Several new buildings are being erected on the University of Idaho campus. Among the new projects are a student union, a new library building, a recreation center, and a new student union building. The new student union, designed by the national architectural firm of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, is expected to be completed in 1971.

The student union will be the central focal point of the campus, serving as a place for students to gather, study, and socialize. It will feature a large cafeteria, a bookstore, a movie theater, and a variety of other facilities. The building will be constructed of reinforced concrete and will have a total area of 150,000 square feet. The cost of the project is estimated to be $12 million.

The new library building, designed by the firm of Reber & Reber, will be the largest and most modern library in the state. It will feature a large reading room, a magazine and periodical room, a rare book room, and a special collections room. The building will be constructed of concrete and glass and will have a total area of 120,000 square feet. The cost of the project is estimated to be $8 million.

The new recreation center, designed by the firm of Hollett & Associates, will be a multi-purpose facility that will serve as a center for physical education and recreational activities. It will feature a large gymnasium, a swimming pool, a weight room, and a variety of other facilities. The building will be constructed of concrete and steel and will have a total area of 100,000 square feet. The cost of the project is estimated to be $6 million.

Abolish ROTC from campus

The Naval Officers Training Corps (N.O.T.C) on college campuses nationwide has been a focal point of student activity. It is a direct competitor in all aspects of a student's life. A young college student is caught in the crossfire of our society's values and is more likely to be influenced by the N.O.T.C. They use the influence they have to propagate the policies of the United States government.

If we believe in equal expression of opinion, we must recognize that the N.O.T.C. is not doing the only thing on college campuses. We can have a counter-statement to the N.O.T.C., if performed by students. Our government should have no role in our nation's colleges and universities.

The N.O.T.C. is a constant source of trouble. If we allow it to continue, we are allowing it to influence the minds of our young people.

Students, merchants wary

Despite rumors swirling about increased student prices on rents, food prices, and general expenses, the leadership of Moscow-based Moscow Weekly heard their town is in need of "business as usual."

"We're hearing from students that they're having difficulty finding housing and are concerned about cost of living in the town," said President W. J. Finn. "But we understand that businesses in Moscow have been doing well and that it's been a good year for the town." Finn added.

One concern raised by students was the possibility of liquor stores opening in town. "We're aware of the issue," Finn said. "We're working with the local government to ensure that any new liquor stores are located in appropriate areas and that they're regulated fairly." Finn added.

"We're concerned about the impact of these changes on our town. We're working with the businesses to ensure that they're able to continue doing business as usual," Finn concluded.

A new program designed to blend the values of traditional and business education will be launched this fall at the University of Idaho Business Student Thinking Corps, according to Col. Paul Paul, program director.

"This program will help students develop a better appreciation for the importance of business understanding in society," Paul said. "It will also help them prepare for the future by developing skills that are essential in today's business environment." Paul continued.

"The program will be divided into four main areas: business ethics, leadership, communication skills, and critical thinking." Paul added. "Students will be required to complete a series of assignments in each area, which will be evaluated by their instructors." Paul concluded.

Students want humane revolt

Students are demanding social and humane revolution and power must rest in the change. Dr. H. R. Harper, said that the leadership of the university must not ignore the students' demand. The university must be the leader in this movement, not the master, Harper said.

New swim pool opens October 1

The new University of Idaho swimming pool, which began operation last month, has already proved to be a hit with the student body.

The new pool, opened to the public on September 1, is located on the campus, and is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

The pool has a temperature of 84 degrees Fahrenheit, and is divided into three sections: a shallow area for children, a medium area for adults, and a deep area for experienced swimmers. It has a capacity of 2,500 people and is equipped with state-of-the-art safety features.

The pool is open to all members of the University community, including students, faculty, staff, and visitors. It is hoped that the pool will be a popular destination for recreational swimming, as well as a training facility for competitive swimmers.

Snyder looks for potential on new University golf course

When walking on the new University of Idaho golf course, which opened earlier this month, there are many things to see. There are the greens and fairways, the bunkers and water hazards, and the distant mountains. But for one person, there is one thing that stands out among all the others: the potential for a great player to emerge from the course.

This person is Coach Steve Snyder, the University's new golf coach. Snyder has high hopes for the potential of the new golf course, which he believes will attract talented players in the future.

"The golf course is a great opportunity," Snyder said. "It's the perfect setting for a university golf program, and I believe we can attract some great players here." Snyder goes on to mention the potential for a strong junior and senior class to develop on the new course.

"With the new golf course, we have the opportunity to attract some of the best junior and senior players in the state," Snyder said. "We are excited about the potential for the new golf course and the future of the University golf program."
Air Force defeats Idaho 45-7 as '70 season gets underway

By Chuck Malin
Associated sports editor

With a combination of a tough defense and the expert quarterbacking of Bob Parker, the Air Force Falcons defeated the Idaho Vandals 45-7 in nonconference football action at Colorado Springs. Air Force's quarterback was the game's MVP. Besides being named MVP, Parker ran for 331 yards in the game and scored four touchdowns. Air Force's other touchdowns were scored by quarterback Scott Clark and a touchdown pass to sophomore Randy Freeman.

On the touchdown pass, Clark threw the ball on or near the Idaho 30 and Parker made the perfect pass to Randy Freeman, who was in the endzone among a cluster of Idaho's Vandal defenders.

The Vandals went into the game with a 5-1 record and the Falcons went into the game with a 4-2 record.

The game started with a 75-yard punt return to the Idaho 27 by Idaho's Paul Mundschein.

On the opening kickoff, Parker returned the ball on or near the Idaho 24 and scored a touchdown from Idaho's 24.

The Vandals' scoring began with a 23-yard field goal by drug runner by Idaho.

The final score of the game was 45-7.

Kline lost for year due to knee injury

Don Kline, a sophomore from Idaho, was named Idaho's All-American football player for the season. Kline was named as the Idaho All-American football player.

The game was held on the Idaho campus.

Hartung says gifts must replace tax

For school growth

Reprinted from the Idaho Statesman

State's colleges will be hard pressed to accumulate money from the Legislature and others for any operations or programs than the $350,000 the Idaho State Board of Education's budgets are. Albert Hartung, president. Hartung said the state's colleges are cannot be expected to finance 100 percent of the administration and operations of the state colleges.

The board also approved plans for construction of a new student center at the University of Idaho. The student center was built on the campus of the University of Idaho.

The University of Idaho has a $30 million bond issue to be used for construction of a new student center. The bond issue was approved by the state's colleges.

The state college system is in the process of developing a new student center to be used for the construction of a new student center at the University of Idaho.

The student center will be a four-story building with 80,000 square feet of floor space.

The student center will be located in the middle of the campus and will be a focal point for student activities.

The student center will include a variety of facilities, including a cafeteria, a student union, a bookstore, and a auditorium.

The student center will be open to the public and will be used for a variety of purposes, including social events, cultural programs, and student organizations.

The student center is being constructed to meet the needs of the students and to provide a safer and more convenient place for them to meet.

The student center will be completed by the fall of 1975, and the bond issue will pay for the construction of the student center.

The student center will be a major addition to the campus and will provide a much-needed facility for the students.

The student center is an important project for the state college system and will be a valuable asset to the University of Idaho.

The student center is being constructed with funds from the Idaho State Bond Fund.
