THE UNIVERSITY ARGONAUT

CLASS TO HOLD BIG REUNION.

VOL. XIV. UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, MOSCOW, MAY 31, 1911

CLASS TO HOLD BIG REUNION.

Varsity Graduates of 1901 Will Meet On Their First Decennial Reunion. The class of 1901 will hold their first decennial reunion in Moscow on June 13th. The class is one of the largest graduated from the University, numbering twenty-four. One member, Winifred Clayton, died about four years ago. The other members are scattered over the state and the United States. The class hopes to stage decennial reunions among other classes.

It has challenged any other class of the University to any kind of contest that may be proposed, and it hopes to have one or more other classes appear to accept the challenge.

CARTOONIST MORRIS.

HAS LARGE AUDIENCE.

Lecture Well Attended By High Appreciative Audience. Drawings of Highest Class.

W. G. Morris, Speaksman-Review Cartoonist, gave a very interesting lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Saturday evening. While there had been no elaborate ad vertisements concerning his talk, every seat in the hall was taken and many of the audience stood up.

Arrangements for the entertainment were made by Prof. Clyde Tall, who wished the English classes that have been studying current events this year to have the opportunity of learning something about the art of the cartoonist.

THE SECOND ANNUAL CAMPUS DAY.

Large Crowd Spent Day on the Campus.

--Very Fine Program Carried Out

--The Day Was Ideal.

Last Monday was the second annual Campus Day at the U. of I. Monday, May 23, 1910 was the first Campus Day. A number of very pretty ceremonies were observed last year and some of them were repeated this week. The idea of Campus Day originated with Dean Francis and it has received the hearty support of the faculty, student body, and the friends of the University.

The program of the day opened as it did last year, with bugle calls and correct seizes from the top of the tower of the administration building. This began May 1st, when it was followed by a program of the University girls, starting from the gymnasium, and ending on the lawn in front of the Ad. building with an Irish Reel by the ladies' gymnasium classes. The procession was led by the May Queen riding in a little carriage drawn by a pretty little pony. The University students held the crown back from the performances of the folk dances and the May pole dances with long strips of hunting which they held in the shape of a crown around the May pole and which marked the limits to which the crowd might press inward.

After the Irish reel, Mr. George Fields, editor of the Idaho Post, gave the address of the day. He urged both students and faculty to keep up the present standards of the institution and to work togethr for the development of our University. His address was followed by very short speeches by representatives of the four college classes and the Preparatory department.

This was followed by the presentation by the three lower college classes to the seniors of a money gift which is to be used by the latter class to purchase some picture, piece of statuary or other memorial to be left with the University, in the name of that class. Del S. Garby, president of the junior class, represented the three lower classes and presented the prize to Enoch Bardway, president of the seniors. The speeches of the seniors were excellent.

The day passed without incident.

The men's tennis tournament was held on the tennis courts, but owing to the delay of a number of the preliminary matches, it was impossible to complete the tournament Monday afternoon, but several matches were played and the team gathered around to come to watch the games and to enjoy the music furnished by the chorus.

PREPS GIVE CLASSICAL PLAY.

Prorudno of Terence Translated and Acted Before Large House. Costumes and Scenery Represent Ancient Greece.

Monday evening the Latin students of the Preparatory department gave a performance of Ter-ence's comedy, Phormio. The play had been translated by the class and the actors spoke English, using those translations. It was that the performance to provide the audience with translations and then speak the Greek and played in the city of Terence. The scenes used represented three different houses facing a street. This was generally the home of Terence, the actor said novels and sandals of the Romans. Their mack-ups were extremely good and the costumes very appropriate.

The acting was indeed commendable. It is very difficult to present the ancient Roman play so as to be easily understood by an average audience, but in this case it was well done. The prelude, in which the play was explained to the spectators, was in rhyme and its meaning not easily understood. The audience was not interested and became restless, but was all attention when the play actually got under way.

A large house gathered in Eggen's hall to see the performance and the play was a success in every way.

After the play was over a dance was given for those of the audience who wished to remain.

SENIORS PLAY AT POTLATCH.

Cast Gives Performance To Very Appreciative Audience. Financial Success Of Trip Not Great.

The cost of "Why Smith Left Home," which was a burlesque of the performance of the seniors in their annual play, was as nearly as possible a success. The plot was warmly recognized, the lines spoken were quite few, and the performance was all too short, but all this difficulty was balanced by the mack-ups. They were an excellent and highly entertaining.

The men's tennis tournament was held on the tennis courts, but owing to the delay of a number of the preliminary matches, it was impossible to complete the tournament Monday afternoon, but several matches were played and the team gathered around to come to watch the games and to enjoy the music furnished by the chorus.

Fourth-year Class Will Present "Merely Mary Ann" Instead of the Ordinary Graduating Exercise.

A variation will be made in the form of Prep commencement this year in the substitution of a play for the class day exercises of former years. The play chosen is the work of the well known author, Israel Zangwill. "Merely Mary Ann," in which Miss Krouer-Robson created the title role. The scenes of this comedy is laid in contemporary England, the first act in Mrs. Leadbatter's boarding house in London, the fourth in Village Hall, the country place of the Countess of Foxwell. The plot runs on the rise in the fortunes of Merely Mary Ann, from slavery in Mrs. Leadbatter's boarding house, and her love for Lance- lot, a man of much higher station than her own.

