Turtles Race For Charity

The race is planned for 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 20, at the Idaho State Fairgrounds, at the third annual turtle race.

The race will include turtles from various groups represented in the state. Each group will have representatives from their home town to compete.

Turtles are the most important part of the race, as they are the main attraction. They will be kept in tanks until the race begins. The turtles will be released at 7 p.m., and the race will start immediately.

The winner will be determined by the turtle that reaches the finish line first. The turtle that crosses the finish line first will be the winner.

Please be aware that the turtles may be slow, and the race may take some time. So please be patient and enjoy the race.

REGENTS NAME 3 Professors To Fill Posts

Three new professors were recently approved by the Board of Regents to join the University staff for the Fall semester.

At Idaho: Mixed Emotions

The University of Idaho this week ended the spring and varied reactions to that occurred throughout the world at the announcement of U.S. President Richard Nixon's 30,000-man draft call. Student opinion was both pro and con.

Although no demonstrations were reported and some students expressed concern about the possibility of war, others argued that the draft call was an effort to maintain national security.

In trying to resolve the conflict, Nixon has cited the need for national unity and appealed to Congress for a national emergency declaration.

Dr. Parkinson: Well At Idaho

A film entitled "Alaska—49th State" will be the second of a five-film series presented Thursday night by the Idaho Film Council. The film will be shown at 7 p.m. in the Idaho State Library Auditorium.

"Alaska—49th State" vividly depicted in her coal fields to cover. He has traveled some evidence of the contrasts of a life of modern cities to primitive surroundings. He has been seen frequently criticizing man's principles.

"Alaska—49th State" is a film which is being shown in conjunction with the American Film Institute's "Weekly Film Series," which is being presented to the American public through the cooperation of the University of Idaho, the Idaho Film Council, and the Idaho State Library.

The film, "Alaska—49th State," is a film about the life of a woman who has lived in Alaska for many years. She has been a miner and a miner's wife and has worked in the mines for many years. She has also been a political activist and has been active in the Alaska State Legislature. She has been a strong advocate for women's rights and has been a leader in the women's movement in Alaska.

Sew for Style With Unusual Spring Fabric

You can use a style pattern for the suit or dress—if you are not so clever—at once, or create your own design by choosing the right accessories. Follow this general guide: If you choose a costume that is reminiscent of the Orient, then make it up in a suitable mixture of black, brown, and red. The fabric you select should have a Oriental design, such as a kimon or a Chinese robe. If you choose a costume that is reminiscent of the West, then make it up in a suitable mixture of blue, white, and green. The fabric you select should have a Western design, such as a cowboy hat or a rodeo suit. If you choose a costume that is reminiscent of the North, then make it up in a suitable mixture of black, white, and blue. The fabric you select should have a Northern design, such as a ski suit or a snowsuit.
and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

Genesis 3:1

Two people, a man and his wife, stood out from among the crowd. They were the first to break this new ground, the first to dare to take a step into the unknown, the first to tread where no one had ever ventured before. They were brave and bold, committing themselves to the path of discovery and learning.

But they were not alone. The tree of knowledge was there, waiting to be explored. It held the promise of wisdom, the hope of understanding, the渴望 of knowing.

They took the first step. And with each step, they uncovered something new. Something that would shape their lives forever.

And so they stood, at the threshold of a new journey, ready to embrace the unknown and to explore the mysteries that lay ahead. For they knew that the tree of knowledge was not just a symbol of intellectual achievement, but a beacon of hope and a guide through the darkness. And so they walked, hand in hand, into the future, eager to see what lay beyond.

Students of Harvard University who have been picking for weeks in prep-

They asked all students stand up and be counted, in favor of immediate and full equality for all Americans by participating in mass demonstrations to be held throughout the country on May 17, the 50th anniversary of the Supreme Court school desegregation decision.

At a meeting of Harvard's League Counter-integration Committee, Frank Bordgers of the Harvard Student Council, the Harvard group, attacked the Harvard administration, by their example or by teaching its students that the country "is moving toward a better way," as well as to be. The free man must not merely be free, but free of laws, free to take the offensive against all who would try to circumvent him.

Although he referred at one point to President Eisenhower as the "architect of political impotence," Bartholomew did not limit his criticism to the present administration, but charged that the Harvard administration is responsible for the "false and pernicious" teaching in the school.

"I think that perhaps the students of Harvard University, as well as students in the South, Bar- tolomew said.

Local Railways Busy In 1926;
Athletics Were Main Activity

The immediate west of the Idaho campaigns were full of activity universities. These are now virtually unusual for a few regular freight trains and an occasional interstate passenger unit that comes gliding across from Pullman. But in the 1920's the local railways were the scene of a great deal of student activity.

May Fete, Song Fest Fill Schedule

By BANA BAKER

A triumphant night, May Fete, Song Fest and Annual Shakespearean play filled the Argonaut with a fervor and enthusiasm that was unmistakable.

The Argonaut staff worked hard to prepare for the May Fete, which was held on Saturday night in the campus quad. The weather was perfect, with a gentle breeze and clear skies.

The evening began with a formal dinner, with the Argonaut staff in attendance. The food was excellent, and the atmosphere was lively. The staff enjoyed each other's company and shared stories about their experiences at the university.

After dinner, the Argonaut staff performed a play, Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The cast was comprised of staff members, and the performance was well-received. The play was acted out in the quad, with the stars shining above and the clock ticking down the minutes until the end of the play.

The May Fete ended with a grandiose fireworks display, which was watched by hundreds of students, staff members, and faculty. The fireworks were synchronized to music, and the display was both beautiful and stirring. The atmosphere was electric, and the staff joined in the celebrations.

The May Fete, Song Fest and Annual Shakespearean play were a success, and the Argonaut staff is proud of the hard work and dedication that went into making it happen. We hope to see you all next year!
Convention Call

To Whom it May Concern:

By authority of the Citizenship Clearing House of the University of Idaho, the shoes and shallies committee has been formed to take care of the shoes and shallies question at the 1944 convention. It is necessary to have a representative of the university to meet with the convention committee to discuss the possibility of printing a list of names and to take such action as may be deemed advisable.

A meeting of which this call constitutes notice has been called for 1 p.m. on Monday, May 2, in the Union Hotel, to take care of the shoes and shallies question. The meeting will be called to order by the secretary, Charles M. Strother, President, Citizenship Clearing House.

Moe Plans Political Career: Mock Convention Is One Step

By JACK CAREY

There’s no set pattern or routine in the life of the Idaho nominating convention. It’s not always a meeting of the Idaho association of Idaho associations, and though any convention may be a meeting of the Idaho association of Idaho associations, it’s not always a meeting of the Idaho nominating convention.

Bob Redd, a lawyer from Idaho, was named by the Idaho association of Idaho associations to be the Idaho nominating convention chairman. The Idaho nominating convention is the highest court in the land, and in the light of Idaho’s unique situation of political activity and national party activity, the Idaho nominating convention is the highest court in the land.
