAC team stats for scoring offense, scoring margin, field goal percentage and assists.

Officials say the replacements will allow for more efficient operations and reduce future maintenance expenditures. According to Cuddy, the funds are intended for "critical replacements: not what they want—what they need."

However, Cuddy stressed that the allocations of funds is still tentative and other critical replacements will be considered.

sent to jail when they develop loving relationships with another gay or lesbian, and to be discriminated against in jobs and housing. They will be called names all their lives and risk being beaten by macho straights trying to prove their manhood.

All of these gays and lesbians are asking for is to be treated like every other human being, and to have laws that protect them against this kind of discrimination. Like the situation with blacks, it is unfortunate that such laws are necessary, but it is even worse for us to deny the protection that is needed.

Like the blacks, the gays are now standing up and uniting to say, "We know we are good people, and we want to be treated fairly." They are aware of the fear that unless they band together and fight for their rights in the political arena, they will not make any progress. I will read, gays are making progress in controlling the spread of AIDS. It is in the straight population, where it is assumed AIDS is a "gay disease" where the rise of AIDS is increasing proportionally.

Discriminat against gays has not and will not help the anguish of those families who have been diagnosed with AIDS, nor will it purify the blood supply; it will not help the insurance companies, and it will not stop gay or a prevention for this terrible disease.

In fact, it gain more by working together. The bottom line is we are all one people, gays, lesbians, and straights. We need the same fair treatment for all, and we need to work together in research, care, and education to prevent the spread of AIDS and to bring about a more equitable society.

Who Wants to Know?
A question-and-answer column
Imagine yourself behind the wheel of your new car...the velvety touch of the upholstery...the sweet hum of the engine...the feel of the wheel as you take those precision turns. You're in control, riding on top of the world. You've got freedom—freedom to cruise...freedom to take that trip to the land of sunshine and sandy beaches.

How can you make this dream become reality? With a little planning and know-how, you can develop a strategy for buying the car of your dreams at a price you can afford.

Use Your Research Skills
When you plan your budget for your new car, remember to consider not only the purchase price, but also operating, maintenance, and insurance costs.

Check out the track record of any vehicle that looks promising by reading automotive and consumer magazines. Research specifications, standard equipment, options, fuel economy, safety records, and pricing. Then, flip to the used-car section in your newspaper for a preview of how your "picks" might fare in the future.

Armed with a list of four or five cars to consider, visit dealerships in the area to view and drive those cars.

Get Behind the Wheel
Be sure to take your test drive during good weather and in full daylight. Avoid the temptation to turn up the volume on your favorite radio station. Instead, tune in to the car's vibrations.

Seniors and Grad Students:

MAKE CREDIT HISTORY

Get a new GM vehicle and $400 and defer your first payment for 90 days*

Congratulations, graduates! At GMAC, we believe you deserve credit for all that hard work. That's why we developed the GMAC College Graduate Finance Program. It helps get you into the Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac or GMC Truck of your choice. It gets you going on a credit history. And it gets you $400 plus a 90-day deferment of your first payment. Finance charges accrue from the date of purchase.

GMAC is proud to support America's college graduates, and we're proud to be an Equal Credit Opportunity Company.

See your participating General Motors Dealer for more information. And start picking out the car, van or light truck of your choice. Or we'd be happy to send you a brochure that gives you all the details of the GMAC College Graduate Finance Program. Just give us a call at 1-800-2-DREAM-4.

*The deferral of payment option is not available in connection with other GMAC programs or in Michigan or New Jersey, or on vehicles with a cash selling price of $5000 or less in New Jersey.

Credit. You probably are a part of the "credit culture." Are you paying off a car loan? Charging your clothes? Buying college now—and agreeing to pay for it later? Everybody's doing it; last count, more than 600 million credit cards were riding in American wallets.

These days a history of wise credit use is your consumer "ID card." Credit gives you flexibility. It can let you borrow a bit of money from your future to buy something you really need today. Why sleep on the floor in your first apartment when you can buy a bed "on-time" (making monthly payments for an established period of time until the item is paid off)? Because personal income needs to rise quickly during the "roaring '20s," creditors are eager to attract the business of young consumers. Think of all the things you may need or want in the next 10 years: cars, furniture, work- ing-world wardrobes, dinners on the town. You can buy it all on credit. The question is: Will you be able to pay the bills?

Upbeats and Downbeats: The Music of Credit Cards

Everyone's singing the same tune: let's get it now! Is there a flip side? It's easy to get credit—but it's easy to get in trouble with it too.

Keep these pointers in mind:

ONE: Credit isn't more money. It's a convenience that allows you to use future income to pay for current purchases. How much you borrow should always depend on what you earn.

