The University of Idaho on March 3 celebrates the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Idaho University as a normal school, a milestone that marked the beginning of the institution's growth into a major research university. The event, which is part of the Idaho Centennial Celebration, will feature lectures, exhibitions, and a commemorative ceremony.

In 1891, the College of Idaho was founded as a normal school under the Board of Trustees of the University of Idaho. The college was established to prepare teachers for the growing number of elementary schools in the state. In 1898, the college was renamed the University of Idaho and was granted the authority to offer degrees in various fields of study. Over the years, the university has expanded its academic offerings and has become a major research university with a strong focus on the Arts and Sciences.

The Centennial Celebration will include a series of events throughout the year, including a symposium, a film series, and a series of lectures by prominent scholars. The celebration will culminate in a grand Finale event in the spring of 2016.

The University of Idaho is a public research university located in Moscow, Idaho, and is part of the University of Idaho System. The university offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in various fields of study, including the Arts and Sciences, Business, Education, Engineering, Health Sciences, and Social Sciences.

The Centennial Celebration is an opportunity for the university to reflect on its history and to celebrate its achievements in the past 100 years. It is also an opportunity for the university to look to the future and to plan for its continued growth and success.
Presidency A Chance To Serve University

By Mark Rhoden

Appointed Half-War

Dr. Donald T. Snell, the eleventh president of the University of Idaho, has taken his place in the line of presidential succession of the University.

During his term as president, Snell has been instrumental in the development of the University’s campus and educational programs. His leadership has guided the University through a period of significant growth and change.

Among his accomplishments, Snell has implemented a comprehensive plan to diversify the University’s offerings and improve educational opportunities for students.

Under his guidance, the University has continued to expand its academic offerings, with the establishment of new programs and departments.

Snell’s tenure has been marked by a commitment to student success and a focus on providing a high-quality educational experience.

The University of Idaho has a long and storied history, and Snell has played a crucial role in shaping its future. His leadership has contributed to the University’s continued success and growth.

Greek Stokes Ballot Boxes, Independents Win Election

Tension boiled over at the University of Idaho on Monday night as Independents took control of student government by winning the Student Senate elections.

According to the results, the Independent party swept most of the major offices, including the role of Student Body President, Vice President, and Secretary.

The results were a significant victory for Independents, who had been actively campaigning for student representation and addressing concerns about the cost of living and campus facilities.

The University of Idaho, for more than 100 years, has been a source of pride for the state. The school was founded on a mission to provide a quality education to all students, regardless of their background or economic status. Over the years, the university has grown and evolved, adapting to the needs of its students and the changing landscape of higher education.

As the university continues to expand, it is important to look back at its history and consider how it has shaped the future. This article seeks to provide an in-depth look at the history of the University of Idaho, from its early days as a small farming school to its current status as a vibrant, diverse institution.

The university was founded in 1889 with a mission to provide a quality education to all students, regardless of their background or economic status. Over the years, the university has grown and evolved, adapting to the needs of its students and the changing landscape of higher education.

One of the most significant developments in the university's history was the establishment of the College of Law, which was founded in 1908. The college was established to provide a quality legal education to Idaho's residents, and it has continued to be a leading institution in the field of law.

Throughout its history, the university has faced challenges and opportunities, and it has always been committed to providing a quality education to all students. Today, the University of Idaho is a leading institution in the state, and it continues to shape the future of higher education.

In conclusion, the history of the University of Idaho reveals a commitment to excellence and a dedication to providing a quality education to all students. As the university continues to evolve, it is important to remember its rich history and the contributions it has made to the state and the nation.

DEAN SHATTUCKE HAD GOAL:
Set Out To Prove It At U.

By RICK SMITH

As we approach the 100th anniversary of the University of Idaho, it is fitting to reflect on the contributions of our past presidents. One such leader was Dean Shattuck, who served as president from 1917 to 1927.

Shattuck was a man of vision and dedication, who worked tirelessly to improve the quality of education at the university. Under his leadership, the university experienced significant growth and expansion, including the establishment of new departments and programs.

Shattuck was also known for his commitment to the students, and he worked to ensure that they received the best possible education. He believed in the importance of providing a well-rounded education, and he encouraged students to take courses outside of their major.

In addition to his work at the university, Shattuck was also active in the community, serving on various boards and committees. He was a respected figure who was known for his integrity and his dedication to higher education.

Shattuck's legacy continues to this day, as the University of Idaho continues to provide a high-quality education to its students. His contributions to the university will not be forgotten, and his memory will be cherished for generations to come.

Fads Change With Time

By KAREN SMITH

Argumentative Essay

Given up, should be presented all 5th class, age, and time. In Expository Essay in 1968. High school students will write of clothing fads at the Uni-sity.

Cave women have always

that different styles and fashions have replaced

the previous fashions. At the University, most students were in agreement with the fashion trends.

The mode of dress at the family time was simple and per-nounced. Most items of clothwere simple and unadorned.

Industrial Revolution

Individual fashion was very important to early modes. As a fashion decency standard,

"conformity" is the one thing to be avoided. Lack of equipment was a stereotype all over the country. At the University, a lady may wear the same style of a purple.

World War I had several impacts on clothing fads. Clothing styles for both men and women were available in military styles. Clothing stores advertised fashions with "the military air with the times.

Flapper Era

During the 1920's, flapper styles became popular at the University as well as throughout the nation. Women's dresses were shorter, had more fabric,

and were decorated with beaded hairstyles. Hair was worn in a natural wavy or straight style.

