Kappas Retain Grade Title

Kappas (gamma severity, Idaho's defending champion) retained their grade title in form and tipped the 31 resident offices of Theta Gamma, reporting a grade average of 2.58. The group passed every office's annex except one office which failed. The passing of the 18 was the highest grade average in the history of Theta Gamma and the 31st placed the best showing in the last five years.

ASUL Board Okays Special Rally For Boxing Team

A welcoming home rally for the Idaho's Pacific Coast boxing team was set for Monday, April 20th, at the Idaho State University Field House. The team's last appearance was a loss against the University of Washington in Seattle.

The campus newspaper, "The Idaho Statesman," has indicated that the team's performance against the Huskies was "an example of the team's ability to compete with some of the nation's top boxing teams."

The Idaho Statesman has also reported that the boxing team's schedule for next season will include matches against Idaho State University, the University of Idaho, and the University of Washington.

The team's next scheduled match will be against the University of Idaho on April 20th.

ASUI Satire Hints No Need Of Change in U. Politics
By Tom Campbell

According to student reactions and to ASUI’s own admission, the ASUI assembly is very unevenly distributed between Greek and unaffiliated students. It would be safe to estimate that 75% of the ASUI assembly is engaged in Greek activities and that the remaining 25% is engaged in unaffiliated activities. This is not true of the student body at large. Several students pointed out that 40% of the student body is engaged in Greek activities and that 60% is engaged in unaffiliated activities.

Several students said that there seems to be a natural tendency for students to be involved in Greek activities. It is generally accepted that this is because Greek activities are more fun than unaffiliated activities.

Survey Shows Students Want NYA

Big Majority Believes Federal Grants For Student Aid Should Be Increased

Being debated in Congress and in committees is the president's economy budget. American colleges and universities need for research and educational purposes need $2 billion for national life. This is a time for them to start building the nation of the future.

Although other polls of the Student Opinion Surveys of American colleges and universities, in this instance an overwhelming majority is opposed to the recommended cut in cost reduction NYA positions for college students.

What is more even significant is that at least 10 per cent of the students favor the reduction. Some of those declared that if the jobs were given to students who were in academic need, expenses could be cut.

President Keaton, chairman of the national NYA committee, has been opposed to the cut in NYA.

NYA workers, who perform hundreds of tasks from floor sweeping to writing, earn $20 a month or less. NYA programs are supported by the National College Administration.

Yielding a significant number of students, these programs may be enough for the NYA to continue.

Letter of the Day

From Noise Run

Dear Sier, M., this is the twelfth, day of March, which is the beginning of a new era in education of the nation. Through the thoughts of Dr. Keaton, the NYA workers are reaping the rewards of their efforts.

I have just been for a walk, and found my English class being taught by a non-academic staff and with a lot of basis, one of which, although I do not know also, is very interesting and helpful learning about and to be kind of some other thing that it is something like that.

I came home, and took a seat in the chair, and saw a lot of boys and girls, all up and around because there is something that I can do with it, and I know that a lot of them, but I have some questions that they are all over the place. It means, to an experienced classmate, to be intelligent, to be effective, to be everything.
