I love football players are high in conference

Twenty-three Big Sky Athletic Conference Gridiron greats were named to the all-star team. All members, except for Boise State, are represented. Idaho State and Weber State each had two each and champion Montana, Idaho and Montana State had four each. New members Montana and Idaho and Terry Montana and both, Fred Rice, were named on the all-star offensive team while Determine and Tim Cover, tacklebacker, Jim Gamble were selected for berth on the defensive team. In consultation with the editors through Sam Idaho's Billy Sindall ahead behind Blanks in making of the year at 32 yards to 26 carries for an average of 49 yards per carry and 45 yards per game.

Spokane's Steve White, is building around place in passing and third place in rushing offense. He threw for 936 yards and 26 carries with 50 completions. He had been intercepted 15 times that has covered 50 passes and 45 yards per game.

Vandal hoopsters meet Toledo for away game

Coach Wayne Anderson's Vandal hoopsters will enter the season this year with an optimistic approach as they went last fall's games of last year's basketball season with ninth overall in the Big Sky Conference. The Vandal, now on their first medal round of the season, are again expected University of Toledo tonight and will meet Montana and Montana State Thursday and Friday night.

Dennis Prince, Jim Nelson and Marv Taylor are the Vandal's leading scorers. This season the Vandal's offense has finished with only 14 points per game each game last year. Prince, as well has been the leading scorer at guards for the last two seasons and is expected to do well this season. Coach Anderson stated that he is a good scorer and should also be an aggressive guard.

Mike Olson, Steve Bowerman, Leonard Ryan, Kevan Poole, Ron Adams, Adrian Price, John Nelson, Paul Nash, Dave Freeman, Bob House, among others, have been invited to the campus.

General Electric's been building bigger jet engines for 30 years. When are they going to start building cleaner jet engines?

Not many people know that General Electric started building jet engines in 1931, America's first jet engine. That jet produced only 1,200 pounds of thrust.

Today General Electric produces about 9,000 jet engines a year. The newest jet, the DC-10, produces around 30,000 pounds of thrust. In the early days of aviation, the biggest problem was thrust. But suddenly air is filled with jets. And, suddenly, propulsion is a major problem. General Electric, tackled this problem when building the DC-10 engines. And is overcoming this new thing.

When you see the DC-10 take to the air, you see one much more closely against the sky. Because the engines make relatively less noise now. Of course, there's a lot of jet exhaust than just sprout. Our goal is to someday to make jet engines not noisy.

Why are we doing this? To reduce emissions, reduce noise and reduce emissions.

The jet engine's efficiency is not essential.

General Electric is working to reduce the emissions of the engines with the highest emissions.

Wednesday meeting set to discuss proposed day care center

A meeting for those interested in organizing a day care center for preschoolers will be conducted Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the community center.

"This is an organizational and meeting time for those who are interested in organizing a day care center," according to Mrs. Colleen Bush, assistant director of interurban volunteerism.

Volunteers to handle matters such as interest meeting, deciding on hours and fees, finding a location and securing funds, will be needed. Bush expects to have the group start working towards finances needed, the bills.

We also need people to help
handle the registration procedures,
"Mrs. Bush commented.

The day care center would be provided governmental funds for preschool children and parents.

"If we get people working on it," she said, "we could build a facility ready available by March. We need people who are willing to volunteer their time."

Four alternative plans of action are under consideration by the volunteers, she explained. Bush, in charge of the project, plans to send an initial report to the mayor.

"There are lots of interesting problems to solve," she said.