The cast of characters follows: Launchett a composer C. J. Davie's minister.
Peter, in business Alexander Schick
Brilmon Clarence Dixon
The Rev. Mr. Samuel Smudge Arthur Sutton
Schmidt, a Sunday journalist Oscar Burkland
Jim Biyades Harold Bourn
Lord Valentine Foxwell, a glib youth Harold Bourn
Howard, a boaster C. F. Ragnor
Mrs. Leadbatter Aidrey Carr
Rosie, her daughter Cora Hansen
Polly Trappett Gladys Nankervis
Dolly Trappett Mabel Kennedy
Lady Choliner Mignon Hoffman
Clara, Countess of Foxwell Pauline Robinson
The Hon. Rowena Fitzgorgue, a sassy beauty Eliza Stewart
The Hon. Gladys Nankervis Mary Ann, merely Beth Soulen
Dick, A Canary

The play, which is being rehearsed several times a day, will be presented on either Thursday or Saturday night of next week. Many of the members of the cast have appeared in other Prep plays and the success of this new play seems assured. The exact time of the performance will be announced later.

Preps Elect Officers.

At the regular-prep assembly last week, officers were nominated for the coming semester. The election Friday showed the following results:

King—Carl Melugin; Queen—Marjorie Zunhof; Secretary—F. Thomas; Debate council—Gileson, Anderson, Reis; Athletic board—Pryce, Marsch; Argonaut reporters—Preston.

Frank Price and Attila Taylor were the two candidates for treasurer receiving the highest number of votes but neither receiving a majority; another election to fill that office must be held.

W. H. Lewis, Portland.

 Theta Mu Boys Picnic.

Yesterday the members of the Theta Mu Epsilon Fraternity took a trip to the mountains and enjoyed a day of picnicking. They went in a large wagon to the beautiful densely timbered valley in the vicinity of the White Crane mine.

The day was the best that could be wished; it seemed made for picnics. The jolly crowd spent a very pleasant day and stayed till late in the evening. It is not known what hour of the night they returned to town.

Word has been received that the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Prohibition crusade is being held in Los Angeles last week was won by J. G. Gaffron of Pomona College, Cal. Joe. M. Adams, '11, went from here representing the Inland Empire. The second place was won by Guy Woods, who went from Williamette University, representing eastern Oregon. Woods was a year ago a student in the Boise High School and a number of the Idaho students know him and will be glad to learn of his success.

Professor Sterner left Decoration Day for the east, in order to receive his doctorate degree at Columbia. University and to look after the publication of two of his works, which are to be produced this fall by New York and Chicago firms. He expects to spend the greater part of his vacation with friends in New England.

A Normal Boy’s Ambition.

The following little poems appeared last month in the “Lewis-tonian,” the paper published by the students of the Lewis Normal School. It was no doubt inspired by the jealousy of the writer when he saw his own beloved normal girls on the arms of the cadets at their last encampment.

Oh, I want to be a cadet —
And on the campus stand—
A Normal girl within my arms,
Another by the hand.

I want to dance, and stay out very late,
And then escape the camp guard.
That are lying there in wait.

I want to leave the city,
With no cross guns at my throat,
And not even one brass button
To fasten on my coat.

Oh, I want to be a cadet
And at the depot stand
And bid farewell to many girls
To the music of the band.

Ray Biianline, ’23, left for Pocatello last Saturday to take a position as private stenographer to Judge Alfred Bridge of the Fifth Judicial District with headquarters at Pocatello.

Mr. Tall is using a new system in his Sophomore Composition class, instead of studying the Atlantic Monthly or writing weekly themes, he is having his engineering section students write a thesis, which is to be of from ten thousand words. Much research work is required and the experience is valuable.

A number of students are planning to go down on the Clearwater National Forest reserve to put in the summer months building trail or constructing telephone lines. Among those who have stated their intentions of going are Percy Stewart, Roy Johnson and Harley Smith. The work is under the direction of Acting Forest Supervisor Fisher, formerly an Idaho student.

The Sophomore literature class is preparing a Shake-scenic play, Rebecca—, being held daily.
The date for its presentation has not yet been definitely arranged.

The girls of the freshman cock-cleese will visit the big packing house of the Hagan & Cushing Meat Market tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 p.m.

The Idaho Technical, the semi-monthly publication of the Academy of Idaho, is issuing an annual edition. There are two alumni of the Academy in the University, Frank Cramall, ’05, Ornville A. Parke, ’07 and Ray Biianline, ’09.

A May day carnival is to be given by the students of the University of Montana. An automobile parade will be one of the features.

ARRA Interpreter of current events.

Mr. Morris as a lecturer reveals a pleasing personality. He talks along easily, illustrating his points either with a stroll humerous story or a remarkably well executed ink drawing. Unlike most artist-lecture, er, he uses ink and a brush instead of crayon, thus securing heavier, blacker lines and consequently a better effect for the spectators.

Mr. Morris sketched briefly the history of cartooning from antiquity to the present time. Then he commented on the great political cartoonists of different countries, dwelling on some length on the life and art of Thomas Nast, who single-handed, set out to destroy the Tweed Ring and did so. Then he explained the mechanical processes involved in the reproduction of cartoons, passing on to commenting humorously upon the many troubles the cartoonist encounters. Timeliness, he explained, is a prime requisite. The last associated press dispatch may make a cartoon involving hours of work, uttering nonsense. To explain how an artist manages to get out his daily cartoon week after week, month after month, and year after year, he told the story of the other, which, although ornamental, cannot climb trees, simply had to do so when chased by a dog.

Among the illustrations he made were the insignia of the Dins, administration, the Anglo-American friendship, an amusingly good Uncle Sam, R. R., and a sketch of himself saying, “I thank you!” as the conclusion. As he drew T. R., he explained that while the strenuous colonel was in the White House, the cartoonist led a life surrounded with care. Teddy did something every day. All the artist had to do was to roll in an easy chair until the latest word came from Washington, and then illustrate Teddy’s last exploit. Sketches drawn by Mr. Morris contained more detail than those of most artists who work before the spectators.

The audience was highly appreciative of Mr. Morris’s talk and drawings.