TWO: Credit isn't free. You pay for the privilege of borrowing money. Finance charges can add up to a sizable amount fast.

It's easy to let your expectations run away with you. Here are some reasonable rules to follow:

- Be cautious at first, especially if you've just started a new job, or have a fluctuating income.
- Shop around for interest rates. Credit cards differ and so do loan

Why it's easy for students to get a Citibank credit card.

As a student, you've obviously been through a lot—long lectures, grueling exams, numerous papers.
And Citibank thinks you deserve all that. That's why we've made it easy for you to apply for a credit card.

You don't even need your parents to co-sign. (What other bank makes that easy?)
All you need is a photocopy of your validated student ID with current enrollment sticker.
The only other thing is to choose one of our cards. A Citibank MasterCard® or Visa® card.
Either one will give you a head start establishing credit. And because we'll like a long-term relationship with you, we'll review your account periodically so we can increase your credit line.
What's more, a Citibank cardmember, you can get 24 hours a day, 7 days a week from the largest network of automatic teller machines across the country.

We've got the simple steps outlined below. And remember, even though all banks are looking for reasons to say no to you, Citibank wants to say yes.

1. Tear off the application. (Use the perforations, they make it easy)
2. Fill it in.
3. Photocopy (both sides) of your validated student ID with current enrollment sticker.

sent to jail when they develop their relationships with another, as it is with lesbian, and to be discriminating both groups, they will be dictated names all the lives and structural barriers to macho straight men to try to prove their manhood. All that these groups are asking is for the treatment to be treated like every other human being and have the laws that protect them against this kind of discrimination. Like the black, the group has been standing up and saying, "We know we are good people, and we do not want to be discriminated against." They are aware of the fact that they do not need to stand and fight for rights in public places, they do not add any progress. From what I have read, they are making progress in controlling the spread of AIDS. It is in the straight population, but it is not a threat. The spread of AIDS is a "gay disease" where the incidence of AIDS is increasing proportionally. Discriminating against gay men is not legal and will not help the migrants of those families who have more members with AIDS. It is not the government's job to worry about the blood supply, it will not help the insurance companies, and it will not do a cure or a prevention for this terrible disease. In fact, we gain more by working together. The bottom line is that we are all human beings, and let's be treated like one. You may want to sit down and analyze your specific situation. Exactly how are you going to use your computer? Does your computer processing more than 90 percent of what you do, or do you now need a color/graphics monitor to create dazzling graphics for art class, draw blueprints for your architecture course, or even tap into information resources on other than those which the campus library can supply?

Memory: How Much Is Enough?

Most PCs come with between 64K and 512K of memory, which can be significantly increased by those wanting to buy a whole new machine. If you plan to swap up your computer's existing memory, find the least expensive way to add an "expansion card." Expansion cards often provide additional capabilities, including an extra serial port or parallel port for attaching peripherals such as modems, printers, and joysticks—to your system unit. Before purchasing expansion cards, however, check to see if your computer has empty slots.

Is your PC plain vanilla while you long for a banana split? Have you begun to take another look at your hard-working, faithful, original equipment and wondered whether or not it's time to add on and/or upgrade the system? Pitfalls abound. One person's need for speed is another's waste of money. In a quest for increased memory, you simply need to add 64K's worth of memory expansion cards; you must part with megabucks for the "memory expansion"? Let's face it: In that case it's adding on taking a little thought. First, you need to sit down and analyze your specific needs. Exactly how are you going to use your computer? Does your computer processing more than 90 percent of what you do, or do you now need a color/graphics monitor to create dazzling graphics for art class, draw blueprints for your architecture course, or even tap into information resources on other than those which the campus library can supply?

"Attaching a modem to your PC can cost as little as $100, and widen your academic and even social horizons considerably—after all, some data bases are dating services!"

There are 20- to 40-megabyte hard disks and "hard cards" that can be inserted into the system unit, if space allows. (A megabyte is approximately equal to a million characters' worth of space.) This will give you more than 120 times the storage of an ordinary diskette, but this can pose increased demands in time and money for "backing up" (making second copies for safe-keeping) of software and data. Most home PC-users find that expanding their systems to include two diskette drives and a hard disk drive meets all their storage needs.

Daisies, Dots and Lasers: A Printer's Tale

Of course, your PC has a companion printer, probably a dot matrix one that forms characters by imprinting clusters of dots on the paper. Clearly, the greater the number of pins to make the dots, the better-quality the result—and nine-pin printers are rapidly giving way to 24-pin printers. Dot matrix printers are relatively fast, and are able to print graphics—an important consideration.

Daisywheel printers are quiet and produce typewriter-quality characters; but they're slow and expensive, considering their limitations (the most minimal graphics capabilities). With the advent of more advanced printer technology, they have been steadily losing popularity.