Curled hair, dresses, and hats

were popular during World War

I, but they continued to be worn from the time of the Twenties. Styles became more popular during the World War II, but they continued to be popular throughout the 1930's.

Hair styles were rapidly changing.

NICE Notes Anniversary

NICE Notes, the University's student newspaper, is 50 years old. NICE Notes has been a part of the University's history since 1919, when it was founded as the "University News." The first issue of NICE Notes was published on October 1919, and it was 4 pages long. The paper was published weekly,

except during the summer months.

The newspaper has gone through several name changes over the years. It was first called the "University News," then

"The University Reporter," and

finally "NICE Notes." The name "NICE Notes" was officially adopted in 1946.

The mission of NICE Notes

is to report news and opinion about the University and its community. The newspaper publishes articles on a wide range of topics, including sports,

student life, campus events,

and local news.

NICE Notes is published by

In 1898, approximately seven students played on the University of Idaho baseball team. That team was the first to be organized by the old Administration building. By 1911, the department of physical education at the university had increased to include professional and student instructors.

The first Idaho football coach wins, 14 losses, and 2 ties. He was Fred Kramer, Wayne Walker, Reg Car- the Idaho's other All-American basketball player during the roaring twenties. Berggren, who was offered as a major, and a

The curriculum was composed of courses such as: Physical Education, Anatomy, Chemistry, and Physics. It was recognized in 1911. Today, according to Dr. Brown, who is president of the Idaho University, College of Arts and Letters.

Four different ways to make going more fun than getting there

You can see why one of America's favorite outdoor sports is driving. Chevrolet offers kinds of cars to choose from. There's the compact model, like the Sprint. Then there's the large, like the Caprice. And finally, there's the sports car, like the Corvette. All three are easy to handle, and big fun to drive.

The first thing is to take care of your car. If you don't have a car, you can rent one. You can also rent clothes, if that doesn't have much style. Dress fits you better, and you might even run into some friends. Chevrolet is the best choice for any sort of car trip. Chevrolet has a car for every need, and a car for every mood. Chevrolet makes it easy to enjoy going places. Chevrolet makes it easy to enjoy life.

Idaho Rivalries Have Seen Many Incidents

by JOE FAUCI

The Boise State Bobcats and the Idaho Vandals have been rivals for over a century. Their first football game was played in 1893, and the series has continued ever since. The rivalry has seen many highs and lows, with both teams having their share of victories and losses. Some of the most memorable moments in the series include:

- The first game in 1893 ended in a 0-0 tie.
- In 1905, Idaho scored 183 points in a game, while Boise State scored 159.
- The 1935 game was played in snow.
- In 1948, the Idaho Vandals won 70-0.
- In 1954, Boise State won 50-0.
- The 1965 game was the last to be played at the old Memorial Gym.

Regent's History Is Idaho's History

In the early days, the capital was not a bustling metropolis but a small, agrarian community. The first University of Idaho had its humble beginnings in 1882 when President Neale refused to allow the construction of a new building. The Governor, Herman J. Rossie, recommended the establishment of a college for the region and the legislature concurred.

In 1915, although it had just opened, Idaho Technical Institute was already overcrowded. The first University graduate to receive a Bachelor of arts and bachelor's degree was not until Jesse E. Iddings, Mrs. Pauli Crooke of the school's faculty, in 1947.

During the depression, times were hard but still there was an acute housing shortage on the campus. In 1914 until the last few years it was not possible to work with a reputable institution.

Class Officer Controversy

Report Proposes Duties, Cites Need For Officers

“The elimination of Class Officers in 1958 on campus was brought about by a committee headed by the 1957-58 Class President, Don Miller. The committee, which was appointed by the Student Senate, recommended the elimination of Class Officers in order to reduce the amount of time and effort that these positions required. The committee felt that the duties of the Class Officers were not worth the effort and time required, and that the positions were not necessary for the smooth functioning of the University.”

The report also states that the elimination of Class Officers was not a popular decision among the student body, and that many students felt that the positions were important for the smooth functioning of the University. The report recommends that the positions be reinstated, and that the duties of the Class Officers be redefined.

Jazz And Classical Music

To Highlight Spring Festivities

Classical and jazz music will highlight the Spring Festivities on campus this weekend. The series of events begins Friday with the presentation of the University of Idaho’s spring musical, “The Mikado,” at 8 p.m. in the University Theatre. The musical is directed by Phillip M. Jones, assistant professor of music education.

On Saturday, the Idaho Choral Society will perform a concert of choral music at 8 p.m. in the University Theatre. The concert will feature the University of Idaho’s choirs, the Idaho College of Education’s choirs, and the University of Idaho’s choirs. The concert will also feature the University of Idaho’s choirs, the Idaho College of Education’s choirs, and the University of Idaho’s choirs.

The final event of the weekend will be the University of Idaho’s spring concert, “Spring Moods,” at 8 p.m. in the University Theatre. The concert will feature the University of Idaho’s choirs, the Idaho College of Education’s choirs, and the University of Idaho’s choirs.

Copper Chuck White Eyes Pro Career, Master's Degree

By LINDA BURH

From Seattle, Washington, Chuck White, Idaho's leading scorer, sits 16 games from his third letter in baseball.

White is now a three-year varsity letterman, but he has not had the same level of success as he did in his junior year. Last year, Chuck White was the leading scorer in the state, but he had a higher average at the plate and a higher on-base percentage. He has also had more experience at the plate and at the fielding position.