Laser printers, certainly the most flexible and highest-quality of all the printers on the market, are also the most expensive. You might consider renting one for such state occasions as master's theses and résumé preparations.

As you can see, adding on to what you've got can provide the biggest challenge since you unpacked and plugged in that plain vanilla PC of yours. But if you need it and can afford it, go for the banana split with cherries on top!

Miles to Go . . .
and money to spare

Summer vacation isn't far away and you're thinking about doing the Grand Tour of Europe this summer, or maybe basking in the sun on a white sand beach. Unless your idea of a vacation is to travel first class all the way, there's usually a way to take a vacation and not spend a fortune.

First, decide where you want to go. There are hundreds of exciting, exotic, fascinating, and restful places to visit, and you have to choose the one that's right for you. Travel agents, guidebooks, and experienced travelers can be helpful in making your decision. Talk to someone whose tastes are similar to yours. Or check guidebooks and read up on places that catch your interest. Once you've found a place that sounds appealing, find out as much information as you can. Read up on the history, climate, culture, and attractions.

Travel agencies can be a useful tool in planning a vacation, but like any other business, they're there to make money. The best way to get the cheapest accommodations and airfares is to use your own resources as well as your travel agent's. Comparison shop as you would do with any other purchase. Tell the travel agent you want the lowest possible price and work up from there, adding the amenities you want. You might not want to go economy class all the way, but at least you'll know what the rock bottom prices are and can decide which amenities are important to you.

Check into package deals that include airfare, accommodations, and meals. They can be a good savings depending upon where you want to travel. Pick up some guidebooks and find out the individual prices of rooms and meals, as well as airfares, and compare them with what the package charges. Remember that tips, transfers, taxes, and other costs are usually included in package trips. Count these expenses into your total cost.

Your personal style
If you're interested in a specific type of vacation—a biking tour or a week in the wilderness, for example—check with organizations such as the Sierra Club and International Youth Hostels. They, along with many other organizations and clubs, offer trips tailored to specific interests or sports.

Decide if you want time to yourself or want to be with someone. Travelling alone can be a great opportunity for meeting people and being able to do exactly what you want. But there's also the possibility of eating alone and not having someone to share your experiences with.

Cash, check or charge
Traveler's checks are the safest way to carry money because they can be replaced if stolen.

If your vacation involves traveling to several countries, have your travel...

 Who Wants to Know?

Q My parents want me to work at home while I'm away at school. What's the best way to keep telephone costs down?

Check with your long-dis- tance company. Charges vary greatly depending on how far you call and how much you talk. A typical charge for long distance calls is about 50 cents per minute. You can save money by calling during off-peak hours, when rates are lower. You can also save money by using a toll-free number or by calling collect. You may be able to negotiate a discount rate with your long-distance company. Be sure to read the terms of any agreement carefully before signing it.

Q I may need a loan to help meet my tuition bills. Where do I look for the money?

Make an appointment with a lender—a bank, savings and loan, or credit union—to talk about Guaranteed Student Loans. If you meet certain eligibility requirements, you may borrow up to $2,625 per academic year for the first two years and $4,000 annually for the remaining years, for a maximum of $17,250.

Graduate students are eligible for loans at $7,000 annually, and a maximum of $54,750. Repayment generally begins six months after graduation. The minimum annual payment is $600. Before these education loans are guaranteed by the federal government, lenders' qualifying standards are different from those for other education loans. The federal govern- ment, however, guarantees loans for needy students only. Prior to the pass- age of the 1986 legislation on higher education, students with annual family incomes of $30,000 or less could borrow...

Grow through the Guaranteed Student Loan Program, with no questions asked. New students have to prove financial need by filling out a form supplied by their school. If you're interested, a loan officer has plenty of company. The College Board reports that one-third to one- half of all students do some borrowing.

Another option is the Student Loan Marketing Association, a govern- ment-sponsored, publicly-owned cor- poration, that offers loans called Sal- lied-Mae. The Association buys guar- antee loans from lenders to help them, and issues its own securities. Thus, lenders are able to clear old loans off their books and offer new ones.

PLUS (Parent Loan for Under- graduate Students) loans are federally funded and you do not have to prove financial need to receive one. The maximum PLUS loan is $4,000 a year and parents can get these loans through participating financial institu- tions. Repayment begins within 60 days after you take out a PLUS loan.

Officials say the replacements will allow for more efficient operations and reduce future maintenance expenditures. According to Cuddy, the funds are intended for "critical replacements: not what they want—what they need."

However, Cuddy stressed that the allocations of funds is still tentative and other critical replacements will be considered.
